Rogers Sights No Farm Relief Before Or After Elections

(Special To The News)

OCALA, Fla., March 20. — Did you read Senator Capper's appeal to the Republican party "to please clean up before election?"

He intimated that they could get back to normal after election, but to kinder lay off till some of this bad blown over.

Now that's not an unreasonable demand to make of a party, to remain decent one year out of four.

The farmers not only didn't get any relief during this administration, but they don't seem to have got any of the relief handed out before the election.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

E. Lin Dilks, New Castle entry in the coast to coast marathon, is still keeping up with the leaders in the grind. He has been advancing toward the top during the past few days and appears to be standing the long strain well. The leader for the first 550 miles was compelled to drop out yesterday, so that Dilks gained several hours elapsed time as a result.

Plans for the airport on the Harlansburg road are coming right along. A meeting was held last night to further complete plans for the project. Financial backing is being given the venture by leading citizens of this city. The plane at the auto show is to be used at this airport.

Why not some public tennis courts at Cascade Park. Pa Newc believes that this would prove an attractive move on the part of the management at this local resort. They could be fitted up without great expense, and would provide recreation for many.

The romance of radio—or "wireless" as it was called in the good old days—is said to have died with the advent of the radio broadcasting station. However, DX fans will do most anything to bring in a station just a trifle more distant than any that his neighbors have succeeded in logging. On Water street there lives a man who says he has a perfect ground. Out of his window he has thrown a wire, on the end of which there is any amount of iron stuff. And the end is deeply submerged in the Neshannock. Which is a perfect ground, he says.

If enthusiasm can be taken as any criterion of success, then the Automobile Show, to be held at the Scottish Rite Cathedral Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week is sure to be one of the best ever held in New Castle. All of the 15 exhibitors are enthusiastic, and all are sure that it will be a marked success. Almost 90 cars will be exhibited, representing a total cash value of in the neighborhood of $115,000.

And speaking of enthusiasm, it is very nice to go into the New Castle Public Library just after they have had a record day in circulation. Everyone is booming the library, promising great things which are to be done in the future.

The South Side branch is almost ready to be opened, say officials at the library. For the past few weeks, books have been received almost daily and as fast as possible, they are being catalogued and numbered, and taken down to the new location at 1209½ South Mill street. Down there, work has been almost completed, furnishings have been ordered, and it will be but a week or two at the most before the branch is opened.

Many of the New Castle radio audience heard Lindy receive the Woodrow Wilson medal in New York last night. From this distance it didn't appear that there is much more pep in a New York banquet than in some of those that take place in this community, in fact not as much as most of them.

It is rather incongruous these mornings to come down town and while enroute hear the spring birds singing

Council Takes Initial Step To Poll Sentiment

Bond Issue To Be Put Up To Voters At April Election, Is Plan

NEEDED FOR STREET WORK AND SEWERS

Amount Of Issue Proposed Is Not Yet Fixed By Council

Council today passed a motion fathered by Councilman William T. Burns instructing Solicitor R. M. White to prepare the necessary legislation which will result in the taxpayers at the spring election saying whether or not the city should issue bonds to carry out sewer and street improvements recommended here.

At the present time the city has outstanding bonds amounting to $1,045,000 and the assessed valuation is $56,682,810. The city is allowed to issue two per cent of this amount in bonds without a vote of the people, and this, according to the valuation, would amount to $1,133,656.20. The present bonding limit is $88,656.20.

This amount is not sufficient, according to Councilman Burns, to carry out the recommendations of Fuller & McClintock and the Morris Knowles Company, relative to sewer and street improvements, hence Burns motion instructing the solicitor to provide for the legislation which will

DEATH IS SHOCK TO MANY FRIENDS

In the death this morning of Dr. Howard DeWoody Taylor, aged 33, prominent dentist, after an illness of ten days due to pneumonia, his many friends, associates and the people of the city generally received a shock, few people knowing of his serious illness. His death occurred this morning at 5:45 o'clock at the family residence, 235 Sheridan avenue.

Dr. Taylor was born at Emlenton, Pa., July 10, 1894, the son of John A. and Sara DeWoody Taylor. He was graduated from the dental school of the University of Pittsburgh in 1915. He was a member of the Delta Sigma Delta fraternity of that institution.

He came to this city 12 years ago, establishing a practice of dentistry, in which he became one of the leading members of the profession here. A leader in the advancement of his chosen profession, he was honored recently by election to the post of president of the Lake Erie Dental association and he was also a past president of the New Castle Dental association.

He was married 12 years ago to Rachel Pollock, daughter of the late Dr. J. K. and Ella N. Pollock.

Dr. Taylor was active in fraternal, World war and civic organizations of the city, being a charter member of Perry S. Gaston post, American Legion, a charter member of the Kiwanis club and a member of the Knights of Malta.

During the World war he served as a first lieutenant in the United States army, seeing extensive service. He was a member of the First Christian church.

He leaves to mourn his loss his wife, Rachel Pollock Taylor; three children, Maxine Dewoody, Verna Mae and David Pollock Taylor; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John A. Taylor; two brothers, Dr. T. M. Taylor and Dr. C. E. Taylor of Pittsburgh, and his grandfather, Thomas Taylor of Emlenton, Pa.

Spring Shivers Slightly As She Makes Debut

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., March 20. —Spring shivered slightly as she stepped over the Pennsylvania border into a sea of slush, early today. A chill wind blew from the mountains where more than a foot of snow lay waiting for a heavy rain or a few warm days to send it tumbling toward this section in the form of flood water. She pulled her white robes closer about her and attempted a few figures of a spring dance, but the ice hurt her feet.

On and on she went kissing the buds on the trees, and watching with satisfaction as they began to take on new life. The sun slipped into view, clear, but cold.

Governor Fisher To Meet Probers

Will Go To Washington To Give Testimony In Senate Coal Inquiry

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 20.—Governor John S. Fisher will go to Washington to testify before the senate sub-committee investigating the bituminous situation, in response to an invitation by Senator Watson, committee chairman, it was understood on Capital Hill today.

The governor said after a long distance telephone conversation with Senator Watson that he had asked the latter to put his invitation in writing, but promised to give the matter prompt consideration.

Before Senator Watson's telephone call, it had been known that the governor was nettled by reports that Senator Gooding, of Idaho, had demanded the Pennsylvania governor be subpoenaed to testify because of Governor Fisher's statements about the committee's work in the Western Pennsylvania investigation.

Those close to the governor believe he will accept Senator Watson's invitation to appear before the committee.

Hunt Missing School Teacher At Charleroi

POLICE INSTIGATE INTENSIVE SEARCH

(International News Service)

CHARLEROI, Pa., March 20.—Authorities here today widened their search for Miss Hazel Bell Linn, 31, teacher in the high school here, who has been missing since Thursday morning.

What police believe may be the strongest clue in finding the missing school teacher pointed to New York, home of a commercial cooking school, whose advertisement, clipped from a paper, was found in Miss Linn's room. Officials in New York have been asked to cooperate.

Lives in Mercer County.

Failure to appear at her classes Thursday was followed by a letter of resignation Friday morning, signed by Miss Linn. The letter stated "because my work has become quite inefficient I wish to resign." Prof. L. T. Pollock, superintendent of Charleroi schools, declared Miss Linn was extremely efficient nad entirely satisfactory.

The school teacher's account at a bank here has not been removed. The last sign of her trail was at Connellsville, where a check for $1 to "John W. Minor" was cashed. Police secured nothing from this clue thus far but still conducted their investigation in Connellsville.

The young woman's father, J. L. Linn, arrived here from Espyville, Mercer county, to assist authorities.

Miss Linn has lived at the home of Mrs. Thomas Owens while teaching here during the last three years. Mrs. Owens, school teachers and other friends of the missing young woman could give no reason for her sudden disappearance. No one had detected anything extraordinary or strange in her actions.

Swick Will Make Flight With Lindy

By GEORGE H. MANNING,
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 20.—Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls, will fly over Washington with Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh next Thursday morning.

The Beaver Falls congressman was one of the first members of the House to accept the famous flyer's invitation to all congressmen and senators to take a flight with him this week.

Colonel Lindbergh will not use his famed Spirit of St. Louis in taking up the lawmakers as that plane is not equipped to carry passengers, but will use a large army monoplane having a cabin large enough to carry six or eight passengers.

The first to accept Colonel Lindbergh's invitation was Speaker Nicholas Longworth. It will be Speaker Longworth's second airplane ride.

Five-Year-Old Youngster Shot By Companion

ACCIDENT OCCURS ON EAST LUTTON ST.

Police Investigate Unusual Shooting Case Last Night

In one of the most unusual shooting cases ever reported here, more especially because of the fact that the principals in the affair, which was apparently accidental, are but little more than babies, Mike Cioppa, aged about five years, was severely wounded in the left arm between the elbow and shoulder and in the left side by a 38 calibre bullet fired from the revolver in the hands of Anthony Rozzi, aged 5½ years, about 3:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. The shooting occured in the Rozzi home, rear 309 East Lutton street.

Boy Will Recover

The condition of the wounded boy, who was removed to the New Castle hospital following the shooting, was today reported as being good. There is every hope for his complete recovery, although an X-Ray taken for the purpose of finding the bullet, has failed to locate it.

Immediately following the removal of the Cioppa boy to the hospital, the little Anthony Rozzi disappeared and the police were unable to locate him for the purpose of questioning him in regard to the shooting.

A few hours later, the father James Rozzi appeared at the police station with the boy, who was questioned by Detective C. G. Logan. The little fellow told of securing the revolver from a shelf of a clothespress and having to use a chair to get it. He stated there had been no quarrel and according to the police, the little fellow must have pulled the trigger without knowledge of having done so. He was placed in the custody of his father pending the outcome of the injuries of the other boy.

Police Answer Call

Call to the effect that a boy had been shot was received by the police about 3:30 o'clock and Captain J. Ed Elder and Officer Thomas Lynch answered, going to the rear of 309 East Lutton street, where the shooting occured.

According to the officers, Anthony Rozzi, aged about 5½ a younger brother and Mike Cioppa, aged 5 years were playing in a second floor

Dilks Moves Up In Coast Derby

In Fourteenth Place When Racers Started On Today's Lap

NEWTON DROPS OUT MONDAY AFTERNOON

By LELAND C. LEWIS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WINSLOW, Ariz., March 20.—Earl Dilks, of New Castle, Pa., stood fourteenth among the leaders today in the coast-to-coast road race as they started for Holbrook, the seventeenth control. The runners had completed 575-7 miles from Los Angeles. Dilks elapsed time at the start was 122:44:45. Andrew Payne, of Claremore, Okla., the leader, has elapsed time of 99:16:57.

HOLBROOK, Ariz., March 20.—"There were ninety-nine and I was one hundred," Arthur Newton, the Rhodesian ramblers, declared as C. C. ("Cross-Country") Pyle's New York-bound runners and walkers advanced to their seventeenth control at Holbrook, thirty-three miles from Winslow, today.

Newton, who led the van of the "bunion derby" through the 551.6 miles from Los Angeles to Two Gun Camp only to have his legs collapse six miles east of there en route to Winslow, was deeply moved as he witnessed the ninety-nine rehabilitated athletes start their daily grind.

"Strange coincidence, wasn't it," Newton queries. We had 199 starters in Los Angeles on Sunday, March 4, then desert and mountain took their toll, and when we started Monday

VIENNA HAILS HER AS PRODIGY

Miss Pescha Kagan, daughter of Mrs. Sarah Kagan, of Washington, Pa., has been acclaimed, in Vienna, Austria, as a remarkable pianist. She expects to remain in Europe for a year or more to continue her studies. In America, she studied in Cincinnati, O., and in New York City.

Kegarise Will Arrive Here This Afternoon In Plane, He Wires

"Arrived in Davenport, Iowa. Everything O. K. Averaged 100 miles an hour today. Will be home Tuesday afternoon."

Such was the message received last night about eight o'clock by Mrs. R. R. Kegarise of Winter avenue, wife of the head of the Kegarise Air Transport Company, who is en route here from Denver, Colorado, with Lieutenant Jack Morris of Pittsburgh with the new plane of the local concern.

It is approximately six hundred miles from Davenport, Iowa, to this city, and at the rate of speed maintained Monday with the new airplane it will be but a matter of six hours to make the trip here.

This would indicate that Mr. Kegarise and Lieutenant Morris should arrive here rather early this afternoon, depending, of course, on the time that they leave Davenport. They will land near the entrance to the field club on the Wilmington road.

Handicapped since their first effort to start last week on account of rather unfavorable weather conditions, Messrs. Kegarise and Morris have been making excellent lapsed time since they got well under way.

Contracts Are Let For Small Bridges

John Byers Of This City Is Lowest Bidder Of Structure Over Leonard's Run

Contracts for two bridges in North Beaver township were let Monday afternoon when representatives of the state, the township and county commissioners met at the Mehard storeroom on the New Castle-Beaver road.

Contract for the largest bridge, which is to be built over Leonard's run, near Moravia, was let to John Byers of this city at his bid of $5,619. There were eight other bidders, showing that there is plenty of competition in the bridge building business. The other bids were as follows: W. F. Ferry, $5,729.29; Anderson & Minteer of New Wilmington, $7,500; P. J. Scanlon of this city, 6,950; Cage Bros., $8,215; a man named Cales, $9,694.66; Frank Woods, $7,491; Robinson Construction company, $6,634.69; Thompson company, $9,200.

A small bridge or culvert over a branch of Honey creek was let to W. F. Ferry of this city for $825.

On the Leonard run bridge the county will pay $1500, and the state will pay one-half the total cost, the township paying the other half, less the $1500 from the county.

Woman Is Killed By Auto Driver On Butler Road

Driver Escapes And Body Is Discovered By Robert McMinn, New Castle

STATE POLICE ON HUNT FOR DRIVER

Woman Who Was Killed Is Mrs. Mary Brown, 76, Of Butler County

Body of Mrs. Mary Ellen Brown, aged 76, of Hooker, Butler county, terribly mangled and maimed, the victim of a hit-and-run motorist, was found about nine o'clock last night on the Butler-New Castle improved highway, this side of Mt. Chestnut and near Prospect, by Robert McMinn, 414 Park avenue, a clerk in the post office, as he was en route home from a visit with relatives in Butler.

As Mr. McMinn was driving along the road he noticed the body in the highway, thinking it was a man. He turned around and went back and discovered that it was that of Mrs. Brown.

Hunt Driver

Going to a farm house in the vicinity, he got in touch with the state police at Butler and awaited their arrival. The body was removed to Butler and the state police at once instituted a search for the unknown motorist who, striking and killing Mrs. Brown, left her mangled body lying in the snow-covered highway.

Mr. McMinn will return to Butler this evening for the inquest.

On examination of the body of Mrs. Brown it was found that she had sustained a broken neck, a fractured skull and a broken right leg and arm.

The authorities are making every possible effort to run down and apprehend the hit-and-run motorist responsible for the death of the aged woman.

Anxiety Felt For William C. Sproul, Is Seriously Ill

(International News Service)

CHESTER, Pa., March 20.—Anxiety was felt today for ex-Governor William C. Sproul, who was reported to have had some restless nights recently after having been ill for several weeks. He had shown a marked improvement until within the last day or two.

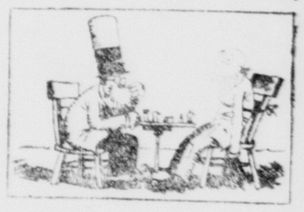
Arthur Mometer



You may have passed the winter through without a single sneeze, you may have had no hacking cough, nor wheezed a rusty wheeze, but March is still parked in our lap, a dangerous time of year, and as you step out on the street, it's well to have some fear for germs that float upon the breeze, containing Spanish flu, and they are waiting for a chance to wreak their wrath on you. Keep bundled up around the neck, and keep your woolen hose, and do not get some wild idea about your summer clothes. Those rubbers you can wear a while, and let the muffler stay, for March is here, so have a fear, it's thirty-four today.

Official Probe Of Dam Disaster Opens In California Today

Will Investigate Broken St. Francis Dam For Negligence In Workmanship

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES March 20.—The official state inquiry into the St. Francis dam disaster which cost the lives of approximately 250 persons was scheduled to open today.

The special commission of five engineers, headed by A. J. Wiley of the United States Reclamation Service having completed organization will go to the site of the demolished dam in San Francisquito Canyon today to make a first hand survey.

The question of personal responsibility it was stated, will arise at the inquest which is to be held tomorrow over the dead of Los Angeles county.

District Attorney Asa Keyes signified his intention of co-operating with Coroner Nace at the inquest. He has already declared that he will prosecute anyone believed to have been criminally negligent in the construction of the giant dam.

"Well, if it isn't the little lady herself," he beamed and his smile widened. Slowly at first and then not so slowly spring began to feel more at home.

The temperature rose from a mere 26 degrees above to nearly 35 degrees, the slush began to fade away. Spring has come to Western Pennsylvania.

But the prosaic weatherman, has his own explanation. The warmer weather is due, he said, to the prevailing temperature of between 20 and 30 degrees in the northwest and the warming up of the section west of here.

CHIMNEY BURNS OUT

An alarm from box 33 last night at 10:25 o'clock called the firemen to the home of Angelo DeRosa, 1131 Dewey avenue, where it was found that the chimney was burning out. There was no property loss.

room of the Rozzi home. Anthony Rozzi secured a thirty-eight calibre revolver from the shelf of a clothespress by using a chair. In some manner, as they were playing around, the revolver was discharged. The bullet went through his left arm and then into his left side. He was rushed to the New Castle hospital.

Secure Revolver

The officers secured the revolver from Mrs. Rozzi on their visit to the Rozzi home and it was found to contain three loaded shells and one that had been discharged.

The little fellow responsible for the shooting could not be found on that visit of the officers and the father promised to bring the little fellow to the police station as soon as he had located him. This was done and the authorities secured data which proves beyond a shadow of doubt that the shooting was accidental.

The boys reside in houses in the rear of 309 East Lutton street, and have been playmates for some time.

there were 100 stout-hearted men left. I fell by the wayside, but the throng is carrying on with a spirit that will not be downed."

Believe Some Will Finish

The Britisher from Central Africa will continue with the Pyle caravan in the capacity of official adviser for the runners. He will traverse the route daily in one of the patrol cars, offering counsel to men as well as giving them nightly and morning advice on conditioning, stride and pace setting.

"Forming notions of physical stamina have been exploded," Newton said. "The fact that 99 men have conquered that which in the past has proven unsurmountable is nothing short of a miracle. Men who a week ago hobbled on canes or improvised crutches are carrying on.

From now on the casualties should not be more than one man every two days. That will leave a field of more than thirty men for the sprint stretch between Chicago and New York."

Hugo Quist, physical director of the race and the man who brought Paavo Nurmi to the United States a couple of years ago, believes that forty men will be battling to the last for the $48,500 pot of gold that Pyle has hung up for the first ten men to reach the Yankee stadium, New York.

"Yes, the worst is over," Quist said in short staccato sentences. "The men get stronger each day. Fighting hearts make real comebacks. I think that forty will go through."

Andrew Payne, second to Newton for several days past, stepped into the leadership in the grind with an edge of 1 hour 6 minutes 58 seconds over Arne Souminen, Detroit medico.

NEW CASTLE AUTO SHOW TO OPEN ON THURSDAY

open, and salesmen from all of the companies represented in the show will be present to explain each model to the audience.

In decorations the display will lack nothing. Southern smilax will be used extensively, intertwined with seasonable flowers, the whole effect heightened by potted palms.

In fact, the whole show will be strictly New Castle. None of the committee have gone out of the city for any of the talent which will appear in connection with the event.

Airplane on Display.

Perhaps the chief feature of the affair will be the showing of one of the latest model airplanes, owned by Jack Crowl. The machine, an American Eagle, is a late '28 model and the 22nd plane of its type to be turned out of the factories located at Kansas City, Mo. It will carry two passengers besides the pilot and is capable of a speed exceeding 100 miles an hour. When facing the wind the machine will take off in 60 feet of the point of rest.

Throughout the show, a pilot will be with the machine to explain its air worthiness to patrons.

Officer to Explain Law.

Patrolman Zeitler of the Butler barracks, state highway patrol, will also be on hand throughout the show, through the courtesy of the state highway department, to explain the focussing of headlights and to answer any questions on the new motor code which became effective January 1, 1928. Representatives from an automobile insurance underwriting company will also be on hand to tell about the various types of insurance which are available to motorists.

People from Ellwood City, Butler, Sharon, Mercer, Grove City and Youngstown have been invited to attend the show and the general committee feels confident that many of the residents of the surrounding towns will avail themselves of the opportunity.

Over $100,000 Value.

The value of the 88 cars which will be on display truly is astounding, James Cope, one of the members of the committee, in making a rough estimate, declares that the total value of the automobiles alone, exclusive of the airplane and accessories, will run between $110,000 and $115,000.

The committee as a whole, and especially to Joe Rick the general chairman, will go much of the credit for the show's success. His work has been untiring.

The entertainment, which is entirely local, will consist of orchestras, singers, dancers and comedians. Entertainment will be continuous thruout the show.

The committee from the Automobile Dealers association which has charge of the show is: Joe Rick, general chairman; L. R. King, in charge of entertainment; Anthony Marino, decorations; L. C. Johns, placing of cars; Frank Phillips, placing of accessory booths, and James Cope, advertising.

CARS DAMAGED IN SLIGHT COLLISION

Automobile accidents reported over night at the police station include the following.

The car of Sam DeStefano, 510 Canyon street, in going out of the West Gasoline service station on Croton avenue, hit the car of John R. Wimer, 304 Vine street. Both machines were damaged.

John Meyers of Cleveland, O. reported that while his machine was parked on West Long avenue between Scioto and Moravia streets, that a car bearing Pennsylvania license 524-469 going east on West Long avenue, struck and damaged his car.

MOTHER CONFESSES—MAY FREE SON

Who killed Bertha Katz? That is the question once settled in court trial that may have to be reopened. Morris Reisler (below), now in Sing Sing prison serving 20 years to life was convicted in 1922 of the murder of his aunt, Bertha Katz (right). In a sworn confession just made, the prisoner's mother, Mrs. Minnie Reisler (left), declares that she and not her son was the real murderer.

let the taxpayers decide the question.

Action Taken

WHEREAS, after an exhaustive investigation and survey, Messrs. Fuller & McClintock determined that certain sewers in the City of New Castle Penna., were overloaded and recommended either the reconstruction of these sewers or the construction of relief sewers, which should be done at as early a date as possible in order to prevent flooding of the streets which occurs at frequent intervals. The estimated cost of these sewers or relief sewers is in the neighborhood of $450,000. And further they recommend that certain storm sewers should be constructed to take care of the surface water, which would amount to a considerable sum of money.

WHEREAS, the Morris Knowles Company has made a survey of the traffic conditions of the city, and recommend as a relief for this congestion the widening of certain streets and the building and laying out of sections of new streets, which will require a considerable amount of money to construct.

WHEREAS, at the present time the city has outstanding bonds amounting to $1,045,000. The assessed valuation of all the property, real estate, personal and mixed, is $56,682,810. The 2 per cent that the city is allowed upon which to issue bonds without a vote of the people would be $1,133,656.20 on the above valuations. Subtracting from this amount the outstanding bonds at the present time, our bonding limit is $88,656.20.

WHEREAS, this amount is not sufficient to carry out the recommendations of the above mentioned firms, be it therefore resolved that the City Solicitor be directed to prepare an ordinance or ordinances that may be necessary to submit to the voters of the City of New Castle either at the primary election the desire of the people that bonds should be issued to provide for the carrying out of the recommendations of the emergencies above mentioned.

All of the forty dead on the S-4 have been found, identified and sent to their homes or to national cemeteries in flag-draped caskets. ASKS OFFICER WHERE HE CAN GET DRINK

Sergeant D. T. Nelson has a rather unusual experience as a police officer Monday afternoon.

He was walking along at North and East streets, when a man, apparently under the influence of liquor accosted him thus "Can you tell me where I can get a drink of liquor?"

Surprised that he should be accosted in this manner, Sergeant Nelson lost no time however and said "Sure, come along with me".

The man followed without hesitancy. It was but a short time, until he was reposing behind the bars at the city police station.

This morning, his honor, Mayor William H. Gillespie assessed him $5 on a charge of drunkenness. He paid.

Senator Norris renewed his demand for an inquiry into the financing of the Copley newspapers in Illinois and California in connection with the commission's investigation of the power trust, and it is considered unlikely that the main trail will be lost sight of while this phase is gone into.

merrily in the trees, and at the same time hear the crunch of snow underfoot. And by the way, spring officially comes in at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

There are still a number of holes in the paving on East Washington street near the public square, made by excavations recently, that have not been properly repaired.

One of the traffic problems that no rules have as yet been printed about is that of who is responsible for the auto splashing that results when a car drives along the street and hits a pool of water in the street. Usually it's the pedestrian that has to do the safety first movements if he would escape a sudden shower.

Officer Thomas Jones, located at Mill and Washington streets, declares that there is a depression in the paving near the safety zone where east side cars are boarded that should be repaired. Any kind of a rain or thaw leaves pools of water standing in the street that means pedestrians are going to be splashed he says.

SALVAGING OF THE SUBMARINE S-4

THE SLOW and solemn voyage of the salvaged submarine S-4 to safe harbor and drydock at Boston was like a funeral cortege, and rightly; for this ship was the tomb of forty men, and the bodies of eight of them were still aboard her, sealed in the forward compartment where they bravely died by inches, tapping messages to the rescue parties who vainly sought to save them.

Many incidents attending that agonizing effort to raise the S-4, and rescue the men who remained alive in her for days, seemed to add needlessly to the futile horror of the tragedy; and the Navy came in for scathing criticism. But, whatever may have been the failures of the actual effort at life saving, the salvage of this ship reflects credit on the divers and the surface forces which took over the work from the hands of Rear Admiral Brumby and carried it to completion with remarkable speed and efficiency.

This submarine is probably the largest which has ever been salvaged; and the work was complicated by bitter winter weather conditions at the tip of Cape Cod, by the depth, and by tidal and other current complications which multiplied the difficulties. Chains were slung under and around the sub, great hollow drums on pontoons were filled with water, sunk, and attached to the chains and then they were pumped out along with the submarine compartments which remained unbroken by the collision with the Coast Guard destroyer Paulding. That brought her to the surface.

The opening of the S-4 and her examination after she was placed in drydock was the final essential chapter in this tragedy. Nearly every man aboard her, if not all of them, survived the collision with the Paulding. How long those in the various compartments lived and how they came to their deaths still remains something of a mystery. What is learned by raising and inspection of the S-4 should prove of great value as lessons for the avoidance of such a disaster in the future.

44 MILES AT 39 YEARS

CLARENCE DE MAR, thirty-nine years old, has just won the forty-four-mile race from Providence to Boston, his time of 5 hours, 47 minutes and 30 seconds breaking all records for the distance. And thus once more the oldsters have a chance to gloat, as they always have when the tape is broken on a long-distance run. For some reason not at all clear, age seems to be an actual advantage in this sport.

This is a fact well known to runners, although the lay public never manages to remember it very long. Nurmi, for example, is said to have made his plans for many years ahead. As long as his phenomenal speed holds out, he will continue as a middle-distance runner. Then, when he begins to slow down, he will gradually extend his distance, relying on this curious stamina which age seems to confer. Then, when he is in his late thirties, he will become a marathon runner and continue to be the star of Olympic games until his hair turns white and rheumatism lays him low.

So those who get cold shivers down the back at the news that Paul Berlenbach is burnt out at twenty-seven, that Red Grange is stale at twenty-five, can take heart, suggests the World. There are other things less strenuous than boxing and football. Any man, until his hair turns white, can look forward to being a long-distance runner.

YEARNINGS AND EARNINGS

THE SAFEST rule of thrift and economy—and therefore of practical business—is to keep the yearnings within the earnings. This applies not only to the individual's income and expenditures, but to the business concern and government, whether state or municipal or national as well.

A man who makes a dollar a day and saves a quarter is a better financial risk than one who makes 20 dollars a day and spends 25.

And the individual or concern which guards the expenditures so they are always within the income is more times than not the man or the concern that steadily increases the income. Niggardliness and parsimony is absent from real economy. It is generally good business to expend liberally rather than in a niggardly manner. Thrift is not in denying the necessary expenditures which must be made if there is to be development and healthy growth.

The elimination of waste, the careful inspection of expenditures to locate leaks, the system that knows where the money goes and that it gets value in return—that is the principle of economics which always accompanies the ability to increase steadily the sources of income.

THE MAIL ON YOUR DESK

THE AVERAGE American wrote 114 letters and spent $4.69 for postage, in 1927. That is a little more than two a week. The nation used more than 22 billion stamps or items of stamped paper, such as postcards and stamped envelopes.

That is a vast volume of mail, but its very vastness is one big reason why this is a united country. The man in Maine writes to his friend in Georgia, and the woman in Minnesota writes to her sister in New Mexico, and thus between all sections intimate news of the viewpoints and aspirations and troubles of all flows, and mutual understanding results.

It is the life of business. It keeps goods produced in any one locality speeding to another locality which needs them.

Everything about it is merely additional proof that the mail service is one thing which should and must be at the highest state of efficiency.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:12. Sun rises tomorrow 6:02.

Isn't it funny how the man who likes to feast his eyes on a beautifully dressed woman will raise cain every time his wife wants to invest in a little high class scenery. He must belong to the class that crashes the gate and sees the show for nothing.

Here's another just as funny. There's a fellow in this town, who was divorced a year ago, who is now very busily engaged in an effort to get married again. His only excuse is that "he wants to get vindicated." No doubt he'll get everything that is coming to him.

It's reported that birth regulation is making progress in all parts of Europe with the exception of Italy. And strange to say, Mussolini, the strong man of that country, whose main claim to fame is the fact that he maintains a right to control everything, is violently opposed to birth control. Not so strange, either, because he knows that it's numbers that count, when it comes to running most any country.

Another way to remember the number of years since the war is to count the increased number of inches in the veteran's belt.

Senator Borah has suggested that Harry Sinclair be paid back by means of one-dollar subscriptions. In that case it might be well for some good fellow to step forward with a half a million dollars in bonds as a basis for that many dollar contributions.

It is at least gratifying to know that there is something on which European countries are said to be a unit and can agree. And that is nothing more or less than the several reasons advanced by Lord Cecil as to why an American is unpopular in that part of the world. There is also several reasons why America might feel inclined to dislike the European nations, the principal one of which, is their general tendency to want to repudiate their honest debts to this country.

There's an insurance agent, whom we decline to name, who puts out advertising matter something like this: Get your hunting license; get your marriage license and get insurance from me. He sure has everything the average man needs.

It wouldn't be so bad if the young people spent all their time trying to have a good time, if it only was a GOOD time they were having.

They say that love levels all things—and too often that is just what marriage does to love.

There is a certain Wall street operator credited with a net profit of from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 and that he is taking his success calmly. They say there is a reason and that is because he was formerly a theatre ticket agent and is accustomed to large figures.

Have you stopped to think of the fact that Harry Sinclair is reported to have been carrying around a roll that may yet turn out to be big enough to choke an elephant. It isn't necessarily sour grapes that would prompt the suggestion that there is a certain donkey, that wouldn't mind being choked in the same way.

Most of the criticism regarding our Nicaraguan policy seems to be based on that provision of the proposed Nicaraguan election law, which provides that if Sandino fails to register, that he will not be permitted to vote.

And now the English would return to the Penny postage, which prevailed before the World War. It is contended that there would be an increase of revenue in spite of the apparent tendency toward a loss and that the return of penny postage would even mean increased employment. At least the argument in favor of it is in line with present day ideals, that the cheaper a thing is, if useful, the greater will become its use.

Did you ever stop to think, how in the present day process of consolidation of newspapers, that there will soon be enough former editors to run all the courts, universities, churches and other activities of the country. And when they do, look out.

If getting money is success, every man is a failure. No man has yet got all of it.

All the white man wants to do in the Orient is to take orders and give orders.

The self-confidence you teach a boy goes to his head; that he learns by himself goes to his backbone.

His Highness the Prince of Wales just about sets the standard for everything successful in the British Empire. But it's said that he has taken a step too far in advance and that is the fact that he wore turned up trousers with a tail coat. It's one style he has sponsored, that is not generally approved. As far as we're concerned, it doesn't mean a thing to us.

It's easy to rate a scientist: the less cocksure he is, the more he knows.

KEEP ON TOOTING

If you toot your little tooter
And lay away your horn.
Within a week there's not a soul
Will know that you were born.

The fellow who is on the job
A-goin' every day.
And keeps forever at it,
He's the one who makes it pay.

It's a rule that seldom fails: The longer the courtship, the longer the marriage.

Now we read of the fact that the Italian government has purchased two famous papers published in Naples and reputed to have the largest circulation of any papers in Southern Italy. One of them is to become the principal organ of the Fascista party, which apparently means the Italian government. And we have no reason to think otherwise, if we note the daily happenings in that country.

We note with regret that noted French churches, which had great historical significance, have either been demolished or are about to be. And the worst of it is that one of them is to be replaced by a moving picture theatre.

Western methods of scholarship are rapidly overshadowing the former methods of scholarship prevailing in India. There is little reason to believe that the change will not be beneficial to India, although eliminating much of the glamor and interest that has attached itself to the learning and habits of that country in the past. Modern educational methods can at least be said to be for the whole mass of the people rather than for the few and that in itself is sufficient reason why it should prevail.

Some Americans still hate England, but when a normal boy becomes a man he outgrows his desire to lick the teacher.

Modern Turkey's emancipation from the wornout customs of orthodox Islam is quite evident today. The government control of church is such that a resident of Turkey today may practice religion in accordance with the dictates of his conscience. There is much to be said of the change, that it will mean the survival of the fittest in the matter of religion.

Now we learn that the hut in San Antonio in which O. Henry, whose real name was Sidney Porter, labored amid poverty to become a famous writer, has been demolished to make way for a street widening project. That is one phase of American life that is regrettable, that we do not have some means of perpetuating the memory of those who have made real contributions to the life of the country.

The worst state in the Union, according to the American Civil Liberties Union, with regard to attacks on the right of free speech, press and assemblage is Pennsylvania. In fact, that organization would have Pennsylvanians designated as being intolerant. Be that as it may, we note with interest that there are some ten millions of Americans who find it mighty handy to live in such a state, and that the greater majority seem satisfied to remain within its jurisdiction.

The province of Quebec, Canada, is taking steps to protect its wonderful forests. It's a move in the right direction and it mesns a supply of lumber in the years to come that would not be available had the same course been followed in Quebec that has, unfortunately, prevailed in the greater part of our great country.

One way to make both ends meet is to tie them together. Then there would never be any end. Generally speaking, a wedding ring is a good example.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE

An American girl at her wedding to an Indian rajah wore $2,000,000 worth of jewelry, including a diamond nose ring. Her husband was painted yellow for part of the ceremony in accordance with Hindu rites.

This young woman perhaps would have been happier had she thought less about dress, about things put on the outside of the body, and more about developing thought in the inside of the head.

A seat on the New York Stock Exchange has been sold for $320,000. At that price the eleven hundred seats on the stock exchange are worth $352,000,000. Last Saturday stocks was sold at the rate of 1,000,000 shares an hour in spite of the time saving devices the ticker was twenty-five minutes behind the speculators.

There are ups and downs in birds, elevators and stocks, but be careful how you bet on the "down" side in stocks when wages and spending ability in a country move up fifty to seventy-five per cent and manufacturers can make thirty-three men do the work of a hundred. Selling short in America isn't a safe pastime.

Ask some of the bears. You say "some things are to "high." Certainly, some things are always too high. But some of them that are too high will go higher. There is one stock now, well above $400 a share but not too high that will go some day to heights that will make the owners dizzy.

The writer by the way hasn't any of that, or other high priced stock, and can look at things impartially.

Lloyd George takes seriously the "holy war" started by Mohammedans against British rule or domination in Asia and Africa. Lloyd George says it is interesting to reflect "that this trouble has arisen in two countries, which were powerfully and highly civilized empires at a time when even the existence of Great Britain was scarcely known."

If Mohammedans have made up their minds to exterminate hertics and infidels, meaning Europeans, that will mean trouble for the British of course. But since the great empires of Asia and Africa have faded away, British gentlemen that used to hide in swamps, and paint their stomachs blue, with woad, have learned to fly, distributing poison gas and annoying explosives. Those will play a part in calming the Holy War. A holy war, on the ground has little chance against war from the sky.

You are reminded that modern big business is really big. Read that Chevrolet, one branch of General Motors, will pay this year $34,000,000 for railroad freight.

Without wishing sorrow for railroads, something might be done to diminish automobile freight. A Chevrolet car on the Pacific coast $116 freight, from the factory. That is a good deal to pay for a car that could run on its wheels the two thousand miles from the factory for $25 worth of gasoline and oil, plus a little wear and tear on tires.

The elevated railroad in New York made no money until the fare was reduced from ten cents to five. Railroads will make more when they find a way to carry freight, and passengers less expensively. That is said with realization of the fact that railroad builders have built the country and are entitled to fair treatment.

Lord Beaverbrook's London Express says a beautiful American girl in Egypt offered an Egyptian peddler $6,500 to marry her immediately, because "he resembled a beloved Frenchman now dead."

The important difference between the living Egyptian and the dead Frenchman, that the infatuated American girl, did not observe is this. The Frenchman's face showed many centuries of thinking by his ancestors. The Egyptian's face showed complete lack of thinking, all the way back to Ptolemy Soter, and beyond.

A gigantic "hook-up" of radio stations will enable 8,000,000 Americans to hear all that goes on in the Democratic and Republican conventions.

From the first announcement of Alabama's choice, to final howling when the winner is announced, everything will be heard. However, sad to relate, many of the 8,000,000 that might listen to the convention will not listen. They will tune in for jazz music, sad heart-rending songs, or daily dozens to keep thin. In this nation where only half vote that might vote, there is little deep interest in politics.

TRAMPS

PIN PRICKS

The gentleman who gives you a sock in the jaw does not arouse so much resentment as the lady who continually nags at you. We can stand the roar of a cannon once better than we can stand the continual dripping that wears away the stone.

It is not the big things in life that we have to fear so much as it is the little things.

We ought so to order our lives that our daily intercourse with people shall be pleasant and not irritating.

I knew an old woman who had two daughters.

One stayed at home and gave up a career to take care of her mother in her old age; the other moved to a far city, rarely wrote and never came to see her.

The old woman complained continually of the little irritations her stay-at-home daughter caused her and enlarged upon the virtues of the daughter she never saw.

When she died and her will was read it was found she had left every cent to the daughter who had moved away and nothing to the one who had given up everything to care for her.

A father and four sons went into debt to buy a farm. Three of the boys went off, leaving the one son with his father to pay off the debt.

The father took sick and for the best years of his life the son slaved until the debt was cleared away. While the other three boys were well along in their careers he had missed an education, had put off his marriage, had given up the career he had planned.

At his father's death it was found that he had left the farm to be divided up equally among the four boys.

Whether we can make head or tail out of the justice of the story of the Prodigal Son, there is nothing truer to human nature.

As the screech of a locomotive is velveted into a woodwind sound by distance, the irritating little rough places in personality seem to fade in those afar off.

Rich gifts are counted poor not only when givers prove unkind but when they prove irritating.

The pin-pricks outweigh the sacrifice.

Bible Thought For Today

PRAYER: May we Lord, ever show that we art upright and that there is no unrighteousness in us.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

WHOSE MONEY IS IT?

There are Five Million Dollars in gold on deposit in the Chase National Bank and the Equitable Trust Company in New York, which came from Russia in 1921. It has never been determined who owns the gold. Half of it is stored with each of the Banking Houses. The Banks would like to have the United States Treasury Department assay the gold and make it into a marketable commodity, but the Treasury Department does not like the responsibility. Neither Secretary Mellon, nor Under Secretary Mills have any objection to the acceptance of the gold by the New York Assay Office "as a matter of policy", but "final determination of the Government's position awaits further consideration." The Department of State will have no objection if the Treasury Department desires to lift the prohibition and the President has said that he believed that the shipment of Russian gold to the United States is no indication of a changed relationship between the two countries.

It was said when the rule prohibiting the assays were promulgated that doubt would arise in every case regarding gold shipped from Russia for the reason that political changes had left titles uncertain, and that question still obtains, although, according to Under-Secretary Mills the risk naturally is less now than eight years ago.

It was suggested by the Treasury that each bank may overcome some of the difficulties attendant on the problem by supplying warranties of title. This procedure will enable the Treasury to protect itself, if at any time after the assay office has taken over the gold, the question of title should arise. The banks could then be held liable.

Mr. Mills said the Treasury had no information as to the purpose for which the Russian gold was shipped to the United States. It came as an ordinary shipment and the Treasury was not informed of its movement from Russia until it was on the sea, bound for the United States. The Undersecretary explained that when such shipments are under consideration it must decide promptly what its course will be in order that reexportation may be directed as quickly as possible in event that assay is refused.

Russia always was a little careless with its money. It will be recalled that once the late Lyman J. Gage, Ex-Secretary of the Treasury, when he was head of a Chicago Bank told a frenzied financier looking for help to "Draw on somebody; Draw on the Czar of Russia." The excited customer did and much to the surprise of both banker and borrower the draft was honored by the Imperial Treasury. Attached to the remittance was a note to the effect that "His Imperial Highness would like to have an itemized statement showing the reason for any future drafts."

IN THE FACTORY

"What did you see in the factory?
The superintendent questioned me.
And this I said to him in reply:
"Men who are braver by far than I."

"We have many machines of which we boast.
Now what was the thing that impressed you most?"
And I thought once more and I answered then:
"The sight of so many courageous men."

"Courage?" said he. "I don't understand.
We are now at peace on the sea and land.
These men aren't facing an unmarked grave.
I see no reason to call them brave."

"They are braver than I, for I couldn't stay
Feeding a drill from day to day
Yet here they smile and they give their best
To a task which I feel they must all detest.

They hammer and pound and haul and shove.
And if that's not bravery, tell me, pray,
What finer courage can man display?"

THREE CHEERS FOR WISCONSIN.

One of the most heartening stories I've heard lately comes from Kansasville, Wisconsin. I didn't know there was any such town until I heard about Hank Keller who makes wagons there. Hank doesn't make very many wagons, you understand but he has made a good many during the 73 years of his life.

I love to hear of and to know persons who can do things with their own hands. Hank made wagons with his two hands and he made every bit of every wagon he turned out. He began by chopping down the trees and then making lumber out of the seasoned logs and then shaping the lumber for wagon parts.

Some of the wagons that Hank made nearly 50 years ago are still in use near Kansasville. That's a nice thing about doing one's handiwork well. When one is old in years one continues to reap the reward of work well done in years of youth.

Hank Keller's father was a wagonmaker and so was his grandfather. His son is a wagonmaker too at Springfield, Wisconsin. Good craftsmanship sometimes runs in a family that way. Maybe it is inherited. And then again maybe the fathers train their sons to habits of conscientiousness. For a good craftsman is one whose conscience is in his work.

F. H. Hogg writes me from Parnassus, Pa. about an interesting experience. He says:

"Several years ago a group of us young fellows was camping along the river near my home. One night about twelve, a friend and I were returning from a spring near camp with a bucket of water and a storm came up.

"We were walking along a railroad track and in bare feet. I warned my friend against walking on the rails as I had heard it was dangerous to do so during an electrical storm. No sooner had I told him this than we saw a ball of fire approaching along a rail so fast that we barely had time to get out of the way. It was about the size of a basketball, bluish color with pinkish center. It followed the rail, bounding with a crackling sound as of small firecrackers. It disapepared around a bend of the track with a few seconds."

POLICE TO BEGIN NEW WAR ON DOGS

War has been declared by Chief of Police C. C. Horner on all dogs permitted to run at large, whether licensed or unlicensed, from now on.

This decision to inaugurate the drive against dogs at this time, is due to the fact that it will not be long until the people of the city will be busily engaged in fixing up their properties and gardens and will not want their work destroyed by dogs.

According to Chief Horner, dog owners must learn that their pets hold no special privileges in this city. The state law strictly prohibits dogs running at large and specifies that they must be kept within the property of the owner or on leash, if allowed outside.

It is proposed that the dogs not only be apprehended and dealt with according to law, but that the owners be brought into police court and assessed fines, that will make them realize the seriousness of their offense.

Sections 19 and 20 of the new state law, specifically state that officers may seize dogs, licensed or otherwise, that are running at large and may be seized on the premises or in buildings of the owner, when the same is in the course of actual pursuit.

Dogs that do not have a proper license tag may be killed, while those that have licenses must be kept and fed for a period of ten days after the owner is properly notified and that the owner must pay for such keep.

Section twenty-four of the law says very plainly that it is unlawful for a female dog in heat to go beyond the premises of the owner, except when in leash.

Chief Horner has issued instructions to the officers as above and hopes that dog owners will pay attention to the requirements of the law, so that as little unpleasantness may arise as possible.

Local Man Receives Disability Increase

Dr. W. L. Steen, Jefferson Street, Is On Increased Compensation List

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 20.—Senator Bingham, Connecticut, today made public a list of disabled emergency army officers of the world war who, in the main, are to receive increased compensation under the bill of Senator Tyson, Tennesee which has just passed the senate after a bitter fight waged upon the measure by Bingham, Senator Reed, Pennsylvania and Senator King, Utah.

William Lewis Steen, 124 North Jefferson street, New Castle, Pa., a physician, who has a disability rating of 42 per cent, is on the list. On the present schedule he will receive an increase of from $42 to $150 a month.

During the debate in the Senate, it was charged that the bill will set up a dangerous new aristocracy because it takes into account no service performed by disabled enlisted men.

The bill gives compensation to officers based on rank as well as on their disability. It causes larger increases to be given to some now receiving compensation while others, some totally disabled, are to get less.

This is the third time that the bill has passed the Senate by overwhelming majorities. Its chief opponent at its third trial was Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, who raised the aristocracy issue and further said that it failed to give the enlisted men fair treatment.

Friends of the bill say that Reed's opposition is based on the belief that the measure is contrary to the financial policy of the President. Reed, however, says that a "war injury is a war injury," irrespective of the rank of the man injured.

Coolidge Doubts Practicability Of Coal Conference

WASHINGTON, March 20.—President Coolidge is not opposed to the suggestion of Governor John S. Fisher of Pennsylvania for the holding of a national coal conference to rehabilitate the industry, but he is inclined to doubt the practicability of it, it was stated at the White House today.

If such a conference eventuates, the President will instruct officials of the Commerce and Labor departments to co-operate.

Democrats Offer Criticism To Fund Raised By Borah

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 20.—The campaign of Senator William E. Borah of Idaho to raise $160,000 to repay Harry F. Sinclair for his donations to the Republican party in 1923, was criticized today in Democratic circles.

The Democrats expressed opposition to the idea of returning the money to Sinclair and also to raising it among the "innocent members of the Republican party".

"The perfectly innocent rank and file of the Republican party did not incur these debts," said Senator Reed (D) of Missouri.

Senator Bruce (D) of Maryland urged Borah to raise the money, but to turn it over to a charitable institution. He said paying the money back to Sinclair would be like "returning the loot to a thief."

Miserable With Backache?

Don't Neglect a Persistent Backache. It May Warn of Sluggish Kidneys.

DOES every day find you lame, stiff and achy? Do you feel tired, drowsy—suffer constant, nagging backache, annoying headaches and dizzy spells? Are the kidney secretions too frequent, scanty or burning in passage?

Colds and grip increase the poisons in the blood and bring extra work to the kidneys. When the kidneys act sluggishly, waste impurities remain in the blood and cause many unpleasant symptoms.

Thousands have learned to rely on Doan's Pills after winter's colds and chills. Doan's, a stimulant diuretic, increase the secretion of the kidneys and thus aid in the elimination of waste impurities. They have earned a nation-wide reputation. Ask your neighbor!

Pain Is Not A Sweetener

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

Contrary to the teaching of a famous beauty who advocates "Mind" for every beauty ill from a corn on the little toe to jaundice, I believe that the condition of the body has a greater effect upon the mind than the mind has upon the body.

We cannot separate mind from body and of action of mind apart from the body we have no direct experience and absolutely no knowledge. Consequently all mental facts are first physical facts.

Pain—physical pain—is a purely animal sensation and yet it can blot out every thought of anything but the terror of it and the agonizing effort to allay it in some way. You cannot think when you are in pain. You can only feel.

I know that one might be overcome with deepest grief while following the person one loves most to his eternal rest and if one should crush one's fingers on the motor door in the descent from the vehicle at the grave every thought of grief would be swallowed up in the sensation of physical pain.

Some people say that pain sweetens one's character but I have the same opinion of that idea that I have of the old cry that poverty is a great character builder. These "axioms" roll glibly off one's tongue if one has never suffered grinding, galling poverty nor agonizing pain.

I know that pain leaves its imprint on the face. There is a little muscle that goes from the side of the mouth to the chin that physical pain draws down until one looks ten years older. This will go away in time if one tries immediately to laugh and be happy after the pain has gone.

Sir Charles Bell says of laughter: "It signifies in all points the accession of vital force. Laughter builds up." This, too, you see is a physical act and the mere act of smiling will help one on to pleasant thoughts.

Memo: I do not believe, with Whittier, that "Hearts, like apples, are dry and sour till crushed by pain's relentless power."

PETER'S ADVENTURES in ANIMAL LAND

BY MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

THE CAT-TAILS LOSE THEIR HEADS

Peter half expected to see the bird blown off his perch. The fellow had been daring enough to argue with the wind!

To his surprise, though, the wind calmed down at once (to be sure, it still continued to blow, but not nearly as roughly as it had a moment before).

Evidently it and this feathered stranger were old friends, for the wind answered the bird very pleasantly and quite as if he was glad that he was there.

"Hello, Kingfisher, old chap, how are you? Still willing to overlook a fellow's faults and say a good word for him, I hear. It's a cure for my temper to see you. To tell the truth, nothing makes me madder than to have a bird afraid of me, although I pretend that I want him to be. That is why I like you. You never stay under cover because I am abroad in full force. Not you. Out you come and ride me as a steed."

"Of course I do, and I like nothing better. Heigho! Many are the boisterous times that you and I have had together! But, then, good days are coming. Spring may not be so full of excitement, but it will be beautiful, and there will be much to do. After all, between you and me, Wind, don't you think that it is the happiest time of all the year?"

"I don't know. Let me think—yes, I do. Spring is the happiest time, all things considered. I shall never be contented, though, to be quiet all through the coming months unless I have one last good frolic.

"So goodby, old friend. I am off to see what I can do for excitement. Whoo-oo-oo-ooh! Ssh-ssh-ssh-ssh! I see some cat-tails over yonder. I am going to play with them."

Off blew the wind and soon Peter saw the cat-tails gayly nodding their woolly heads and dancing merrily together quite as if they thought it lots of fun to play with the old north wind. Then he saw something that made him cry out in surprise.

"Good gracious! Not snowing again, I hope! Surely those can't be flakes of snow that I see over in the swamp!"

"SNOWFLAKES INDEED! WIND IS PLAYING TAG WITH THE CAT-TAILS THAT IS FLUFF YOU SEE," EXPLAINED THE OTHER.

Up to this time the bird had not paid much attention to the boy, but at Peter's last remark he made a noise that sounded suspiciously like a chuckle.

"Snowflakes, indeed! How the cat-tails would like to hear you say that! They are always playing tricks—pretending to be so solemn and sedate, and then losing their heads over nothing at all. Even a light breeze makes them fly right off the stem.

"What you see floating about is the fuzz from the cat-tails heads. Maybe this is the last time that they will play together. You see they are very old for cat-tails and it is almost time for them to make way for the young stalks that will grow up straight and strong and as jolly as themselves.

"See how white the air is with the fluff! I fear that after wind has finished playing tag with them there will no longer be any cat-tails left to tell the story. Let my old friend once get started and he is apt to be pretty rough, especially in March. He means no harm, but he is strong and as he said—it is his final fling and he intends to make the most of it."

OFFICER FINDS PROMPT RELIEF FROM SUFFERING

Ellwood City Policeman, Living Here, Says Ten Herbs Benefited Whole System.

"Although I had suffered with stomach trouble for five years, and tried all kinds of medicines, nothing gave me any relief, until I used Ten Herbs, which promptly relieved my suffering," was the statement of Mr.

MR. JAMES A. HAYS

James A. Hays, well-known Ellwood City policeman, living at 472 Neshannock Avenue, New Castle, to the Ten Herbs Man, who is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily demonstrating this great natural medicine.

"Before taking Ten Herbs, I was afraid to eat, as everything I ate seemed to sour on my stomach and cause awful distress," Mr. Hays continued. "I think my stomach and bowel trouble was caused by eating meals at irregular hours for several years. The more I tried to get relief, the worse my condition became.

"Having read a great deal about Ten Herbs, I decided to try your medicine. While taking the first bottle, the pains in my stomach were relieved. My liver became more active and my bowels more regular. Gas left my stomach, and kidneys were helped. After taking the third bottle, my whole system seemed to be benefited, and I could eat almost anything without having any distress afterwards. I advise all who are suffering as I did to try Ten Herbs, as I believe they will get the same good results that I did."

Such statements as these, and those of many men and women in this section, have wide influence, as they come from persons of standing and integrity, who have given the new herbal compound, Ten Herbs, a fair trial and have been greatly benefitted thereby. Every day scores of local citizens attest to the remarkable efficacy of this medicine in relieving disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels. Ten Herbs also benefits the kidneys, and gives the whole system a thorough cleansing.

The Ten Herbs Man is at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 East Washington Street, New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and explaining the merits of this medicine. Free sample given.

"Electricity the Barometer of Business"

says St. Louis Globe-Democrat

"Electricity is of almost universal use. It enters to some extent into all industry, and to a very great extent in many industries. It is the source of power for all facilities of communication except the mail, and nearly all the transportation utilities except the railroads, while its use in railroad transportation is increasing. It enters into the majority of homes. There are said to be more than 65,000 different uses of electricity. A force so general and so pervasive surely indicates by the measure of its consumption the condition and trend of business."

WHEN a commodity becomes an essential element in so many of a people's activities that its consumption is an index of prosperity, the efficiency of the industry which produces and distributes it is of vital importance to every citizen.

Electricity has increased the productiveness of labor 150% in the last 10 years. Through the rapid extension of electrical service the American worker has from four to forty times more power at his command than his foreign competitor, and his wages are greater in proportion.

But just as for the worker, high earning capacity and advanced standards of living depend on individual freedom, so for the power industry freedom of individual initiative and an abundant flow of capital are necessary to meet public demand.

Several Prominent Personages Drawn Into Bond Inquiry

Two Presidents, Cabinet Officers And Presidential Candidates Involved

Spectacular Developments In Sinclair Bond Dealings Is Expected

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 20. — Two Presidents of the United States, numerous cabinet officers, past and present, and several presidential candidates were drawn into the vortex of the Teapot Dome case today as a result of the senate's inquiry into the financial aid given the Republican party by Harry F. Sinclair.

Spectacular developments in the sensational case were predicted on all sides. Democratic spokesmen announced they would not allow the American people to forget that Sinclair "corrupted" a Republican administration to secure Teapot Dome and then contributed huge sums to that party when his alleged corruption was threatened with exposure. The Republicans were ready to fight back, by seeking to link prominent Democrats with the same oil interests.

Wide Ramifications

The case, with its wide ramifications, today involved:

1.—President Coolidge, who was twice charged in the senate with being the "chief beneficiary" of Sinclair's donations to the Republican party because this money "cleaned up all debts prior to his 1924 campaign."

2.—President Harding, whose estate records will be searched by the senate Teapot Dome committee for trace of any of the Sinclair Liberty bonds.

3.—Governor Al Smith, who was charged with accepting contributions from Harry F. Sinclair in 1920 and with naming him a state racing commissioner afterwards.

4.—Andrew W. Mellon, Herbert Hoover and Charles E. Hughes, all mentioned as Republican presidential possibilities, who were attacked for remaining silent about the Teapot Dome scandal after having served in the cabinet which leased the oil reserve to Sinclair.

Democrats Under Fire

The Democrats were under fire on two subjects—one being the charge that Governor Smith had taken Sinclair donations in his 1920 gubernatorial campaign, and the other, being the party's acceptance of a large contribution recently from Thomas Fortune Ryan, the New York capitalist. Senator Robinson (R) of Ind., demanded that Smith be subpoenaed as a witness in the Teapot Dome case, while Senator Nye (R) of N. D., pointed out that the Democrats at the 1912 convention adopted a resolution overwhelmingly declaring they would never select a nominee that "had the support of Ryan, J. Pierpont Morgan or any other person in the privilege—wanting or favor-seeking class."

There seemed little likelihood that the senate committee would call Smith as a witness. There appeared a greater probability that Smith would demand a hearing. Whether or not he is subpoenaed, his connections with Sinclair will be aired thoroughly in the senate within the next few days.

The attacks on the silence of President Coolidge, Mellon, Hughes and Herbert Hoover, came from both Republican insurgents and the Democrats. Senator Lafollette and Blaine, of Wis., joined with Senator James A. Reed (D) of Missouri, in demanding that these ranking Republicans make some public utterance on how they view the Teapot Dome case and Sinclair's heavy contributions to the Republican party.

Borah Endorses Demand

Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, endorsed this demand, declaring "the people who ramain silent (about corruption) will be taken care of by the American citizens, who believe in clean government." He declared it was "quite correct" to believe the American people expected some utterance from President Coolidge, Mellon, Hughes and Hoover.

The political developments far overshadowed the pending plans of the investigating committee, which resumes its hearings Wednesday morning. Investigators were reported working in Illinois upon the senatorial story of a "mystery witness" that a package had been sent a high government official by an oil company official. One unofficial report reached the committee that the package only contained Christmas cards but there was not official verification of this.

Two witnesses were summoned for tomorrow. Wilbur W. Marsh, Democratic national treasurer in 1920, was called to reply to charges that he and the late Fred W. Upham, Republican treasurer, agreed to conceal all campaign contributions received during 1923.

Marsh has denied the story, told by two of Upham's secretaries, but he will be asked to make the denial under oath.

Odd Job Man

Dana M. Baer, of Luverne, Minn., claims the "odd job" man record for his vicinity. In 42 years he has had 3,000 employers and has worked at 8,000 different jobs, through it all maintaining his record of reliability and honesty. His explanation for his career is simply that he is an "odd job" man.

"Mystery" Woman Taken Back Home

Husband Says That She Had Left Without Knowledge Of Her Family

Charles Golasewsky of Masury, O., came to the office of Sheriff H. M. Reynolds last night after his wife, Sophia Golasewsky, who was found wandering on the railroad tracks near Pulaski several days ago. Mr. Golasewsky said that his wife had left home about one week ago. She had been talking rather inconsistently for several days previously, saying that she was going to walk to Washington, D. C., and take a boat for the old country. She had arisen in the morning before any of the other members of her household were up and had disappeared. Nothing more was heard of her until she was located here in the county jail. Her husband is employed at the Sharon Steel Hoop company's plant.

Is He Proud of You?

By Edna Wallace Hopper

What a glowing, happy feeling to know you can give someone the thrill of pride! In this exacting age, with standards constantly rising, it requires faultless grooming. But how well worth the time!

One of the greatest helps I have found to lend the "knowing touch" to a smart appearance is my powder base, Youth Cream. It gives your skin the perfect smoothness of chiseled beauty. This stamps you knowing the art of attracting.

I give credit for the discovery of Youth Cream to France, where I have always gone in search of the ultra in cosmetic art.

Just a bit of this delightfully fragrant cream smoothed over your face after cleansing gives your powder the air of "being at home". It's all just part of your skin.

Free Of Stomach Misery And Glad She Got Konjola

MRS. ETHEL MAINS
Seavy Photo

Report after report is being received from every section of New Castle, in which men and women are describing the wonderful relief this new Konjola medicine has given them in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and nerve disorders. Just a few days ago Mrs. Ethel Mains, well-known New Castle lady, living at R. 463 East Washington street, made the following remarkable statement to the Konjola Man at Love and Megown's drug store, 204 East Washington street, this city, where large crowds are calling daily to find out for themselves about this surprising new compound.

"Konjola has brought an improvement over my entire system," said Mrs. Mains. "It ended my stomach trouble and at the same time, this medicine gave me new life, energy and better health than I have enjoyed in years.

"My whole system was badly rundown, and most of my misery was due to stomach trouble. I often had spells of indigestion that made my stomach feel like it was on fire. My appetite was gone and I had to force myself to eat. After every meal I would have spells of gas bloating that made it almost impossible for me to get my breath. Almost every day I was subject to terrible headaches and backaches that felt as if a thousand needles were sticking in me. One of my worst troubles was nervousness and loss of sleep. Nearly every night I would lie in bed and hear the clock strike hour after hour. In the mornings I would feel dreadful and every day I seemed to be dragging myself along feeling half-sick all the time.

"I began taking Konjola and it proved to be exactly what I needed. I could feel a great difference in myself almost at once, and I have kept right on taking this medicine. Now I never know what it is to feel nervous and it is a blessing to be able to sleep at nights and feel refreshed in the mornings. Konjola has relieved me of every form of stomach trouble that I had been suffering. I am never bothered with bloating spells, headaches, or backaches. My food agrees with me and is building me up and I feel a lot stronger.

"I feel so much better in every way that I can hardly realize I am the same person. I think Konjola is wonderful, and I am indorsing it because I know what this medicine will do."

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

Issues Are Sought For 1928 Campaign

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Issues! Issues! Issues!

Oh, for political campaign issues! The well-known dog, burying a bone on a marble floor, wasn't half as busy as all the candidates are right now, manufacturing campaign issues.

Issues are this session of Congress' principal product.

Don't imagine the presidential candidates are the only ones who have to have 'em. Thirty per cent of the senators, and all the representatives, come up for re-election, too. Every single one of 'em simply must have a good issue.

Gosh! As if there weren't plenty of issues in this country!—to run for Congress on—or for President, for that matter.

Tut! You miss the point. Those are real issues.

The voters know something about how they want to vote on real issues. A lot of blah-blah-blah isn't so likely to win 'em.

Of course, if a candidate's dead sure how folks feel on a real issue, then he's safe in taking one side of it or the other—the majority side?—you know it—and it makes the best kind of an issue.

Happy the candidate who's dead certain! My, but he's independent!

But generally he's at least a little bit doubtful. In that case the correct technic is—a real issue isn't an issue. The candidate can't see it with a microscope.

And yet he has to have an issue. So he makes one.

It's synthetic, and such substitutes seldom are as satisfactory as the "genuine".

The voters prove that they don't like 'em by more and more of them staying away from the polls on election day. How do they know, from a candidate's position on a make-believe issue that doesn't interest 'em, what his position is on some real issue that they'd like to settle?

Nevertheless, it's "two party" politics.

And what are the voters going to do about it? Both sides follow the same method.

Thus we begin to see why the American professional politician is so wedded to what he calls the "two party system of government".

The two are so much alike that nobody can tell 'em apart—except, here and there, an outstanding individual—and the professional can go on straddling indefinitely, so long as it stays only "two party".

But let a third party break in and it upsets all his calculations.

A "bloc" signifies, supremely, some single principle.

A manufacturers' bloc—a farm bloc—a labor bloc—a "white collar" bloc—a wet bloc—a dry bloc—a League of Nations bloc—a nationalistic bloc—each bloc representative of a concrete idea that there'd be no dodging!

Such an aggregation could do business only by forming partnerships, certainly—but each time such a partnership was formed it would be mighty noticeable that the blocites who formed it had formed it.

There wouldn't be any hiding in the "party regularity" closet.

It would amount to a referendum on every important question.

That's why the professional politicians tell us that the "two-party system of government" is such a glorious institution.

San Quentin Prison Opens New Building For Women Inmates

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., March 20—Etanding as a monument to prison progress, the newly constructed women's building at San Quentin state penitentiary has been opened for occupancy.

As far removed from the obsolete character of the traditionally accepted dungeon as the medieval ox-cart is from the airplane, the new quarters for female prisoners embraces within its walls the most modern of conveniences.

It is equipped with fine executive offices, spacious recreational and vocational rooms, large white dining room, up-to-date kitchen and laundry, rows of apple-green doors, opening up on cells which are like chambers in a girls' boarding school, and an infirmary, equipped with five white beds, a diet kitchen, a magnificent bath and shower rooms.

And in a corner of the spotless infirmary, there is a little white crib in readiness for such emergencies as arise more or less frequently in the experience of a prison matron.

"We haven't much use for that crib now," the San Quentin matron says, "but sooner or later we'll get a case entering which will be a maternity case, and a baby will be born within these walls."

Name On Barn Gives Aviators New Idea

(International News Service)

LORAIN, O., March 20.—This city was the first in the country that was marked so it may be identified by airplane pilots, it was revealed by H. G. Curtis, head of the local Chamber of Commerce.

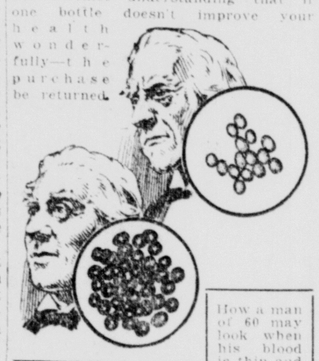
The name of the new product that is doing so much for weak anemic people is Hemo-Liver and it can now be obtained from any druggist who keeps abreast of the times, with the distinct understanding that if one bottle doesn't improve your health wonderfully—the purchase be returned.



How a man of 60 may look when his blood is thin and watery and the change that takes place when the blood is rich and red.

A big 12-ounce bottle of Hemo-Liver lasts eight days and one tablespoonful is a dose and as one Doctor remarked "You'll have to eat a lot of liver before you get as much of the red blood making elements as you get in one tablespoonful of Hemo-Liver."

"Men and women who are suffering from lowered vitality, general weakness, overwork, nervous breakdown or anemia can put their faith in Hemo-Liver. For feeble old people, girls 12 to 18 and in convalescence it won't fail. Boston Chinaman Is Oldest In New England, Claim

(International News Service)

BOSTON, March 20.—Wong Duck, of Oxford Place, Boston's Chinatown is the oldest Chinaman in the eastern section of the United States.

He is 95 years of age and is the only Chinaman in New England to wear a pigtail. Every other of the native Chinee have cut off their long cues as civilization overtook the customs of the Orient.

The only aversion that Wong Duck has in the wide world is a newspaper picture of himself. Boston newspapers for years have unsuccessfully sought to take the picture of the "Grand Old Man" of Boston's Chinatown.

Wong Duck incidentally is still a confirmed believer in the doctrines of Confucius. The only concession that he has given to the land of adoption was made in joining the Masonic order.

State To Send Out Millions Of Trees

Twelve Million Trees To Be Shipped During Coming Month

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, March 20.—The Department of Forests and Waters is planning a large scale planting on state owned forest lands this spring. Last year the department placed approximately 650,000 young trees on lands owned by the commonwealth. This spring the state's program is to be greatly enlarged over the 1927 schedule department officials say.

Six species of trees will be planted from stock raised at the various state owned nurseries. The varieties to be planted include White pine, Scotch pine, Norway spruce, larch, red oak and white ash.

Since the state began its reforestration program it has put out more than forty million young trees. At the present time the commonwealth has title to about 1,143,000 acres of forest land. It has contracted for the purchase of about 68,000 additional acres. This land is being purchased from the $500,000 appropriation made by the 1927 session of the legislature.

Next month the department expects to ship from its nurseries approximately 12,000,000 young trees to individuals and companies engaged in reforestration programs. This number is slightly under the total shipments of last year that were received by about 3500 planters. Already applications have been received by the department for approximately 75 per cent. of the number to be sent out from state nurseries.

Cleveland Divorce Rate Doubled In Last Fifteen Years

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., March 20.—Cleveland's divorce rate has doubled in the past 15 years it was revealed here recently.

The reason in the opinion of Common Pleas Judge Thomas Kennedy who has been hearing divorce suits in Cuyahoga county (Cleveland) for 26 years and who has observed during that time the changing attitude is because of the trial judge's attitude.

"When the judges are strict in requiring fulfillment of the laws governing divorce—full proof of one of the ten grounds provided by (Ohio) laws, and full support of testimony offered—the divorce rate falls" Judge Kennedy declared.

"But" he continued, "when they allow substitution of one ground for another admit unsupported testimony and are otherwise complacent toward divorce the rate rises.

"It rises for two reasons:

"1. Greater percentage of those who ask divorces are granted them.

"2. Complacence increases the number of divorces asked.

Divorce statistics for the county since 1910 support Judge Kennedy's theory.

In 1912 the county's divorce rate was 17.77 percent.

In 1914 the judges tightened up and the rate was decreased to 9.67 percent.

In 1927 the rate had increased to 35 percent.

Says Isaac Newton Was All Wrong On World Theories

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20.—William H. Parkes, a London janitor, maintains that Sir Isaac Newton was all wrong and that his teachings on the law of gravity have misled the whole of the modern scientific world.

Parkes has devoted ten years of his life to the task of discovering the exact cause of gravitation, a subject upon which Newton said nothing.

"I have at last fathomed the cause," he says in a book "Revelations in Astronomy and Gravitation," just published. "Bodies and particles in space are maintained by the control of attractive motion, instead of by the pulling force of attractive matter, as indicated in the Newtonian theory."

Sir Oliver Lodge and other eminent scientists have expressed interest in Parkes' theory.

London Women Like Stocking Initials

By ETHEL MARSHALL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, March 20.—Among the great crop of monograms on the fashionable clothes, the very newest way appears to be for a woman to have her initials on one stocking.

The wearer's monogram is embroidered inside an oval or diamond about three inches in length, in a contrasting shade with the stocking and its correct position is just below the knee.

The new mushroom colored stockings have dark brown monograms, and pale gray ones have black or purple initials worked on them.

Large chiffon handkerchiefs to match in color or a georgette, or tulle, or brocade evening frock have enormous monograms in one corner, worked in silk and metal thread.

Believe Tower Of London Has Gold Buried In 1662

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20. — For more than 250 years a tradition has existed here that a huge fortune remains hidden in the dark recesses of the Tower of London, cunningly secreted in 1662 by a man who was executed by royal decree in one of the Tower's dismal dungeons.

Although no success whatever has attended investigations the tradition still lingers.

The money estimated at nearly $250,000 was believed to have been hidden by John Barkestead, lieutenant of the tower under Cromwell. Barkestead was hanged, drawn and quartered at Tyburn in April, 1662 but before he went to his death according to the legend he cached his fortune where he believed no one would ever find it.

Plan To Sound Out Sound Using New Laboratory

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, March 20.—Sound will be put through its paces and "examined" to determine its properties, in a new laboratory to be constructed at the University of California at Los Angeles, Professor Vern O. Knudsen of the university announced today.

A room so sensitive that the presence of a felt hat can be detected in the chamber by its effect upon the intensity of sound is one of the novel innovations planned to sound out sound.

It is expected that formulae will be derived by which rooms or buildings can be equipped to minimize sounds of a disturbing nature.

Magnetic Pencil Removes Slivers

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 20.—A magnetic pencil which a physician can carry in his pocket, capable of removing steel particles embedded in the flesh, has been developed in Chicago by scientists.

Members of the staff of the Western Electric company, realizing the possibilities in such an instrument, gradually perfected the pencil. It is extremely useful in optical surgery.

The device is composed of cobalt steel which produces a magnet two and one-half times as powerful as one of tungsten steel without an increase in bulk. The pencil is the same size as an ordinary lead pencil.

Discovery Of Peddler's Hoarded Wealth Stirs Town In Treasure Hunt

Shack where treasure was found and above, right, Martin Corey, who made first discovery.

By JOSEPH WARD, Jr.
Staff Writer for Central Press and New Castle News.

GREENWICH Mass. March 20—A treasure hunt in which rubbish heaps gave up handfuls of greenbacks and piles of decaying vegetables proved to conceal a fortune in stocks and bonds has given this town a nightmare. Not since the days of Captain Kidd has there been such a furore.

The cause of it all was a ragged peddler, George E. Phipps who dragged through a wretched existence in misery and filth. Arriving at the scriptural three score and ten he passed away in squalor and solitude the body to be found some time later.

Lived in Wretchedness.

Those who found the body were amazed at the wretchedness of the scene. The man's bed was a pile of old coats flung over bare steel springs and his pillow was a bag of sprouting onions. The ramshackle dwelling and just two rooms in one of which the human being lived; the other housed his two horses.

Dirt covered everything. A casual visitor, Martin Corey of Prescott, Mass., poked among 75 bushels of rotting onions heaped against the inner walls of the old man's room. ome strangely embossed papers apepared On examination they proved to be stocks and bonds of high value worth several thousand dollars.

This discovery prompted other dwellers to rush to the scene and join in the hunt. Several baskets of paper produced hundreds of dollars in checks, all contained in unopened registered letters, monthly dividends in unopened registered letters. The dirt of the floor gave up other valuables until after several days search $50,000 had been disclosed, searchers frantically examined the land for indications of buried treasure and this search may go on secretly for months. Papers indicated that the aged recluse had at least $100,000 in stocks and bonds alone.

There were many stories as to why the old egg-and-onion peddler shunned his fellow man. Some said he had withdrawn from human society when his father was burned to death in his shack 50 years ago.

Jilted in Youth.

Others said that when a young man he was about to be married. He called on his fiancee one evening to find her entertaining another man. Without a word he walked from the house and retired to a hermit's life.

It is said he previously was known as the best dressed man of the section. Then he took to rags. One of his peculiarities was his transposition of the wheels on a dozen old wagons in a shed. He put the large rear wheels in front and the small front wheels in back. "It's easier on the horse" he said.

Extravagant estimators have guessed that a round million dollars will be found concealed somewhere about the property.

Mobs Of Roumanian Peasants Overawe Police At Bucharest

(International News Service)

BELGRADE, March 20.—Shouting their defiance of the government, mobs of Roumanian peasants, members of the National-Peasant party, have completely overawed police and other officials at Bucharest and have even threatened members of the royal family with bodily injury, according to dispatches from the Roumanian capital today.

Prince Nicholas, son of Queen Marie and the late King Ferdinand, was immediately surrounded by an infuriated mob on one of the main thoroughfares when his car was recognized.

He was forced to stand up and join in shouts of "down with the government" before he was allowed to proceed to the palace of the royal family.

(International News Service)

CHARLESTOWN NAVY YARD, BOSTON, March 20.—Standing three rungs up with his back to a swaying steel ladder, a socket wrench held in his right hand high above his head, Lieutenant Graham Newell Fitch pounded out messages on the sloping walls of the forward torpedo compartment of Submarine S-4 as she lay in her grave 102 feet below the surface off Provincetown at Christmas time.

The brave lieutenant was groggy from chlorine gas seeping from the water-flooded battery room, yet for three days he stuck grimly at his task of tapping out messages—messages that thrilled the heart of the world.

"Will it be long now?" was his last.

This was the heart-stirring picture of the last days of the six men in the torpedo room as pieced together today by naval inspectors while examining the interior of the submersible in dry dock here.

The submarine torpedo socket wrench, with its T-shaped top, dented was found in the mud on the floor of the torpedo room. The ladder was there. The two bodies, removed from its base were at Chelsea Naval hospital. On the sloping wall, as near to the surface as Lieutenant Fitch could get, was a large dent in the White paint.

Parrot Is Seized By Stage Fright Before Micraphone

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20.—A new departure in radio was recently attempted by the British Broadcasting company with none too successful results when a trained parrot was delegated to address the world at large through a microphone.

Equipped with an extraordinarily large vocabulary, the parrot was placed upon a stand before the microphone and bidden by his master to begin his speech.

The bird was overtaken by something akin to stagefright, and able to emit only sounds which listeners-in afterward described as very close to static.

The parrot is being kept in the studio in the hope he will become thoroughly acclimated, and the experiment will be tried again in the near future.

Library To Show New Literary Map

Project Is Commended By Miss E. L. Matthews, Consulting Librarian

That the staff of the New Castle Public Library should complete the literary map of Pennsylvania, which they started in connection with the recently observed Pennsylvania Day, and show it at the Spring meeting of the Librarian's association of this district, is the opinion of Miss E. L. Matthews, consulting librarian of Harrisburg, who spent the week end in New Castle.

Miss Matthews expressed the opinion that as literary maps of Pennsylvania are scarce, and as national literary maps do not give sufficient space to Pennsylvania authors, that the project was commendable.

From New Castle Miss Matthews went to Sharon, where she will consult with Miss Eleanor Carver, president of the Pennsylvania State Library association.

The library intends to carry out Miss Matthews' suggestion, and at the earliest possible date the map will be completed and shown at the district meeting which is to be held at Zelienople.

Better Treatment For Baby Heart Defects Is Found

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., March 20.—Better treatment of certain types of heart defects in new born babes is being brought about by the discovery of amazing anatomical changes of the human heart during the first few months of human life. The new method was revealed here by Dr. Bradley M. Patten, associate professor of histology and embryology at the Western Reserve University Medical school.

Small Town Folks Set Fashion Fads

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 20.—Where do the styles come from?

The Rue de la Paix? Bond street? Fifth avenue? No.

"Hitherto," began the ponderous opus issued here by the National Association of Retail Clothiers, "it has been assumed that styles come from Paris for women and from London for men. This is only true in a minor sense of the word. Styles are governed primarily in America by what the average man and woman wishes. The extreme styles of Paris and London find little favor in the average American home.

"Clothiers make clothes to conform with what persons in small towns and cities wish. Only special garments are made up from the styles of Paris and London."

Christmas Tree Trade To Work In New Scheme

(International News Service)

DENVER, March 20.—Supplying Denver and vicinity with Christmas trees during the last holiday season assumed immense proportions. According to the district forester here, 35,000 three were cut and sold, while 2,500 more were cut but unused. Fifty-six retail dealers were licensed by the city, one fourth of whom sold their entire stock.

The Pike National Forest region furnished the greater part of the trees. The cutting was carefully supervised by trained foresters, resulting in much needed thinning of overcrowded stands in the vicinity of Jarre Canyon.

A general movement has been instituted by the government forestry department and the Denver Chamber of Commerce to thin out stands of evergreen trees not only on government lands, but on private lands as well. Many private owners are giving their cooperation.

Welsh Village Is Afraid To Remove Post Office Site

(International News Service)

NEWPORT, Wales, March 20.—Welshmen have never been found wanting in courage, but those residing in the village of Maindee, near here, are viewing with apprehension a proposal to remove the local sub-post-office to a woman's wear shop.

So perturbed are they at the thought that they may have to stand side by side with women turning over the latest fancy lingerie when they go to purchase stamps that they have protested to the Newport council against the scheme, urging the post-office be removed to some manlier location, preferably a cigar-store.

The Newport authorities have consented to inform the postal officials of the objections of the shy men of Maindee, and to suggest that a better site be found.

Lively Debate At Lion's Club Meeting Today

Like cabbage thrown at ham actors, words were bandied between Senators Walsh of Montana and David A. Reed of Pennsylvania when they debated the question whether Senator-elect William S. Vare should be seated in the Senate, at the weekly meeting of the Lions Club, which took place at noon today in the dining room of the Elks Club.

B. K. Thacker introduced the speakers. Senator Walsh (Clarence A. Patterson) contended that Mr. Vare should be denied his seat on gerenal principles and because other senators had also been denied seats in the past, while David A. Reed, Pennsylvania (Alva M. Shumaker) stoutly maintained that Mr. Vare should be seated on general principles and because other senators had been seated in the past. Although no vote was taken, the consensus of opinion was that no man should be seated and that Pennsylvania should not have a senator.

Prior to the meeting of Greek and Greek Arthur Hulbert, vocalist, accompanied by his wife, entertained the Lions with three solos.

The next meeting of the club, Tuesday noon, March 26, will be devoted to business, announces T. I. Elliott.

TOKYO, March 20.—Major Tetsua Atsumi has just died after holding one of the softest jobs in the world for seven years. The major's job required exactly one second of his time each day. The job consisted of firing the noon gun inside the grounds of the imperial palace to tell Tokyo the sun had crossed the noon meridian.

Assistants attended to all the details; all the major had to do was to touch off the cannon. He never had a vacation nor missed a shot in seven years, not even the day of the great earthquake of September 1, 1923, which occurred just two minutes before time to fire the gun.

British Sailors Happy With Boots

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20.—Men of the British navy are to have more comfortable boots.

Seamen, big and small, had their feet sketched so that the best type of last could be designed, and it was found that the majority of men serving in the British navy have stiff-jointed toes.

As a result of these sketches it is claimed that a boot has been perfected which embodies all up-to-date ideas of style and comfort.

Lindbergh Praised Of U. S. Preparedness

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., March 20.—Advocates of preparedness point with pride to Col. Charles E. Lindbergh, the conqueror of the air over the Atlantic Ocean and who travelled through the air thousands of miles as "good-will ambassador" with hardly a mishap, as the true living example of the cause they are sponsoring.

This was the high tribute paid to the "Lone Eagle" by Brig. Gen. W. E. Gilmore, assistant chief of the United States air service, in discussing aeronautics here.

"Lindbergh is not alone a good pilot," Gen. Gilmore explained, "He is a careful planner, a thorough organizer and these qualities are at the foundation of his success.

"He learned flying in his early barnstorming days. But he got his real training in the army, and it was this which taught him to be thorough.

"Lindbergh didn't just hop to Paris. That trip required several months of training."

Speaking of commercial aeroplanes, Gilmore declared that passenger airplanes will not be built to carry 100 passengers such as his been visioned; but development will be made to perfect ships capable of carrying 10 to 12 passengers on long flights.

Mr. Krecko himself has given several demonstrations regarding this memory control before the various civic clubs of the city.

Republicans Hear Charles Pierson

Highway Publicity Official Gives Interesting Side-lights On The Coal Strike

ELLWOOD CITY, March 20.—Before a representative gathering of members of the Republican club last night in the Sons of Columbus hall, Charles Pierson, publicity official of the state highway department in Harrisburg, gave a spirited political address dealing with many phases of the political life of the state of Pennsylvania, and how it has affected the various industries of this state, most important of which are the coal fields.

He gave Senator Reed a great deal of credit for fighting for the state against great odds. He took his audience back to the Revolutionary war days and described Pennsylvania's activities since that time, revealing the fact that the Keystone state has had great influence in shaping the destinies of the nation. He told how Senator Reed is battling along against the coal bloc of senators from West Virginia and Kentucky and other states, and how "dirty politics" affect the other industries in all classes of business in the state.

He had nothing but praise for Governor Fisher's handling of state affairs, and told how he already has saved the state government treasury $250,000 which will be an annual sum saved under his regime.

The meeting was conducted by David Jones of this city who introduced Paul R. Engle from Rochester.

At the close of Mr. Pierson's address Secretary Riley announced there would be a big rally-supper at the hall April 16 at which time prominent state Republicans would speak. Senator Weingartner and the Honorable M. A. Bickett were introduced at last night's meeting.

The athletic field will be looked over and what necessary preparations are needed will be made in time for spring track work.

Boy Twins Get Home On The East Side

Home Is Found Through Publication Of Story Regarding Them In News

Two Bessemer twin boys, about two weeks old, for whom the county commissioners have been trying to find a home, are now comfortably housed with an East Side family and will likely be adopted, according to information received from the county commissioners' office this morning.

Yesterday afternoon County Commissioner Calvin Boyd and County Home Investigator M. B. Hogue took the East Side woman and her mother to Bessemer to look at the twins. She was so greatly pleased with them that she decided to take them, and brought them back with her. She prefers that her name be kept secret for the present.

Yesterday after the commissioners had come back the woman who had been keeping the twins at Bessemer called up and wanted them back. She said that she missed them so much that she did not see how she could get along. The commissioners told her they thought that she had better leave them where they are, as she has a child of her own.

Trout Fishing Season Will Start Day Late This Year

(Special To The News)

HARRISBURG, March 20.—Trout fishermen in Pennsylvania this spring will have to await an extra day before they can indulge in their favorite pastime. Although the season officially opens on April 15, but since that is Sunday they must wait until April 16 before trying their luck with the elusive trout.

A successful season is anticipated by the Fish commission. During the last several years the commission has been releasing from its hatcheries only trout of the larger size and because of that a good catch is anticipated.

Last year high waters in most streams had its effect. Some good catches however were reported. As a result of last year's poor season the commission expects that the catch in 1928 will be unusually large.

Increased facilities for the propagation of fish will soon be provided from funds realized in the increase of fishing licenses from $1 to $1.50 by the last legislature. Ground has already been broken for the building of a hatchery at Reynoldsdale, Bedford county and another is to be started within a short time at Tionesta. The Reynoldsdale hatchery when completed will represent an outlay of approximately $350,000. When these hatcheries are finished and in operation the commission will be able to produce more young trout and other species of fish for distribution in the streams of the commonwealth.

Negro Confesses Slaying Brooklyn School Teacher

Captured In Poolroom, Murder Suspect Confesses To Brutal Attack And Killing

PUTS UP TERRIFIC BATTLE WITH POLICE

Speedy Trial For Slayer Is Anticipated; Has Criminal Record

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, March 20—Mrs. Helen Chevalier Kimball, attractive 25-year-old school teacher who was shot and killed in her apartments in Brooklyn, was the victim of a Negro who had a penchant for assaulting young women. The Negro, Martin L. Miller, 25, confessed today that he was the murderer.

He was captured in a pool room in Paterson, N. J., after a terrific battle with the police, during which he was struck on the head with a blackjack and several inches of his scalp laid open. He was somewhat dazed this morning and his story was disconnected and inconsistent in spots but, according to the authorities, there was no doubt of his guilt.

Miller confessed, the police said that he knocked on the Kimball door and when Mrs. Kimball opened it he forced his way in on the pretext that he had been sent to repair a gas stove. He had previously been a janitor in the building. He attempted to attack her, she screamed and started to run into her bedroom. He pulled a gun and she cried:

Fires Two Shots

"Don't shoot—please don't shoot!"

He fired. She fell, a bullet in her breast. As she lay on the floor he shot her again, and fled.

Miller was the type that always had an "eye for women." Some months ago his wife left him because he had developed into a sort of sheik among the women of his race. He boasted frequently of his conquests among the "high-yellers" and chocolate browns." He had a police record of two previous arrests on charges of assaulting women, one a negress and the other a white girl, whose parents refused to prosecute because of the notoriety it would entail.

Shortly after he killed the young Brooklyn teacher, Miller was seen climbing out of the dumbwaiter shaft in the building, a hunt, participated in by hundreds of police officers, was immediately launched. He was finally tracked to the Paterson pool room.

The slain woman's husband, William W. Kimball, also an instructor, was on the verge of collapse today. He had kissed his wife good-bye and left for his school a few minutes before the Negro broke into his wife's apartment.

MENU HINT

Are you in the habit of occasionally serving rice in place of potatoes? Most families will appreciate it. Cook it in the Chinese way—twice as much cold water as rice, boil 10 minutes and then set over hot water for 10 minutes more. Each grain will be dry and separate.

Tomato Rarebit Boiled Rice
Celery Mixed Pickles
Grapefruit Salad Toasted Crackers
Coffee

Today's Recipes

Tomato Rarebit—Melt one-half pound of cheese, add one can of tomato soup or puree. Serve poured over boiled rice.

MENU HINT

The fact that it is Lent and also spring, makes us think of lighter food to satisfy our somewhat jaded appetites. The salmon croquettes would answer both these needs, and the recipe would be good to save, as the croquettes might easily be used for the main dish for the meal when the unexpected guest arrives, provided one is in the very good habit of keeping a can of salmon on the emergency shelf.

Salmon Croquettes Mashed Potatoes
Creamed Carrots and Peas
Green Onions
Soft Gingerbread Tea

Today's Recipes.

Soft Gingerbread—One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, two cups sour milk, one-fourth teaspoon salt, one teaspoon cinnamon, five cups flour, two cups molasses, one-half cup lard, one tablespoon soda, one teaspoon ginger, two eggs. Cream butter, lard, sugar, then add molasses and eggs. Mix well. Dissolve soda in sour milk and add. Sift flour, salt, ginger and cinnamon and add. This makes two large cakes. Bake about 45 minutes.

Salmon Croquettes—Drain one can salmon, remove skin and bones. Add three cups mashed potatoes, one medium onion chopped fine, dash of salt and a dash of pepper. Mix well. Form into croquettes and dip into two well-beaten eggs and roll in cracker crumbs. Fry in deep fat. Serve hot.

SHORT ROMANCES OF EVERYDAY LIFE

Aunt Nancy Finds a Way

By Claire Wesson

SARAH EMILY laid her curly head on her arms and wept. The mirror before which she sat reflected a lady of taste and wealth, surrounded by comfort and luxury, yet here was Mrs. Donald Forsythe sobbing among the overturned toilet articles of her dressing table.

Once more she had gone over the whole affair and once more she had come out at the same place. And then she had started at this place and thought it backwards from the something that had come between them to the day when they first had met at Great-Aunt Nancy's (if one could really call it a meeting when she had hung dangling from an apple tree by the belt of her blue gingham dress and he had come running through the orchard in time to rescue her). She has been seven then, and every year after since, for two warm Summer weeks, they had enjoyed each other, the curly-haired girl at Aunt Nancy's and the clear-eyed boy next door. Finally, two Summers ago, mother and father and all the aunts and uncles and nieces and nephews had flocked to the dear old farm, where Sarah Emily and Donald were married under the very bough from which the bride had dangled 15 years ago.

Then had come their life in the big house in the city, where her world was filled with pleasure and his with business, until gradually so many people interested them that they rarely found each other.

Suddenly she raised her head and dried her eyes on the silken ruffles of her negligee. Tomorrow Don would start on a week's business trip and she—she would—go to visit Uncle Joe and Aunt Nancy, although there would be no boy next door.

Aunt Nancy, looking up from her knitting, saw the big blue limousine as it turned into the drive. "Joseph," she called, "it's Don and Sarah." But as the chauffeur opened the door Sarah Emily alone emerged. She rushed up the walk and was clasped in her aunt's arms and patted by Uncle Joe.

"Where is Donald?" But their niece, instead of answering, quickly commenced asking questions about Peter, the horse, and Daisy and Brindle and Rover and—Did they know she had come to stay a week? And then she laughed and cried together on Aunt Nancy's plump shoulder.

Aunt Nancy watched her niece, because, for the next few days, she feighned interest in everything but was really interested in nothing, and every night she asked her Lord to show her what He would have to do.

The next day Sarah Emily walked slowly to the orchard and stood on the spot where she and Donald had been married. Everything was the same except the cold place where her heart used to be. Even the path which led from his house and the white gate through which he always came—and was coming now! She did have a heart, after all, for it was in her throat and beating horribly. As she started to fly back to Aunt Nancy her head was jerked quickly back. This time it was not by a little-girl belt that she was hung, but by a grown-up hairnet. Before she could get away Donald was there. Then he remembered. "I didn't know you were here," he said quietly, "I was going to Aunt Nancy's, but—"

"I am going for a walk to the brook," she replied, then, falteringly: "I didn't want to tell them yet, Donald."

A pained look crossed his face. "You don't think I could tell them!"

Then he strode on through the orchard. Had he turned he would have seen Mrs. Donald Forsythe in a very undignified heap at the foot of the apple tree, but he did not look back.

That night Aunt Nancy stood in the door of the milk room and beckoned vigorously to her husband. When she had him safely inside she relieved her mind.

"Joseph, something's got to be done and we have got to do it. Them young ones are both too stuffy to give in themselves, so they've got to be made."

"Why—how——what—"

"I know why and how and what, and I'll tell you mighty quick. No one has told us that Donald and Sarah Emily are out, so how are we supposed to know why he is at his mother's and she is over here? Now, tomorroy morning I'll tell Donald that Mrs. White is sick and I got to go—and you got to take me. And can't he come and help Sarah Emily keep house. It may not work, but it's no harm to try until I can think of something brighter."

"But, Nancy, Mrs. White ain't sick! Seems to me to tell a lie wouldn't help a good cause along."

"Mrs. White usually is sick, so probably she is today; and with all the tramps that's been around here of late, I couldn't leave Sarah."

"Tramp, Nancy?"

"Joseph, two or three little lies like that may close the gates for me, but I'll risk it. Just now it ain't so much my life in the next world, but their life in this I'm worrying about."

So because there was no way out, Donald and Sarah Emily kept house.

Just before starting Uncle Joe went to the woodshed, with Aunt Nancy close behind. Safely out of sight, she grabbed his arm. "Joseph Brown," she whispered, "Don't you dare lug in one stick of wood!"

"But, Nancy, there is plenty of time and the box is empty."

"So is the pantry, but we are in an awful hurry. Come."

Just as they climbed into the carriage Aunt Nancy called back: "You will have to scurry around and find something to eat as I didn't have any time, getting called so early. You will get along somehow." They drove away.

Donald and Sarah Emily went slowly into the house. She walked to the pantry door and looked at the bare shelves. What Aunt Nancy had said was too true. The pantry was empty. At the same time he had gone to the woodbox with the intention of making a fire in the kitchen stove. He looked up at Sarah Emily just as she looked at him.

"Well," said Sarah Emily.

"Well," said Donald, and added, "I hope we are sports enough to make the best of it."

While Sarah Emily struggled with pudding recipes, Donald ran back for his roadster and rushed to the village for something for dinner, speeding lest the tramps should get to the farm before him. And when he came back she was working swiftly around the kitchen, humming a little tune—a happy little tune, Donald thought.

When he had broiled the steak (as he had done many times over campfires) and the rest of the dinner was ready, he looked across Aunt Nancy's table at his wife. Her face was flushed, her hair curled a little about her ears and—her eyes—her eyes were shining happily. "Sarah Emily," he cried, and she stretched her hand across the table to clasp his. That was all. But after they had washed the dishes and gone for a spin in the roadster they felt ready to talk about it.

"You shall have everything in the world I can get for you, Sarah Emily." But with a little sob she interrupted him.

"The trouble with both of us, Donald, is that we have too much. Only one thing more I want, a little house not far from here where we can spend week-ends and do our own cooking—and see each other."

Later they found Aunt Nancy's hymnal, and as they walked to the orchard they turned the leaves until they found the marriage service. Standing under their apple tree they read the lines together. Just as they turned to kiss each other Aunt Nancy and Uncle Joe drove into the yard.

While her husband was busying himself with the horse his wife was looking eagerly about for the young couple. When at last she found them she glanced quickly at Uncle's broad back and, dropping to her knees in the gravel of the driveway, she whispered fervently: "Praise the Lord all ye people praise His holy name."

The Fad

By Monte Darrell

THE modern craze had sneaked upon the youth of Sleekport, and all bowed down to the tyranny of "the very latest." Clothes, food, drinks, cars and games all were relegated to the ash heap after a brief reign as the newest, and gave place to the latest fad.

Eric Farley, the most sought-after bachelor of Sleekport society, was the ruler supreme of the new clique. He led them all in his pursuit of the most original and new of life's offerings.

And until that fateful Summer, not so long past, Eleanor Morse had been his playmate. It was vaguely understood that some day Eleanor and Eric would settle down and become the dignified leaders of the younger married set; that is, until Bea Senter breezed her carefree, jolsure hours of Eric Farley's life!

No more was Eleanor's modestly clad athletic figure to be seen after 4 o'clock at the country club, playing a genial, friendly game of golf; no more did Eric grin ruefully as Eleanor beat him successively and good naturedly on the courts; no more did the comfortable dowagers smile as Eric and Eleanor waltzed dreamily or fox-trotted skilfully about the club dance hall. In her stead there reigned a new belle, and Eric was fast forgetting his old haunts and friends in the pursuit of this latest lady's affections.

Eric told himself that this was but a fancy—a fad, that he would soon be interested in another newer fad than this exotic slip of a girl. But daily he grew more enamored, despite his earnest efforts.

His sport car appeared, shorn of its discreet battleship gray color, and decked Sol in its flamboyant red color scheme. Forgotten were his golf clubs (Bea could not stand the tedium of the game), and Eleanor took on a new opponent on the courts, while Eric sat and sipped mysterious drinks of Bea's concoction, lazing away the Summer afternoons allowing himself to get "soft" for lack of exercise, the while his mind became daily more drugged with the strange, flattering wine of Bea's attention.

And if Eleanor cared she was too sporting to show it. She maintained a gay comradely interest in Eric, and an aloof, cool friendliness for Bea, and while everyone else in their set was madly copying Bea's wardrobe Eleanor stuck to her simple sport clothes—to the faint amusement of Bea and Eric.

Like lots of fads, though, there is a back-kick to the final era of its reign, and this craze for something new and original wound up in a quaint manner.

Barry Whitney was promoted to a high position in the great mills that were the reason for Sleekport's existence and with his advent into the country club bunch a subtle, disturbing ripple of surprise took the place of good humored conjecture of yore. Barry was very much a social success, and he was not long in digging his way into the inner circles of which Eric, Bea and Eleanor were leading lights. And Barry was swift but sure in his prompt acquisition of Bea as his playtime pal.

While Eric fretted and fumed furiously, Bea continued to be rushed by Barry, assuring Eric that it was only a pastime that it pleased her vanity to be rushed by the most desirable of Sleekport's stags.

But playing with fire will sometimes singe one's fingers. Eric awoke one morning to the insistant ringing of his bachelor apartment doorbell to find a messenger with a telegram for him. It was brief and terse—and not without humor. It read:

"Barry and I married this morning at Clermont. Please forgive. Love. BEA."

For a brief, fleeting moment Eric realized that his god had taken supreme offering from him—his girl, for in that illuminating second before he summoned the laws of his life and resumed a mask of "I-should-worry," he knew that he had loved Bea—loved her as much as it was possible for him to love anyone outside his own selfish interests. And a momentary flood of self-pity sent him swearing profusely about his rooms, giving him a sweet respite in ripping Bea's photo from its silver frame and tearing it into tiny bits. Then his sanity returned and with well-assumed indifference he planned his day, wonderingly love what the latest bit of interesting diversion would be.

A Way to the Heart

By Parke Whitney

THEY were ready at last, Glenna Downing gave a final dab at her cheeks and smiled into her mirror, satisfied. Glenna was adorable. Everyone conceded it. Martha Dennis watched her soberly. Martha did not smile into her own mirror. She was not adorable and everyone knew that—or she thought they did. She was plain even to her name, and when you are young and plain—well, nothing much comes your way, at least not the things that youth most wants.

However, she was not envious. Her chum's beauty fascinated her as it did others. Besides, she loved Glenna, but—if only she might have been just a bit good-looking herself! She ought to be hardened to the experience, of course—this every-day occurrence, all eyes upon Glenna, herself wholly unobserved.

Today the two girls were leaving the hot, hurrying office for a whole month's vacation in the cool, green country. "A good time to forget my grievance," Martha said to herself sturdily, "and perhaps, just perhaps, the folks there will like plain faces."

Yes, of course Martha magnified her troubles. Most folks do. Always in the shadow behind Glenna's trailing glory, she had crushed herself into an unnatural silence and humility. But this vacation morn beckoned her from her retreat. While Glenna yawned over chocolates and a magazine, Martha gazed from the train window and fancied in the distance the outstretched arms of new and promising adventure. Glenna chuckled at her friend's absorption and accused her of romancing, then she disappeared again into the depths of her serial. She did not have to dream! Life was all romance for her!

At last the journey ended. The two girls arrived in the little town of Bannerly, and with the arrival came at once to Martha the overthrow of all her castles. When she looked into the steady, shining brown eyes of Herman Morris she knew that to stand aside for Glenna would cost more than she had ever paid before. Ordinarily, she could look on at Glenna's love affairs unmoved, save for the inevitable sense of defeat and loneliness, but not this time!

At his mother's bountiful spread tupper table, Herman greeted the "Summer boarder" heartily. Martha watched him as he gallantly assisted old Mrs. Brodwel to her place and dexterously seated in her chair. When the introductions to herself and Glenna came, she felt him sweep her with a quick, unseeing glance, while Glenna caught and held him as was her wont with men.

After that, as the time sped by, it seemed to Martha that he came from business a bit earlier each day, always ready for some pastime with the two girls. At first she went along with a sort of desperate determination. She would make him notice her—and he did. With his accustomed courtesy he saw to it that she was properly escorted.

"But I know the difference between politeness and devotion," Martha said to herself, brokenly.

Then finally, with an heroic resolve: "I'll leave them to their own happiness." So the next afternoon she pleaded illness and watched them hurry away, teasing and bantering each other. "And so pleased I'm sick," thought Martha. She did not catch the queer, indefinable look on Herman's face. Glenna did not see it, either.

If she had she might have been less tremulously glad. For this new friend was proving to be unlike others. Her heart was sure to skip a beat at his approach and he filled her nightly dreams. She who had meant to have years of good times before "setting down," was beginning to feel that she could easily change her mind now that she had met Herman Morris.

The dreary afternoon to which Martha had condemned herself was abruptly interrupted. Sadie, the maid, in deep despair, came calling for Mr. Morris. His mother had gone to her room too ill to talk and what should she do about supper? The cooking had never been delegated to anyone. Martha's eyes gleamed. She might be unattractive but she was not helpless!

"Tell Mrs. Morris not to worry. I will manage supper." And she did. "The nicest biscuits Mrs. Morris ever made," unanimously agreed the boarders, "and the very best croquettes."

Martha did not know of the conference between mother and son in Mrs. Morris' room that evening, nor did she see a certain peculiar expression rest again on Herman's face.

Several times during the next few days, when she could escape Glenna, she slipped away into the kitchen to lend a helping hand, though the mistress was again in charge.

"The finest little lady I know," Mrs. Morris confided to her son, and failed to note the acquiescence in his eyes.

Then Herman decided to appeal to Glenna. She was a good pal and would not fail him. So he began one afternoon on the lake, when Martha had again declined to accompany them. "There's something of great importance to me, Glenna, that I want to ask you."

Glenna's heart turned completely over once and she knew she was going to say "yes" much more promptly than she had ever intended to say it to any man. Then he went on and she heard as though from a great distance: "If Miss Dennis has not taken an incurable dislike to me, I wish you'd help me find the way to her heart."

Glenna gave one quick look into his troubled eyes, swallow hard and thought fast. After a considerable pause: "I think I know the route," she answered steadily. To herself she said, "People who don't happen to be handsome shall have no monopoly on sacrifice. I'll show them."

The next afternoon—she waved a smiling good-by to the two from her seat on the veranda. When they had gone a little distance the smile vanished and she watched them with tight-closed lips until they were beyond sight.

"I'm glad. I will be glad," she breathed. "Martha needs him and I—well, I can't have him, that's all."

Some time later, Martha still half afraid, said shyly, "Are you sure you don't mind that I'm homely, Herman?"

"Homely? Are you? and he laughed. "I didn't know—I didn't notice. I just saw you."

"You mean for me to come here?" he exclaimed. "I'd be glad to! In the city I'm up against competition all the time. Sybilla and I never once thought of such an arrangement—"

"I heard," said the old man, "I heard; and I never knew she was willing to give up so much. I want you to come here, Dr. Jim, and put your sign on my glass door in big letters, Sybilla!" he called strongly.

As Sybilla entered, flushed and anxious, her father chuckled.

"The doctor's thinkin' of movin'," he said.

Keeping Up Their Interest.

"How's this?" asked the solicitor. "In your will you've named six bankers to be pall-bearers. Of course, it's all right; but wouldn't you rather choose some friends with whom you are on better terms?"

"No. Those fellows have carried me so long, they might as well finish the job."

Thoughts of Moving

By Phil Moore

HIRAM KNIGHT hurriedly entered his old-fashioned parlor and approached the marble-top center table upon which rested the family Bible with its heavy leather mountings and brass clasps. He opened it, and slowly turned the yellow pages until he came to the one marked "Births," in fine Spencerian chirography.

Yes, Roberta Simms was right! Leave it to that village busy-body to keep tabs on the ages of all the girls in Shawomet. The page certainly showed that his last daughter, Sybilla, was 28 years old. How time had flown!

"Girls are almost on the shelf by that time," Roberta Simms had smirked, "and it is all on your account, Hiram. Sybilla is much too sweet to be left to stand alone after you're gone." Thirty-five years ago, Hiram Knight had been adamant to Roberta's blandishments.

Now, old Hiram winced. He had never before thought of that possibility, and it had taken that village busy-body to open his eyes. Well, she was some good. But to accuse him of having no thought for his daughter! He, who had done nothing else but think of the welfare of his children, ever since they were born, and particularly after their mother had died!

But Hiram Knight had been a subtle man, and none might know his subtlety. Not one of his four daughters, long since happily married, had ever suspected the unseen hand of their father guiding their various destinies.

There was Reuben Preston. Good stock, industrious, but tight as the drum that his forefather beat at Bunker Hill, and the father had decided that his feather-headed second daughter, Tabitha, was not for the likes of him. The astute parent, tactfully and skilfully, guided young Reuben's affections from his second to his third and thrifty daughter, who would not be so likely to run him into bankruptcy.

When Tabitha was 21, the father had insinuatingly urged the attentions of Tom Power, an older man, but with more of the world's goods than some others. Tabitha had been his wife these past ten years, and her silly head had been completely steadied by the sober Tom, who was also financially able to indulge her extravagances.

There was his one and handsome son Frederick, who had been the amorous object of a rich woman's infatuation. Ease, position and social prestige might easily have flattered and won him to an effortless existence, but the father showed him to himself as ultimately becoming nothing but a parasite, despising himself as well as others. Frederick married the country school teacher, and was now working like a Trojan to make good in his chosen profession.

Now it was Sybilla, the gentle flower of his flock, who needs must be the one to choose to stay with him regardless of her own future!

It worried him so that he became almost ill with fret; and one day he querulously told "Sybilla to call up Dr. Jim" in the city, and have him come out.

Dr. Jim Blair came, prescribed, and administered a sedative to the worried old man, who immediately became drowsy. Just as he was drifting off into sleep, he heard something just as Sybilla was closing the front door—words never meant for him to hear!

"He'll never leave this old home, Jim, and I'll never leave him."

Once more destiny had knocked at the door of his father-heart and given him his cue to go on with the play! Hiram Knight drifted happily into a peaceful sleep.

"He's a wonderful doctor—I'll be all right after another visit," he said the next day. "I like that man, don't you, Sybilla? He chuckled.

To Sybilla's gentle surprise, he arose and began to look over the old house with a new interest, as though considering certain possibilities, and then took to his couch when the doctor was announced. He grandly waved Sybilla from the room and turned twinkling eyes upon the doctor.

"There isn't a thing the matter with me," he declared to the astonished physician. "Have you noticed them building the new High school on the corner?" he continued irrelavantly.

"Why, yes, and it's going to be a big one—they need it badly around here—the population warrants it," said Dr. Jim heartily.

"A lot of people will move around here when it is finished. They'll want to be near, because of the children—won't they?"

"That's a fact, Mr. Knight—it will attract folks from all around."

The old man nodded satisfiedly.

"This old house is within a stone's throw of the school, church, drug-store and grocery store."

"Yes."

"I'm not sick," said Hiram Knight. "I've been worrying about Sybilla. I didn't know what was making her look so peaked, but I found out yesterday, when I heard you two talking. He looked in the direction of the front door.

Dr. Jim nodded soberly.

"You see," said Hiram Knight, animatedly, "you could use the front room for the reception room and turn the music room into a small laboratory."

Dr. Jim looked appreciatively at the high-corniced rooms.

The Ring of Promise

By Margaret Taylor

IT had been a hard struggle for Nora Chilson to keep her composure until Ben concluded his rather incoherent but perfectly understood statements, and she could flee to the sanctuary of this silent upper room. Her soft black gown intensified the unusual pallor of her saddened face, and Ben's words had set new fires alight in her weary startled eyes.

The closeness of their father's death and burial had stripped young Chilson to stark expression of his immediate purposes. The event had flung upon his life the grim fact that time passes with never turning footsteps, and he was panic stricken to grasp his own happiness without delay.

For the moment the duty-bound consideration of Nora simply had not existed in his consciousness. In the light of his own passion for Lois, he could not think about the elder sister. Nora had always been a fixture in his landscape, a guiding hand no longer wanted, now that he had been shocked to make bold claims to take his mate. He meant to bring Lois here, mistress of the farm where death had made him master.

So Nora stood alone at the window of that upper room, her widened eyes lifted to the distant hills. And she saw clearly that she must not bring the strength of her common sense to bear upon Ben. He had the right to choose for himself, the right to make his own life decisions. If they were not so excellent as hers might be, was not a question. They, and the working out of them, belonged to him.

Ten years before, Nora, then his age, had made her great decision that she must try to take her mother's place at home; that if Alec Brett was determined to go to the distant city to make his fortune, he must go alone. She believed his best future lay in the farm he was deserting. Even now, her eyes fell from the hills and rested on the stand of weathered buildings grouped on the snow covered slope beyond the frozen river that separated its abandoned fields from the well-cultivated Chilson land. Her heart leapt as she saw a man close the house door and cross the yard to a chummy roadster that had been left standing in the highway. All at once she remembered having heard someone say that Alec was concluding the sale of his farm to a buyer for Summer occupancy. No one had dwelt there since he locked the door, ten years ago. So far as any neighbor knew, not even he himself had ever returned to cross the threshold. He had paid the taxes from a non-committal distance; the fruit had been gathered by whoever might take such liberty, or left to rot; the buildings had commenced to sag with unkept depression; the fertile fields had grown up to weeds and bushes. And Nora, watching the deliberate abandonment, stamped out her love as a silly waywardness of her stout heart.

What was it Alec had said about leaving her discarded ring in the box he had nailed up for letters in the box trysting glace? That cheap, birthstone ring he had purchased by stern deprivation from his boyish income! A pledge of what youthful inexperience, given and taken and returned, with loving touch and joy and tears!

Ben's suddenly asserted manhood had shaken Nora even more than the other events of the hard days through which she had just passed. Since the Brett farm was to be sold, she would keep that ring from discovery by wandering alien hands. As the auto disappeared around a bend of the country road she turned from the window. For the first time in years she thought tenderly of the love she had sought to kill.

The wintry sun was hovering low over the distant hills when Nora left the house in hiking togs. The snow crust held under her firm weight, and she raced down the slippery slope toward the old apple tree where Alec had nailed the box with its narrow opening, impulsively she climbed to reach it, and thrust her bare hand through the hole, her fingers feeling among the accumulation of dust and leaves. There was the ring!

But she could not then withdraw her hand! The more she tried the more impossible it became. She dared not release her other hand from its grasp on the tree trunk, lest she fall. The sun had set, and the snow glowed with reflection from the crimson sky. The twilight coldness chilled her to the bone.

At last the very desperateness of her situation calmed Nora's spirit. Had she not strength to tear the very box apart? Or at least to wrench it from the tree? But that, too, had proven futile when she heard footballs crunching on the crusted snow.

And then Nora heard his voice.

"Hold on a minute longer!"

His strong arms tore the box apart so tenderly! And when he swung her down onto the snow she knew that not for one single instant had her trampling quenched the living fire of her love for him! With a surrendering impulse she lifted her sweet face to meet his clean, stern lips.

The man held her without speaking! At a moment of rare impulse he had remembered the trysting place, and, turning back his car, had sought to remove its token from

Where the Neck Leaves Off.

"Father," said the little boy, looking up from his picture book, "if I ask you a question will you answer it?"

"Certainly," was the affable reply.

"And not get angry?"

"Of course not."

"Nor say it is time I was in bed?"

"No."

"Well, what I want to know is, where does a snake begin when it wags its tail?"

Davis Walsh Finds Big League Teams Wracked With Ills

Giants Mighty Unformidable Without Rogers Hornsby Is Shown

Athletics Grey-Haired Outfield May Let In More Runs Than They Can Make

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

NEW YORK, March 20.—Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker will let in more runs than they drive in this season, American League ball players claim.

Waivers were asked by the Cardinals on Tommy Thevenow, one of the brightest stars of the 1926 world series, about a month ago and then were hastily withdrawn.

The New York Giants are "short" on their spring development so far and don't look better than a fourth place club without Hornsby.

Bob O'Farrell, catcher-manager of the 1927 Cards, went South with a finger on his throwing hand stiffened from an old injury and nobody knows whether or not it has healed. Hafey, star outfielder of the same club, may never again have normal vision, according to observers with the club.

Thevenow Recovers

These were the outstanding impressions the writer brought with him from a swing around the Southern Training sites on and contiguous to the Florida Peninsula. The Thevenow incident has pretty well been "shushed" by Cardinal officials but the story seems to be predicated purely on fact. At least one newspaperman in the camp of the Phillies claims to have seen the waiver request while a manager of a rival club freely admitted to the writer that the request to waive had been forwarded to him. He declined with all haste and the request, probably a so-called "feeler" for a trade, was withdrawn in much the same spirit.

It may be judged therefrom that a month ago the Cardinals didn't expect Thevenow to fully recover from his broken leg of 1927. How they feel about it now is unknown, the withdrawn waiver request being the last heard of the incident by the rest of the league.

As for Cobb and Speaker, a well known American Leaguer summed up the current version of their appearance in the Athletic outfield by informing the writer that no longer was either man a major leaguer except in hitting. When asked why Connie Mack could be so readily fooled while tahe rest of the league was so smart, his reply was:

Connie Not Fooled

"Connie isn't being fooled any more than anybody else. We all are in this business for the money and naturally Connie wants his. He is figuring Cobb and Speaker for their box office value, not as probable help in his attempt to win the American League pennant."

O'Farrell and Hafey, it seems, were taken south with every precaution against adverse reports on their state of health getting abroad. Perhaps this very attempt has defeated its own purpose by creating an air of suspicion. Anyhow, I note that O'Farrell caught a ball game the other day, finger or no finger.

There can be no justifiable attempt, however, to conceal the fact that Hornsby's departure has left the Giants in that nebulous state best described under that most damning example of faint praise, "just a ball club." The Giants, in addition haven't been hitting, this being particularly true of Hogan and Welsh, the two young men who were sent to New York in the Hornsby transaction. As for the gentleman himself, he is troubled by bad feet but since this is an annual spring complaint on his part, nobody is worrying about it. Hornsby furnishes the most notable exception to this statement largely because he also furnishes the fact.

HUNTER WINS FROM DAVE ALLEN, 75-46

In a match game of billiards at McCoys, Cowboy Charlie Hunter defeated Dave Allen 75 to 46 last night. Allen showed up good but Hunter's superiority was too much for Dave. Hunter later gave an exhibition of fancy shots and will meet all comers Wednesday night.

Make Fine Record For Past Season

By "BUGS" WALTHER

New Castle high school basketball team concluded their 1927-28 season on last Friday night at the University of Pittsburgh stadium by dropping to Duquesne high in the championship play-off of the W. P. I. A. L. tourney.

The past floor season at New Castle has been eclipsed by but one other year as far as success is concerned, and that was the 1926-27 season when the red and black passers carried thru to the W. P. I. A. L. championship and advanced to the semi-finals of the state tourney.

Twenty-four games were participated in by the New Castle team this year; 19 of them were chalked up as victories and five were defeats. Outside of the league the locals had fair success, winning from Grove City on two occasions, defeating Farrell and also dropping the Alumni. Youngstown South defeated New Castle 19 to 18 and Akron South nosed out New Castle 24 to 23 at Akron.

Section III Champions.

In the W. P. I. A. L. section III New Castle finished in a deadlock with Butler high with 12 victories and two defeats. In the play-off game at the Pitt stadium the locals were victorious 36 to 21. New Castle's two sectional defeats were at the hands of Beaver Falls and Butler.

New Castle scored a total of 608 points this year against 383 for their opponents. New Castle suffered their worst defeat of the year at the hands of Duquesne high in the final game at the Pitt stadium, 42 to 13. Only one other team, Butler, scored more than 20 points against New Castle. New Brighton tallied 20 on their own court. New Castle scored their most points in a game with Mars high, 39 to 11.

New Castle had an almost veteran combination this year, composed of Captain Paul Reider, Paul Cuba, Alexander, Sillman and Ostrosky. Of the members on the team this year three of them, Reider, Sillman and Ostrosky, were veterans of the 1926-27 championship squad. Cuba and Alexander were the newcomers to the team.

Good Reserve Material.

The reserve strength of the New Castle high team the past season was fine, with Clark McClelland at center, Johnny Johnson and "Mike" Kulich at the forwards and Glenn Thomas and Charles "Tippy" Richards at the guards. Coach Philip H. Bridenbaugh was fortunate this year in having most capable substitutes to use at various stages of the games. All five of the reserves were members of the team last year and had had one year of experience.

At least five of the members of this year's team will be back in school next year and the outlook for 1928-29 is most encouraging.

At Tourney Three Years.

New Castle high school has entered the University of Pittsburgh tournament for three straight years and have won one championship. That is a fine record. Whether or not the red and black tossers will make it four straight tourneys next year is a question only time can tell. Incidently a team that defeated them in 1926 proved the team that helped as a stepping stone to their championship aspirations in 1927, but later proved their downfall in the quest for two straight titles, and the team in question is Duquesne high.

The locals had three players this year that rated all-W. P. I. A. L. material—Captain Paul Reider, Arthur Sillman and Tony Ostrosky. Cuba and Alexander were new to the squad and also the New Castle high team and while they showed good basketball ability could hardly rank with more seasoned veterans.

New Castle high has every reason to be proud of the group of players that has given the local institution a high place in the scholastic basketball circles of western Pennsylvania.

Sharon-Duquesne Battle Tonight At Grove City

Special To The News

GROVE CITY, Pa., March 20.—Sharon high school basketball team, champions of the N. W. P. I. A. L., and Duquesne high school, champions of the W. P. I. A. L., will clash at the Grove City college gymnasium tonight in the game that will determine the championship of the western section of the state.

The winner of the game tonight will advance to the state finals to be played at Penn State college.

Sharon won the right to meet the "Dukes" by a 20 to 14 defeat of Erie Central. Duquesne high triumphed over New Castle 42 to 13 at Pittsburgh on Friday night for the right to meet Sharon.

In The Hall Of Fame — By Feg Murray

When Lloyd Hahn broke all records for the half mile in a special race after the intercollegiate games at the 102nd Engineers' Armory in New York City on March 3, he served notice on the world in general, and especially on Lowe of England, Martin of France, Martin of Switzerland, Wide of Sweden and Nurmi of Finland that he is the potential winner of the Olympic 800-meter and 1,500-meter runs at Amsterdam next summer, in spite of all that they can do about it.

As for Peltzer of Germany, I sat with the Herr Doktor during the first part of Hahn's record-breaking race, and it seems that if "Otto the Bizarre" hadn't already had notice served on him that the Nebraskan was his master, he must have realized it then as he watched intently while Lloyd tore his (Peltzer's) world's half-mile record to shreds. After the first quarter Dr. Peltzer, sensing something unusual going on, got up and dashed up to the end of the banked board track and there sat down as close to the inside edge as he could get, and watched every movement of Hahn's well proportioned body as it went careening by him faster than Peltzer, Meredith, Lowe, Sheppard or anyone else had ever run the distance before.

Hahn's lap times were as follows: 220, 26-3-5; quarter, 54-1-5; and 660 in 1.22. It must be said that the track used for the indoor intercollegiate games is much the fastest layout in America, and Hahn admitted after the race that he thought the 4:13 mile in which he defeated Peltzer and Conger in Madison Square Garden three days previous would have been a 4:00 or a 4:01 mile at the 102nd Engineers' Armory.

Feg Murray Says—

"Speaking of 'talking dogs'," said a competitor in C. C. Pyle's cross-country marathon, as he stopped to rest his popping corns.

New Infielder In Chicago White Sox Camp Making Good

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service

SHREVEPORT, La., March 20.—Pretty much the same ball club, except for the addition of Chalmer Cissell, the Portland, Ore., $125,000 shortstop, the Chicago White Sox will start the impending American league race with only an outside chance of crashing permanently into the first division. The Sox were well up there for a while in 1927 but infield foibles more than counter-balanced good pitching and a fair punch and the Sox tumbled down so hard that they gave all the king's horses and all the king's men about as much trouble as Humpty Dumpty did.

In the field, Cissell has looked better than the various stare jugglers the Sox had out there last year. They have passed Roger Peckinpaugh and Aaron Ward on to Cleveland and have sent big Earl Sheely back to the minors, clearly indicating that they plan to rebuild the club upon the dash and fire of youth. Sheely still is regarded as a pretty good first baseman in this camp but big Clancy has youth in his favor and that, apparently, was enough.

Most of the club's regular pitchers are young, too. Ted Lyons, Vinton, La.; Alphonse Thomas, Baltimore; Ted Blankenship, Atoka, Okla., and George Connally, McGregor, Tex., will again try to get the Sox away running and all four of them have that youthful effervescence that is supposed to bubble to the surface in the spring. Urban Faber, the Cascade, Iowa, redhead, is back for one more season but the impression is that this old timer's string soon will run out.

Outfield is Set.

Charley Barnebe, Los Angeles left hander, also is back for another whirl completing the list of pitchers who have seen action under major league fire. In all, there are no less than 18 pitchers in camp, so there are at least four not mentioned who probably will stick with the outfit when the inevitable pruning begins.

This element of doubt is carried neither to the outfielder nor to the catching corps, however. The latter will be made up of last year's regulars, Harry McCurdy, Houston, Tex., and Clyde Crouse, Muncie, Ind., with Moe Berg, the reformed shortstop, ready for any and all emergencies. Berg has looked very good down here. Schalk himself might catch a few games.

Bib Falk, Austin, Tex.; Alex Metzler, Fresno, Cal.; the unfortunate Johnny Mostil, Whiting, Ind., and Bill Barrett, Cambridge, Mass., were the regular outfielders last year and are back to repeat.

Johnny Kusic Defeats Dugan

FRANKIE RIO WINS OVER BUD BOLLENGER

By ED FRITZ

ALTHOUGH BILL Jolly presented a quartet of tri-state stars and another quartet of good preliminary boxers to the fans here last night, he netted a gain of $10 after leaving the pay-off window at the Old Armory.

But the Jolly Fistic Circus performers furnished real action in every one of the four six-round battles, and indications are that when Carl Cavelli, former New Castle boxer, battles Harry Crisp here Jolly will play to a record crowd.

The show last night almost resulted in the knockout of Mickie Dugan, as Johnny Kusic had him on the floor for a count of nine in the second and staggered and hurt Dugan in the sixth. Previously Dugan had recorded a victory over Kusic.

It was a long, sweeping right that sent the Cleveland junior lightweight to the floor. He was groggy when he got up, but fought cautiously and managed to weather the storm.

Dugan Takes Third

Dugan's best round was the third, as he did not let Kusic get set and literally jabbed his nose off his face. Kusic staggered Dugan in the fifth and flashed again in the sixth.

Kusic had six pounds weight on the Cleveland boxer and stood several inches taller, which gave him a reach advantage. At close quarters the Cleveland boy excelled with a right uppercut.

Frankie Rio of Cleveland stepped against Bud Bollenger of Cleveland and he netted a decision, but for a time it appeared as though Frankie was due for a lacing.

Bollenger cut Rio's right eye in the first and won the round by a shade, as Rio seemed slow. Toward the last part of the round he got going, made Bud miss and shook him up.

Rio Drops Bollenger

Rio stepped from his corner in the third and once again became the executioner, lifting a left hook to the jaw that dropped Bollenger for a count of nine.

He failed to get the right leverage in his punches, and though he leathered Bollenger around the ring, he could not drop the Youngstown boy for the full count.

Rio forced the going in the fourth and Bollenger kept moving away from Frankie. The Clevelander took the fifth and in the sixth went after Bud in hope of landing a knockout.

He jabbed, then staggered Bollenger with rights to the jaw. Bud hammered Rio's eye and it bled profusely. Rio spurted and fought hard and sent Bollenger to his corner weak at the bell.

Roy Forces Fighting

Roy Minteer of New Castle and Jimmie Kaplin of Youngstown, bantamweights, fought six rounds and Minteer got a shade decision. He was outweighed several pounds.

The award did not meet with approval, but Minteer forced the fighting and had Kaplin's eyes rolling in the second as the result of blows to the jaw.

Minteer forced Kaplin, the boxer, to miss in the third and in an exchange near the bell in the third made Kaplin hold.

Kaplin retreated, firing as he went in the first part of the fourth, but in the last part met Minteer toe-to-toe and with uppercuts to the jaw and a right to the heart evened the round.

The last two rounds were filled with action, though Minteer forced the fighting and hit the hardest punches and the two have been rematched for next Tuesday night.

Bashful Oscar Gardner and Lou Pearl, junior lightweights, fought the opening bout. Oscar dropped Pearl in the first round, and in the fourth again it looked bad for Lou.

George Chip refereed the Gardner-Pearl and Rio-Bollenger fights and the writer was the third man in the ring between Minteer and Kaplin and Kusic and Dugan.

GEORGE KEOGAN

Notre Dame, for years famed as the producer of great football teams, until four years ago failed to raise much dust on the basketball floor. But then George Keogan, forsaking dentistry, came to the South Bend institution as basketball coach. Immediately the team was in the race for championship honors. In 1925 and 1926 Notre Dame won the title of western champions. Their work this season has been of equal caliber.

Keogan has produced some great court stars and has placed a man on the mythical all-western teams each year since taking charge of the team.

Red Sox To Start All Over Again; Carrigan Tells Boys Forget Past

Nine hopefuls Who Will Try to Bolster Boston Club

By NORMAN E. BROWN
Staff Writer for Central Press and The News

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 20.—As far as Manager Bill Carrigan is concerned, the baseball careers of his Red Sox players, unlimbering here for the coming season, and whatever it holds for them, began the day they arrived in camp.

This despite the fact that the ages of his hopefuls range from the modest 17 years of Joe Cicero to the 34 summers admitted by Ken Williams and Ira Flagstead, and their baseball experiences are of about a proportionate variance.

Carrigan, today, was discussing baseball in general, and Carrigan's team in particular, when mention was made that Denny Williams, another outfielder added to the roster last winter, had been with the Red Sox under Frank Chance and then dropped by Lee Fohl.

"I don't know anything about any of these ball players previous to the time they came to me," said Carrigan. And the tone of his voice made it quite clear that, furthermore, he didn't care.

Must Play Ball

"All I want is players who will play the kind of ball we want on the Red Sox this year."

Proceeding on that basis, Carrigan is making no predictions as to how his team will line up when the bell rings.

And he makes no predictions on the probable success of his efforts—thereby putting himself in the insignificant minority as far as big league pilots go.

The probabilities are, however, that his team will show few changes from that which wound up the last campaign—at least for the first few weeks.

But one new face is a certainty for the opening line-up. That is Ken Williams, veteran slugger of the Browns, who moved in over the winter. He and Ira Flagstead, the other real old campaigner, are booked to start in the outfield. And Denny Williams, from the Mobile club of the Southern Association, and Douglas Tait and Arlie Tarbert, former Ohio State star, will fight it out for the other berth.

Hofmann First Catcher

Freddy Hofmann, mainstay behind the plate last season, will probably get the call, although John Heving, tried out once before and star with Toledo last year, is set, according to A. A. fans, to carry his part of the burden.

Phil Todt is the only man that Carrigan will "place" in the infield at this time. He loomed up last year as one of the game's coming greats at first base. It's considered probable however, that Bill Regan will be at second, Jack Rothrock at short and Bill Rogell at third. These men were all that could be asked of youngsters last season under Carrigan's tutelage.

This chap Rothrock is one of the most impressive ball players to be seen in some springs. Well built, taller than the average infielder, and fast! Moves with amazing speed in beating out bunts and stepping around the bases. Handles himself gracefully at short, all the while covering a whale of a lot of ground.

Outfield Problem

Buddy Taylor of Philadelphia Athletics, Washington and other parts, is destined to play a utility role unless one of the youngsters cracks.

It was a wise fan who could call the outfield selections last season—Myers, Johnny Tobin, Carlysle and Skinny Shaner were among those who tried it, in addition to Tarbert.

Getting back to the maskmen, Carrigan quite naturally wants good catching. In addition to Heving and Hofmann he has Charley Berry, former all-American grid star at Lafayette; Ed. Connolly from the Dallas club and Ed. Doherty, a semi-pro prospect—but only a prospect. Carrigan may carry two of these the greater part of the season. The third will go to the Sox's Pittsfield farm.

Pitchers Young

Carrigan's pitching staff is young, and the fellows who showed up so well last year will have the call this year. There are Danny MacFayden, Charley Ruffing, Harold Wiltse, Jack Russell. Slim Harriss, lanky ex-Athletic, seemed to find himself under Carrigan last season and is after his place in the scheme of things this year in earnest.

Harriss has lost his inferiority complex. One hears him speak right out about a rival pitcher in no uncertain terms. A year ago they were all better than Slim—to Slim.

Jack Wilson of the Waterbury club, Francis Bennett from Portland, Me.; Herb Bradley from Waterbury, Bob Cremins, who had a brief trial last season; Eddy Morris and Merle Settlemire from Mobile, and Pat Simmons from Salem, comprise the list of those who will get what they deserve in the mound tryouts.

Temple Israel Quint Will Close Season

The Temple Israel basketball team will conclude their 1927-28 floor season tonight at the Temple Israel floor by meeting the fast Italian Star Invincible team of Mahoningtown.

The game will start at 8 o'clock.

Reports that Hugh Bedient, former Boston Red Sox pitcher, is seriously ill, have been denied. Bedient lives in Denver, Colo.

Lou And Babe May Fall Below Record

Babe Is Overweight And Lou Is Hit By Temperament

ABSENCE OF SHOCKER TO INJURE YANKEES

By DAVIS J. WALSH
Sports Editor International News Service.

NEW YORK, March 20.—For one reason or another, probably both, the headline act of Ruth and Gehrig is not going over with our southern public these days. The latter, in fact, were beginning to wonder rather audibly, as I was gracing the scene, just what it was all about as it watched the mighty pair swing lustily but to slight effect. There probably are few visions less inspiring than that of a home run hitter hitting terrific drives too deep for the catcher to handle.

That, anyhow, is what I left Herman Ruth and Henry Louis Gehrig doing and subsequent advices from the south have neglected to make note of any worthy change in the program. The boys apparently are continuing to hit them well out of the catcher's reach.

The source of Herman's ineptitude is not far to seek. As the pork butcher said to Mrs. Mehaffey, Herman simply tried to do too much with too little time at his disposal. He happens to be physically sub-normal at the moment. Gehrig's case, they say, is the usual one with young men who come into overnight acclaim.

"Temperament," is the verdict on Louis and, really, you can't deny that this is one of the nicest words we have for something else.

May Not Repeat Again.

In either case and both, the difficulty may be regarded as a temporary one. Herman being subject to fits of physical despondency and Louis being young enough to recover in due time. But, at that, the general idea among American League men is that both of them can't and won't repeat their lunatic hitting of the 1927 season.

This is one of the matters that gives Ernest S. Barnard cause to hope for a closer race. Mr. Barnard is something of a novice at hoping, having just entered into the spirit of the thing for the first time this year. But, then, he is being president of the American League for the first time this year and naturally the necessity of hoping in public finds him a bit off in his timing or something.

Shocker Is Missing

Another reason quoted us giving the American League cause to view the future with some optimism is the belief. Current among rival managers, that the Yanks won't get the pitching they knew in 1927. One of the claims is that Wiley Moore's sinker may come to the point where it will strike up—not out—terms of busy familiarity with the average bat. They say it is not written that his delivery can dumbfound the hitters for the best of their natural lives.

The absence of Urban Shocker, a good spring pitcher, and his consequential neglect to attain condition also points to a lack of pitching effectiveness on the Yankees, they say. This claim may or may not be borne out in full, as they said about the man who was carried from the bar. But it does indicate that the American League is rich in presidential material. All any man who can hope like this needs is a roll top desk, a box of cigars and a key to the vinegar.

Andy McDonald To Be Speaker

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., March 20.—Graduate Manager A. A. McDonald will be the principal speaker at the annual basketball letter banquet of Ligonier high school at Ligonier Friday evening, March 23.

Following the busy days of the basketball season here which closed a week ago Saturday night, Graduate Manager McDonald has had numerous requests to speak at high school banquets. Because of his close contacts with things athletic at Westminster he is able to tell high school boys many things which will help them understand the difference between high school and college sports.

The Daybook OF A New Yorker

BY BURTON RASCOE

Exclusive Central Press Dispatch to The News

NEW YORK, March 20.—An assemblyman from the Ghetto district of New York has introduced a bill at Albany aimed at prohibiting a rather gruesome practice. Not long ago a poverty-stricken family in the Ghetto lost a son, who died in a ward at Bellevue hospital. The family had no funds, and so they hurried about frenziedly trying to borrow money enough to bury the son properly. In two weeks they had scraped together enough cash for a cheap funeral, and commissioned an undertaker to take the remains from the city morgue.

The son was buried, but the parents were never permitted to view the body. A body that remains in the morgue unclaimed for over ten days is eligible as a subject for dissection by medical students. The poor young man's body was so used. Medical students had been studying the anatomy of the head, and in the course of that work had severed it from the body.

I like to visit the American wing at the Metropolitan but always, on the occasion of these visits, I am oppressed by the feeling of entering and profaning a hallowed shrine, so furtive are the manners and speech of the persons wandering elegantly around the rooms. I understand the whisperings and the nudging at the Public Library, where "Silence" signs put a certain clamp on the freedom of visitors. But I fail to see why the delightful rooms in the American wing should be clouded over with the hush of the funeral chamber. If I were curator of the place I should have hung at intervals tiny signs reading: "Visitors are asked to look pleasant, please."

In Forty-ninth street there is a restaurant which fines you if you leave anything on the plate . . . the food is excellent and plentiful, but you must take your appetite with you. . . .

The dreariest place to live in New York, to my mind, is the westerly fork of Greenwich Village. Those narrow, crooked streets that ray out from Seventh avenue west, and are haunted by the so-called artistic element, are just too depressing. Perhaps one of the most likeable neighborhoods is that of Gramercy Square, which exclusive block has a little locked park all to itself. I find upper Riverside Drive intensely bleak and cheerless. Upper Park avenue, for all its statelines, has the carven livableness of Grant's tomb. And all of these places, endurable enough in the winter, are to be shunned as soon as the first hot winds of summer blow. . . . I don't know why, at this early date, I should be contemplating the horrors of the good old summer time, except that my friends, who own their houses in the suburbs, tell me they are being deluged already by letters from real estate agents, asking them if they do not wish to arrange for summer rentals. . . . Last year we heard of some people who rented their comfortable large house to city folks and themselves went and lived in a stuffy flat in Brooklyn. . . . They saved quite a lot of money, enough for the boys to go to camp, and to pay the winter's coal bill.

Erie Pastor Goes To Philadelphia

Dr. H. B. Boyd To Succeed To Pulpit Of Arch Street Presbyterian Church

PHILALELPHIA, Pa., March 20—Dr. Harry Burton Boyd of Erie, Pa., has accepted the call to become the successor to Dr. Clarence E. Macartney as pastor of the Arch Street Presbyterian church at Eighteenth street. The announcement was made in a letter from Dr. Boyd to the congregation, read by Joseph M. McCutcheon, clerk of session. A similar announcement was read by Dr. Boyd in his own church.

The acceptance came despite seeming intimations to the contrary made by Dr. Boyd at the Arch Street church last Wednesday, when he declared that "one must discharge work before one's hands" and then referred to the uncompleted merger of his own and another congregation in Erie and to plans for building and financing an entirely new church structure for the merged congregations.

Original Document In Lee's Surrender Gets Into Court

(International News Service)

XENIA, O., March 20.—Disputing the claim of David R. Johnson, Cedarville, Greene County, to a document said to be the original copy of the order of surrender made by General Robert E. Lee to General U. S. Grant, April 9, 1865, Mrs. Nettie Farr of Cedarville a sister of Johnson, brought suit here to replevin the paper. She also asks to be awarded damages in the sum of $300, alleging that Johnson is wrongfully depriving her of possession of the document. The paper has a market value of $300 she alleges.

Mrs. Farr declares that she owned the document for 25 years, it having come into her possession with the family Bible and some of her other possessions was moved to the Johnson home, and the document was taken by the defendant from the Bible she avers.

Johnson's possession of the document recently became the subject of newspaper stories. His cousin was said to have been the owner of the document before it came into the possession of Johnson's mother who was a native of Culpepper, Va.

New Record For Rainy Weather Set In London

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20.—Rain in England is as familiar as the "bobbies" and the average Englishman takes the continuous spells of wet weather as a matter of course, but even he has received a shock from the weather reports for this new year, which not only surpass the records for the past six, "rainy" years, but give all promise of more decidedly wet weather.

These reports are amusing in a sense, for they show that there has been five months' rain in seven weeks. This discovery was made at the British air ministry's Moorland observatory, near Dumfries, Scotland, and brings to an end the high hopes which were held for a "dryer" 1928. Since January 1 the total amount of rain recorded at this observatory was 22½ inches. This is equal to what normally falls there up to the first week in June.

Since 1922 there has been a run of "wet years" and meteorological experts had expressed the opinion that this year would see an end to the unusually rainy period.

In the luxurious bathrooms of great stars and in the dressing rooms of the big film companies this soap cares for the skin of the most beautiful women in the world.

"Nothing is more important to a girl than lovely skin. A screen star especially must have rarely exquisite skin, 'Studio Skin.' I take the greatest care of mine—I always use Lux Toilet Soap for it keeps my skin so beautifully smooth that the close-up is no ordeal."

Mary Astor

FIERCE Klieg lights blazing down, drenching the stars' skin with light—the camera mercilessly recording! Only exquisitely smooth skin—"studio skin"—can defy the cruel lights of the close-up which permit of very little make-up.

Smooth, exquisite skin is essential for popularity, leading motion picture directors declare.

Every star in Hollywood knows that smooth, velvety skin means even more to her than it does to most women—it means her very career. How she guards it! Nine out of ten screen stars use Lux Toilet Soap!

It cares for their skin the true French way. For this lovely, white, fragrant soap is made by the method France developed and uses for her finest toilet soaps.

And the great film companies, following their stars' example, have made Lux Toilet Soap the official soap in their studio dressing rooms. Beauty is important in Hollywood!

You, too, will be delighted with the velvety bloom of your skin when Lux Toilet Soap cares for it. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Mass.

"Lux Toilet Soap is as fine as costly French soap—it feels delicious to the skin" says GRETA NISSEN (Independent)

"I have used Lux Toilet Soap and find it delightfully pure and refreshing" says BILLIE DOVE (First National)

"Lux Toilet Soap is a great help in keeping skin in perfect condition" says CLARA BOW (Paramount)

"A star has to have the smoothest skin in the world—make-up shows so in the close-up. I keep my skin like satin by using Lux Toilet Soap."

Vera Reynolds

Smooth skin essential—a statement representative of leading directors

"The most appealing single beauty a girl can have is certainly exquisitely lovely skin. A screen star, to survive the merciless lights of the close up that permit of practically no make up, must have rarely beautiful skin—'studio skin'. The beauty of her skin distinguishes every star I know."

Reducing Diets

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN
Noted Beauty Expert

Normal weight can never be a definite and infallible figure. It is so absolutely dependent upon height, size, bone, even nationality and modern style trend.

Fifteen years ago beauty was generously curved; today it's angular, tomorrow—and mark my prophecy!—the beauty scale will measure an extra 10 pounds! The pendulum is ready and willing to swing back to the graciously rounded contours of femininity. And I, for one, am glad of it. Pointed elbows and knobby knees are not beautiful, and no fashion in the world can make them so! However, unfortunately there are many of us to whom the 10-pound leeway is going to be but a drop in the bucket.

Of course the modern fad of drastic reducing is an actual health menace. No woman should undertake any more than a 15-pound reduction, except under direct medical supervision. No woman under 18—or child, I shall say, for I am not modern in calling our adolescents anything but children—should ever do any more than abstain from rich pastries or candies or eating between meals.

Vigorous exercise and limited food, followed by a day of laziness and French chocolates, aren't going to do one bit of good for you. A three-day fast, followed by six meals and "nibbles" and "snatches" in between times, will be quite worthless! Right living will standardize your weight, unless there is a functional or grandular disorder; and in any such instance you should be under a physician's care. Sedentary people usually eat more than active ones. It's a vicious circle. Perhaps they began eating too much first, and then laziness developed in self-defense of those fleshy tissues which detested the slightest disturbance which might stimulate healthy circulation and break them down!

There are so many tempting foods, unfortunately, which ruin the digestion, the skin and the figure. Candies and sodas and pastries and, in the nipping days of early spring, hot fudge sundaes, with hundreds of calories in each spoonful. I know it takes a heroic soul to practice self-denial, but while we aren't Spartans, and obesity is not yet a civic offense (and it might be), it is heartbreaking to be delegated to the stylish stouts, isn't it? Sugar, you see, is a habit-forming food. The more you eat, the more you want, and the more you'll weigh—which is a dreadful thing to contemplate.

A reducing diet may contain from 1,000 to 1,500 calories a day. With the proper exercise you can cut down one-fourth pound a week—or at the most, one pound.

Choose your food wisely, and you will never need to resort to pills and potions for your weight.

LUCKY TIGER

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 20.—Intoxicated chickens today attracted the attention of scores of persons who happened to be in the vicinity of the home of Patsy Yanopet of Mt. Sterling when officers raided the residence. The officers confiscated 200 gallons of moonshine, 1,500 gallons of mash, 300 pounds of rye, 200 pounds of sugar and a 75-gallon still.

As the mash was poured out, it was devoured by chickens, that later staggered around, some dropping over and fluttering about on the ground. Yanopet was held in $2,500 bail.

Question of the day: Who was the last person who borrowed my lawn roller last summer?

Asserts Hotel Clerk Has His Woes Also

If given the time and the opportunity, William H. Huskamp, room clerk at The Castleton, could write a mighty tome on What Every Young Hotel Clerk Should Know, incorporating in it the many idiosyncrasies of the average American man and woman when they are traveling.

"Yes," he says, "it is the job, no, the duty, of every youg hotel clerk to grin and bear it. No matter how many woes of his own he has to think about, yet he must listen to the grief of at least 90 per cent of his guests.

"'Yes madam,' you must say, 'I'll see that the heat is turned on in your room. I'm sorry that you were annoyed.'

"Or it may be 'No Miss, no mail this morning. No I'm sorry no letter. Not even a post card. Yes Miss if anything comes for you I'll be sure to put it in your box. Well, sometimes letters are delayed. Oh yes, we take special care of telegrams. Yes, I'll be glad to take care of it personally for you. Oh, that's all right; don't mention it.'"

And then, says Mr. Huskamp, there are the guests who have had a room the last time that they were in the city, like the room and nothing else will do. These are particularly hard to please. Even if we have a guest in the room they ask that he be ejected at once so that they can have the room. And even if the other guest has registered for a period of two weeks or more they say that they are sure that the man won't stay that long and can't they please have his room at once?

"Sometimes if it is a lady we ask the man to move but often the lady will finally consent to take another room" says Mr. Huskamp.

So, he winds up the next time you see the hotel clerk all smiles, remember that there may be a head full of other people's grief behind that painted grin.

German Hydroplanes Now Supplied With New 'Lifting Powder'

(International News Service)

BERLIN, March 20.—A mystery powder which makes ships and hydroplanes unsinkable, lifts sunken submarines and other vessels in a short time and enables individual persons to carry their life preserver in their coat pocket has been invented by Rudolf Marcks, former government commissioner and now head of the firm Marcks & Co., of Berlin.

Experiments with this powder have been so successful that the Lufthansa, the German air traffic company, has equipped all of its hydroplanes with it.

The secret of this mystery powder is that it generates large amounts of gas as soon as it gets into contact with water. This gas, as light as air fills up air-tight bags which are folded into a small package over the powder container; the bags expand, displace that much water and lift or keep afloat whatever they are attached to.

RESCUED FROM EXPOSURE DEATH

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 20.—Almost covered by snow, Casmer Cyrnik, 44, was found last night lying along the Rosedale road by a passerby who summoned help and the victime was removed in the police patrol to Memorial hospital. He suffered somewhat from exposure. While on his way home Cyrnik fell and was rendered unconscious.

Thousands Send Victory Six Slogans

Thousands of rides in the Victory Six are already resulting in thousands of slogans in the $20,000 contest of Dodge Brothers, Inc., this month to find the slogan that best describes the performance of the car. The contest closes at midnight, March 31.

From every state in the union and many foreign countries, letters are pouring into the Dodge Brothers Detroit plant. Many are from Victory Six owners, but the great majority are from owners of other cars who have received a demonstration in a Victory Six from a dealer or salesman. Any one is eligible to enter the contest except employes of Dodge Brothers, their dealers, service men and their families. The only requirements are that slogans must be submitted after a demonstration in a Victory Six, must be ten words or less in length and must be mailed not later than March 31. A total of 708 prizes will be awarded, with a first prize of $1,000.

Various features in the performance of the Victory Six are forming the basis for the slogans. Some describe the power, others the engine flexibility while others are impressed with the low center of gravity and unique body construction that make for ease of riding and control.

Dealers are reporting unusual interest in their territory over the contest. Entire families are submitting slogans, and many are submitting more than one, apparently not being satisfied with a single impression.

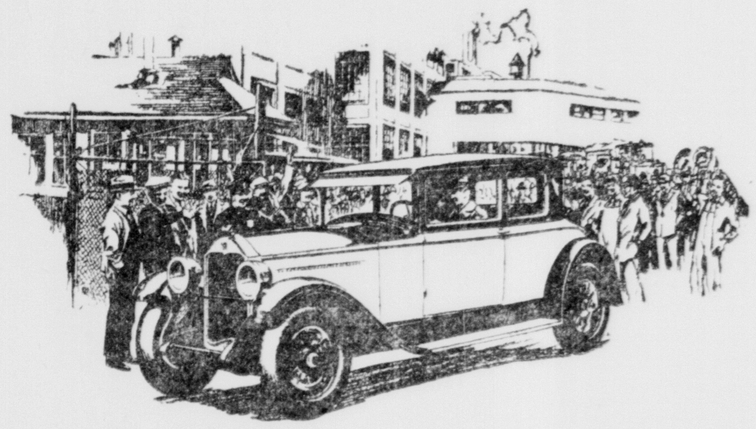
TWO MILLION BUICKS



The Two-Millionth Buick joins its Brothers on the road

A few short weeks ago, Buick thrilled America by building the Two-Millionth Buick and thereby establishing the most spectacular production record in the history of fine car manufacture.

Attainment of the two million mark is a noteworthy accomplishment in any motor car field; but it assumes epic proportions when considered in terms of a car of Buick calibre—a car which has won worldwide acceptance as the standard of comparison among fine automobiles.

Give thought, for a moment, to the deeper, more significant phases of this Buick achievement:

The world's purchase of two million Buicks represents a world tribute to Buick quality of almost three billion dollars.

Motorists purchased the first million in twenty years, and the second million in four years—striking proof of Buick's steadily increasing popularity.

The two million Buicks have traveled scores of billions of miles—almost four million times the distance around the world.

And today, fully 1,500,000—75% of all the Buicks produced during the last twenty-four years—are still serving their owners.

These facts constitute an unrivaled record of popularity, reliability and stamina—a record that becomes still more impressive with each new Buick that goes forth upon the highways of the world.

Supreme value—overwhelming demand—then still greater value and still greater demand—have formed the wonder-working formula of Buick progress. And this progress still continues.

The year just closed has been Buick's biggest year. More people have purchased Buicks during this period than during any other twelve months in Buick history. Buick volume, like Buick value, has risen to a new high mark.

Personal Campaigns May Be Year's Fashion

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Washington Correspondent for Central Press and New Castle News

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Styles go in cycles.

One fashion goes out and another comes in a third succeeds the second, a fourth succeeds the third, and so on.

But eventually, up bobs No. 1 again. It's as true in politics as in anything else.

After a long period of dignified, highbrow presidential campaigning the candidate sits on his own front porch and make the electorate come up and kowtow before him—party managers are beginning to sense a return to popularity this year of the more intimately personal method, of a generation ago—with the aspirants for office themselves on the stump and mixing with the multitude—lots of red-hot oratory—maybe even torchlight processions wouldn't "go bad."

Senator Jim Reed's pre-convention tour is given most of the credit for conveying the reminder that a public man can appeal to an auditoriumful of voters, face to face, a heap more tellingly than he can do it over the radio.

Perhaps the difference isn't so much in the appeal as it's in the audience.

There isn't the inspiration, sitting in your own quiet parlor, with a pair of ear phones on and listening to a speech, that there is in listening to it in a perspiring mob, pounding on the floor at every point the spellbinder makes, and yelling, "Ain't that right? Give it to 'em Jim!"

Of course a candidate has to have just the right temperament to make a successful "whirlwind campaign."

Senator Reed has it.

So has Al Smith.

So, likewise, has Charley Dawes.

Either Smith or Reed versus Dawes would provide a season of political meteorology such as this country hasn't experienced since the epoch of Col. Roosevelt, the elder, anyway.

In fact, it would be better than that, for the colonel lacked competition. This would be whirlwind against whirlwind.

Yes, Dawes could match whirlwinds with anybody.

'Erbert 'Oover, as his detractors are calling him, wouldn't be 1, 2, 3 opposed to a Smith or Reed whirlwind.

Either one would simply pick him up and spin him around.

It might land him in the White House, but he'd be as helpless as a teetotum while it was going on.

'Erb's cue, if they nominate him against Smith or Reed, is to sit tight in his cyclone cellar at the commerce department and let 'em rage.

It will be unfortunate for him to have to do so, assuming that the whirlwind method's coming back into style, but will be better than trying to adapt himself to anything so ill-suited to his type of beauty. It not only wouldn't be becoming to him—it would muss him all up.

A whirlwind campaign's harder to conduct these times than it used to be—the country's so much bigger.

A century ago, when the United States stopped at the Alleghenies, it was all very well, but it's a man-killing enterprise now, even to cover only the high spots.

Nevertheless, Reed's made the experiment, with brilliant promise.

Since it works so well, as tested by a mere candidate for a nomination, what wouldn't it do, most likely, followed up by an actual presidential nominee!

VETERAN CHAPLAIN SELECTS CHRYSLER

The Red Indian's trail, the pioneer's covered wagon, the stage coach, the railroad train and the steamboat, street cars, horseless carriages and their modern development, the fleet and beautiful autombile of today even the aeroplane—all methods of transportation developed in the fast moving progress of the Nineteenth and Twentieth centuries have been watched with interest by Chaplain James King Gibson during the 82 years of his busy life. But until very recently the veteran national chaplain of the G. A. R. knew them only as spectator and passenger. Salesmen found him immune when they tried to induce him to buy.

Not until Walter P. Chrysler gave to the world an automobile so full of new beauty, smart handling, flashing acceleration and dependablity that its appeal could not be resisted did Dr. Gibson fall from grace. A few weeks ago he went into the show rooms of the Barlow Motor Car company of Dayton, O., and came out the owner of a Chrysler "52" coupe, the first gasoline car he has owned.

With only a few lessons he mastered the details of gear shift and steering and he is now an enthusiastic Chrysler owner, driving through Dayton's city traffic with as much ease and certainty as any representative of Young America.

Some Changes In Courses Of Study

Two New Courses Are Added To Curriculum At Senior High School

The 1928-29 "Courses of Study" pamphlet for Senior High school students, just off the press, contains valuable information regarding the courses of study to be offered at that institution beginning with next September. The pamphlets will be distributed to the students on Thursday of this week.

Several important changes have been made in this edition, including the addition of two new courses, one a vocational drafting course and the other a home economics course.

The vocational drafting course will be offered to the boys at the opening of the fall term this year. It is intended to educate those who are taking it in the way of drafting, so that a full knowledge of the subject may be had at graduation time, permitting the student to enter either an architect's office or some drafting office at once. One-half of each day during the course will be devoted to drafting while the other half day will be taken up with the study of subjects related to drafting, such as mathematics, english and science. Boys who have previously had mechanical drawing will be permitted to enroll in the course.

The course in home economics, includes subjects in the care of foods and the house, household chemistry and custume designing, along with several academic subjects such as english, history and art.

Another change noted in the courses of study which will affect the academic, technical and general courses, is the substitution of world history in the sophomore year, instead of ancient history as has been taught heretofore.

In the commercial course, both in the bookkeeping and shorthand divisions, economics is a new requirement, having previously been an elective.

A minimum of twenty-seven credits is still necessary to graduate in each of the six courses offered, three of these coming from work in physical training.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 20.—The barking of a dog saved the family of Dr. E. B. Guie at Dunbar, near here, from possible death when it awakened the physician, who, suspecting burglars, went downstairs to find the house afire and filled with smoke. The dog had been left in the kitchen and when flames burned through the floor the canine barked. The family escaped and firemen confined the fire to the kitchen.

Noted Foman Judge To Speak At Banquet

Judge Florence Allen To Speak At Cathedral On April 30

Judge Florence E. Allen of the Ohio Supreme Court will be the speaker at the Business and Professional Women's banquet to be held in the Scottish Rite Cathedral on April 30.

The New Castle Club is very fortunate in securing this judge who has made a international reputation and is one of the most noted of women speakers, first having come to prominence in the presidential campaign of 1916.

Judge Allen is the first woman in the world to sit in a court of last resort. Before taking her seat on the supreme court of Ohio she was elected to the Court of Common Pleas by the greatest vote ever given any candidate for that court, leading a ticket of 10 candidates.

Besides her career as a lawyer, Judge Allen served on the editorial staff of the Cleveland Plain Dealer as musical editor, a teacher in private schools; and at home and abroad arrests attention and compels admiration.

Asks Funds For Giant Dirigibles

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 20.—Secretary of the Navy Wilbur on Monday asked congress to make appropriation for construction of dirigibles of 6,500,000 cubic feet capacity each—the largest in the world.

He suggested that an appropriation of $200,000 voted last year to begin work upon one be changed to apply to two ships. A great saving can be made in building two at the same time, he said. The department was unable to get a satisfactory bid on the ship, estimated to cost $4,500,000.

HUPP BUYER SELLS FRIENDS

One of the first purchases of the New Hupmobile Six of the Century in Portland, Ore., is among its most enthusiastic. According to officials of the Tarola Motor company, the car's distributor in that city, this man came back to their salesroom on nine separate occasions, each time with a good friend, found them almost equally enthusiastic after an inspection, and saw that their orders were entered. All this before his own car could be delivered to him.

"Astonishing things have been occurring in Hupmobile salesrooms ever since the moment the Six of the Century appeared," says R. S. Cole, Hupmobile general sales manager. "A man in Minneapolis had not planned to buy a car until a later time. When he saw this six he bought immediately, explaining that he could not see how so much motor car could be sold at the price. He feared that if he waited the price was bound to go higher."

A Few Words About BRAKE SERVICE

By Eric Bennett, Manager of Brake Service Company, New Castle, Pa.

More auto owners are realizing every day the importance of having their brakes properly adjusted, but the great question is—where am I to take my car to get the most efficient service that is possible.

Mr. Bennett is a trained engineer, having spent years in the study of all makes of brake systems, and this being his specialty, he is equipped to give you a real brake job, whether your car be a small one, or whether it is the highest priced one made.

In the relining of brakes, our policy is to install a brakeband of greater thickness than comes as standard equipment on your car. This extra thickness means a more substantial brake, longer service and greater satisfaction.

Our Service—All cars that we reline we service during the life of the lining. We have a good idea of what service our customers should get from brake lining, and know that we can reline your brakes so that you may enjoy the longest life from them.

While our prices may be a few dollars higher than you can get the work done for elsewhere, in the end our price is more economical.

We give real brake service—and guarantee our work as well as the material we use.

U. S.-Britain Give World Peace Its Surest Guarantee

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, Ill., March 20.—Friendship between England and the United States is the surest guarantee to world peace, John B. Atkins, economist and political editor of the London, Eng., "Spectator" told a group of Chicagoans.

"It is only a question of time until the United States and England reach an amicable understanding on the naval armament question," Atkins said.

"The failure of the Geneva conference was a severe blow to the hopes and aims of the English people, but an understanding eventually will be brought about.

"It is not realized in this country how necessary it is for England to drop her offensive arms, nor how much in earnest the Englishmen are on the disarmament question.

"We realize that the commercial prosperity which once was England's has passed to America. Because of this we realize that entering into naval building competition with you would be to court disaster."

Geographical differences were blamed by Atkins for the difference of opinion between the two countries on naval armaments. These, he predicted, would disappear as conditions changed, or would be ironed out thru necessity for maintaining peace between the two leading naval countries.

The English economist, however, could not be lured into making a statement on the anti-English campaign on which Mayor William Hale Thompson based his political campaign recently.

Foreign Mission Schools In Persia Plan Activities

(International News Service)

TEHERAN, March 20—Foreign missionary schools in Persia, including the American Presbyterian mission, may look for a resumption of their activities, since the minister of public instruction who ordered their work suspended by Mirza Yahya Khan Karagulalu, a reputed progressive.

A commission including Dr. Jordan, head of the Mission college in Teheran, and the under secretary of state for education, has been informed to take up the question whether there is room in Persia for foreign schools, missionary and others.

FLEET OF BUICKS IN CONSTANT TEST

Among the advances which a few years have seen in automobile manufacturing practices, few hold more significance for the driving public than the improvement in methods of testing the product, both during the experimental stages and after manufacture, states R. R. McVicker of the Buick Motor company.

It was no uncommon experience, in years gone by, to see test cars whizzing over the highways, piling up as many miles as possible between sunrise and sunset, largely at the expense of the general public's comfort and peace of mind. Variation in roads, weather and traffic conditions made the results of such testing rather vague and indefinite, even when an individual car completed the schedule run without mishap, which was by no means the rule.

Convinced that this system was both costly and inefficient, the General Motors corporation several years ago established its own proving ground near Milford, Mich., and arranged a program of standard tests, so comprehensive and scientific as to yield definite measurements of every phase of car performance, including such intangible quantities as vibration, contour and comfort.

A fleet of Buicks is kept at the proving ground constantly, reeling off the miles in an unceasing effort to detect points about design, materials or workmanship which can be improved.

Four Have Close Call For Lives

FREEDOM, March 20.—Four persons narrowly escaped death when the J. W. Gerheim clothing store, Third street, was destroyed by fire with a loss estimated at $30,000.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Gerheim, their son, John, and Miss Luella Barnes, teacher in the Freedom schools, were aroused by a burglar alarm and reached the street scantily clad. Mr. Gerheim was burned about the face and hands while assisting his family from the building.

State Doctor Warns Against Diphtheria

Assures Parents That There Is No Danger In Toxin Anti-toxin Treatment

"The amount of positive knowledge now available concerning the afflictions of the human race is actually amazing. Even more surprising, however, is the attitude of some persons concerning these matters," said Dr. Theodore B. Appel, secretary of health, today.

"For example, nothing has been more definitely proved than the power of toxin-antitoxin to ward off that most dreaded childhood disease—diphtheria. Yet, in spite of the spectacular decline in the sick and death rates directly traceable to the administration of an immunizing and perfectly harmless dose of preventive treatment, there are those who, believing rumors, and rumors of rumors, actually decline to see the plain virtue of the matter and refuse this protection for their children.

"A certain father last month 'had not been converted,' as he put it. The four-year-old child naturally had no power of choice. 'We'll take the chance,' said the parents. And three days ago it died from diphtheria—an easily preventable calamity.

"Six years ago this disease was attacking 15,000 to 20,000 each year in Pennsylvania alone. Moreover, it was killing nearly 2,000 annually. Both the number of cases and the number of deaths in some of the more recent years have been reduced 60 per cent. It is the aim of the Pennsylvania department of health to eliminate this disease as a health menace as soon as possible. One community in the commonwealth, by means of a most effective toxin-antitoxin campaign, is fast approaching the goal. Cooperation on the part of parents, school board, city and state health officials caused this result.

"The Schick test is a harmless method of determining whether a child will take diphtheria if exposed to the disease. Experience has proven through this test that approximately 90 per cent of young children show a positive reaction and are therefore susceptible to diphtheria. In view of this evidence the department recommends the use of toxin-antitoxin in all cases, which is effective in 95 per cent of those thus treated.

"In view of the small percentage not thoroughly immunized by the first dose, it is advisable after three to six months (the period necessary to establish immunity) that all children be 'Schicked'. One hundred per cent protection would thus result.

"These are the uncontrovertible facts. Do not be guided by misinformation. Protect your children. And do not delay!"

To Free Mercer From Corn Debris

Eleven Inspectors Appointed To Help Eradicate Corn Borer

MERCER, Pa., March 20.—There will be 11 inspectors of the 5,000 farms in Mercer county instead of the six appointed last year that will start work April 2, it is stated today by Meade Davidson, who will again have charge of the work.

The inspectors are those selected to see to it that Mercer county farms are free of all corn debris by early May in the drive being made to eradicate the European corn borer.

This county with Crawford and Erie are all in the state that are being inspected. The work is done this year under the state agricultural department, says Mr. Davidson.

The number of inspectors are doubled to make it possible to finish the work that much sooner. The borer made its appearance in this county three years ago.

It is estimated that the eradication work of 1927 reduced the hazard 50 per cent.

Shick Test Will Be Given Children

Over 1500 Children In Mercer County Will Be Affected By Test

MERCER, Pa., March 20.—We started Monday in the Mercer schools on the "Shicking" of 500 children given the immunization treatments for diphtheria in 1927.

There are 1500 children in Stoneboro, Sandy Lake, Fredonia and Mercer that will be affected by this test, it is said by Dr. S. J. Dickey, county medical director, who has charge of the work.

To date there have been 1500 so treated in Farrell.

Where the immunization treatment did not inoculate the patient, it is developed by this "Shick" treatment.

WHIPPET HELD QUALITY AUTO

Well informed automobile men continue to accord the Whippet the quality leadership in the light car field. They base this admission of superiority on the high standard of performance that has made this car conspicuous in the Whippet field since its initial introduction more than 19 months ago, and by a comparison with automobiles of other makers selling in the same price field.

More than 150,000 of these modern light four-cylinder cars are now in the hands of drivers, it being estimated that they have traveled a total of almost a half billion miles. Notable records for speed, power, stamina, fuel economy and serviceability have been established by the Whippet over the 19-month period.

Although the Whippet has proved the most popular line of cars ever built by Willys-Overland and has enjoyed a high sales volume since its introduction, officials of the company declare that indications are that all former sales records will be shattered for the year 1928.

"I USED TO BE ILL A GREAT DEAL"

Then ALL-BRAN brought new health

Mrs. Richardson wrote a free and voluntary tribute to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN after she had amply proved its value in relieving constipation and promoting health.

May 3, 1927

"I used to be ill a great deal. Through the winter I always had endless colds and coughs and was forever taking purgatives. Now I almost never have a cold. I haven't taken medicine or needed any for years. And I have better health than I ever had in my life. This is not just a fad with me. I have been eating ALL-BRAN for about four years."—Mrs. M. G. Richardson, 7528 Eighteenth Ave. N. E., Seattle, Wash.

Constipation causes dozens of troubles. Headaches, sleeplessness, aching backs, dizziness, sallow cheeks—these are only a few of the outward signs. But Kellogg's ALL-BRAN brings prompt, natural relief. Two tablespoonfuls daily—chronic cases, with every meal.

Doctors recommend ALL-BRAN because it is 100 per cent bran. A healthful cereal. Delicious with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Use in cooking too. Sprinkle into soups. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Needlework Guild Here Is Entitled To Two Delegates

Annual Meeting Of Organization To Take Place In Kansas City

Notices have been received by the officers of the New Castle Branch of the Needlework Guild of America, telling of the forty-third annual meeting of the organization, to be held in Kansas City, Missouri, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, May 3, 4 and 5, 1928, at the Meuhlebach Hotel.

This is the annual national meeting of the guild, at which representatives from various branches all over the country meet to conduct business, hear reports, make plans for guild expansion and development, and to become better acquainted with the guild, its functions and possibilities, as well as with the women who are carrying it on. An interesting three day program has been prepared, which includes social events as well as business sessions.

The size of the local branch entitles them to two regular delegates, in addition to the attendance of four officers who are invited. It is hoped that the New Castle branch may be represented and every one who is interested in the guild is urged to consider the possibility of attending. Attention is called to the fact that a convention of the Methodist Episcopal church is to be held in Kansas City in May, and any garment-members expecting to attend that could also represent the branch.

Will anyone who is interested, or who might possibly go communicate with either of the following officers: Mrs. James M. Smith, 1907 Highland avenue, president, or Mrs. W. H. Hanger, 118 East Wallace avenue, treasurer.

DANDRUFF
A Sure Way to End It

There is one sure way that never fails to remove dandruff completely, and that is to dissolve it. This destroys it entirely. To do this, just get about four ounces of plain, ordinary liquid arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it, no matter how much dandruff you may have.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop instantly, and your hair will be fluffy, lustrous, glossy, silky and soft, and look and feel a hundred times better.

You can get liquid arvon at any drug store and four ounces is all you will need. This simple remedy never fails.

Your children won't be little long, so keep them as they are today in pictures. Have them photographed every year.

Modern Youths Seek To Take Up Aviation

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, March 20. — They still want to run away from school to become cabin boys. But imaginative youth, according to at letter received at the Boeing Air Transport traffic offices here, has substituted ships of the air for ships of the sea in dreams of new worlds to conquer.

The letter writer, whose name is withheld, describes himself as a sopohomore in the mechanical engineering school at Vanderbuilt University and writes:

"I have read about the cabin planes you are to operate between San Francisco and Chicago.

"If there is a change for me to get a job as messenger or bell hop would you please write to me?"

NASH RAISES OUTPUT ORDER

Nash is off to a flying start for the 1928 season. All indications at the automobile shows held this year in various sections and in the country-wide sales demand which came on the heels of the recent Nash price reductions, point to another record-breaking year.

Each day, since the new prices were announced, the factory production schedule for February was increased, orders from dealers throughout the country are mounting higher and higher, and rearrangement of production plans has been put into effect to take care of the additional business.

It is pointed out that the company s manufacturing facilities, enlarged during the last few months in anticipation of heavier business during 1928 will be taxed to capacity during the next few months.

Announcement of the Nash price reductions come during the week of the Chicago automobile show, and action was immediate.

Denver Students Make Telescopes

(International News Service)

DENVER, March, 20.—Richard Haberl and Cedric Kaub, two Denver youths and graduates of local high schools, have found a hobby in making and using telescopes.

The boys have completed an instrument of surprising precision. They have no instruments with which to measure the curvature of the lense, but it is perfect to one millionth of an inch.

Their entire equipment is composed of a tin can with a hole in it, a razor blade and a kerosene lamp. Powdered carborundum was used to grind the mirror to approximately the right curvature, rouge was used. The piece of glass would be placed on the top of a barrel, and the youth doing the grinding would walk around and around the barrel, to insure even grinding. It took seven months of diligent labor in odd hours for the boys to complete their mirror reflector.

Their present telescope is powerful enough to separate the two stars that compose the north star as seen by the naked eye.

MOTORISTS MUST STOP ENGINES WHEN FILLING WITH GAS, IS WARNING

HARRISBURG, March 20—Reports received by the bureau of fire protection, Pennsylvania state police, Harrisburg, disclose a widespread disregard of its safety regulation which prohibits the filling of automobile and motor vehicle reservoirs while the engines are kept, running. Numerous fires and explosions, with resultant injury to persons and damage to property, have been caused by this dangerous practice, due to gasoline spilling and overflowing on overheated exhaust pipes and the ignition of gasoline fumes by back fire.

This violation together with smoking at places where gasoline is dispensed is punishable under summary proceedings with a penalty of $50 to $200 fine and a warning is issued by the bureau that where this hazardous practice is permitted or continued, prosecution will be instituted against the offenders.

KILLS MUSKRAT FAR FROM HOME

JEANNETTE, Pa., March 20.—John E. May, who lives at 414 Scott avenue, on a high hill, almost a half mile from any stream, killed a muskrat in his yard a few nights ago. How it got there is a mystery as a muskrat seldom goes far from a stream. It is presumed the animal followed the sewer from the run and came out a sewer drop near the May home.

AVOID UGLY PIMPLES

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Orang Outang And Tom Cat Are Pals In Zoo At St. Louis

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, March 20.—Down in jungle town at the local zoo all is well, but it took the arrival of Tommy from New York to dispel the gloom surrounding the cage of Bimbo, a new orang-outang, also from the metropolis.

Tommy is just an ordinary cat to the casual observer but to Bimbo, he is solace from a life of imprisonment. Bimbo was purchased in New York a few weeks ago for $1,100, but when brought here, she dropped and George P. Vierheller, director of the zoological exhibit here, feared Bimbo might worry herself to death.

Investigation showed that Bimbo during her stay in New York en route from her native jungles had struck up an acquaintance with Tommy by first grabbing the cat and yanking him into her cell and late by exchanging anecdotes that a homesick simian and a housecat will. So Tommy was brought here.

When Tommy arrived, Bimbo pulled him from his crate and the two friends had a reunion celebration. Now they are playing together daily and both are happy.

CHANDLER AIDS SAFETY MOVE

At this time, as never before, the factor of safe driving is being stressed by safety councils and various other organizations throughout the country. Today is an age of speed, when everyone is in a hurry to get here and there, consequently the necessity of greater safety in driving is apparent.

Sensing the need for a brake that eliminates great muscular strength to provide positive operation to avoid mishaps, Chandler is the first car in America to make a concentrated effort toward making the car safer to drive, through the adoption of what is termed Westinghouse vacuum brakes.

"In a recent message on safety issued by the national headquarters of the American Automobile Association, the following statement was made: 'Automobile manufacturers should build more safety into their cars in regard to initial manufacture.' The Chandler-Cleveland Motors Corporation claims the distinction of co-operating fully with this suggestion in instituting greater safety measures with reference to brakes."

Persia Still Fighting Special Privileges Of Many Foreign Powers

(International News Service)

TEHERAN, March, 20.—Although as early as last May the Persian government notified the various legations in Teheran that the capitulations would be abolished within one year's time, there is no chance of the special privileges enjoyed by foreign governments being scrapped within any such short time.

The question of the capitulations is being talked about in the newspapers, some of which go so far as to say that several foreign governments have agreed to abrogate the extra-territorial rights which their nationals have enjoyed for many centuries in Persia.

In spite of this agreement in principle, foreign powers will strongly resist the abolition of their privileges in practice, it is believed here.

M. U. F. CAMPAIGN HAS BEEN POSTPONED

The M. U. F. campaign at the Senior High school, conducted annually by the members of the school's Hi-Y club, has been postponed to the week of March 26.

Each year prominent business and professional men of this city are secured to take part in the "Move Up Forward" drive, their part being to grant interviews with any boy who desires to have a talk with them concerning the latter's future.

The campaign this year will be closed with an assembly for boys on Thursday, March 29, at which time a well-known man will deliver an interesting message to the students.

The time rapidly approaches when we'll have to keep a lookout to prevent our lawns being dug up by foreign looking ladies in search of dandelion greens.

Women Novelists Have Advantage Over Men In Natural Genius

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, March, 20.—The genius of the American woman novelist has given her a superiority over the lowly male writer which no amount of application or work can equal, according to Mrs. Mary Austin, noted author, speaking before the student body of the University of California here.

"Men must have special capacity or talents for success," she said. "Women naturally have genius and arrive at their goal without instruction."

The social pattern of the novel in the United States is a crazy quilt because its society unlike that of Europe, is not completely stratified, according Mrs. Austin.

You can't make the rising generation rise by calling it down.

Long after your visit to the Motor Show you'll remember the style and luxury of the Nash group of fine motor cars. There is beauty and quality in coachwork by Nash certain to make you conscious of its fine character.

The color harmonies will strike you as exceptionally charming. Notice their depth and brilliancy. They are applied by the Nash deep-lustre process—an epochal accomplishment in motor car finish.

Notice the quality in Nash upholsterings—and their wide range of attractive hues—striking two-toned effects in black and mauve, smoke, taupe, turquoise, Baltic Green and many others. These fabrics are chosen from the looms of America's finest textile originators.

Notice, also, the liberal use of straight-grained and knurled walnut and walnut finish paneling—the steering wheels done in solid walnut with their attractive inlaid design—the comfort and luxury of Nash form-fitted seats, tufted and deep buttoned in the European manner. Authentic period patterns for the silvered interiorware add still another touch of style. Every detail is correct.

London Police To Polite Is Fear For Efficiency

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20.—The London policeman is famed for being the most courteous public servant in the world, and fears are now arising among the authorities that his politeness may be detracting from the proper exercise of his duties.

The question has been aroused by Sir Leonard Dunning, Home Office Inspector of Constabulary, in his annual report, in which he characterized the London bobbie as the "handy man of civil life."

A London policeman, in a day, finds himself compelled, in addition to his proper duties, to attend to minor accidents until the ambulance arrives, to escort school parties and women from motorists, direct people to various offices and places of amusement, state the time and place of starting of the last bus or train, comfort lost children, and investigate street accidents and collisions.

OLDSMOBILE IN DEMAND

Retail orders for the new Oldsmobile are being received in a volume exceeding all previous records, factory officials report. If the public acceptance of Oldsmobile at the many automobile shows is a criterion, 1928, is destined to be the greatest year in the history of this veteran company.

"Our tabulation of retail orders is not complete because of the volume reaching us daily," said D. S. Eddins, vice president and general sales manager of Oldsmobile. "But our figures now are materially in excess of sales reported during the same period in any previous year or at the introduction of new Oldsmobiles in the past.

"We have accurate reports on sales made at the leading automobile shows throughout the country and these record remarkable gains. In many instances the increases over sales made at the same exhibitions last year are in excess of 500 per cent. These exceptional increases are not limited to a few localities, but represent every section of the country."

New Companionate Marriage Termed Suspicion Buying

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 20.—Companionate marriage simply seeks to apply the commercial principle of buying service or merchandise on suspicion, in the opinion of Professor A. J. Todd of the department of sociology of Northwestern university, in an address made here.

"Companionate marriage is not companionate at all," Professor Todd contended. "It is in reality little more than sexual shopping or promiscuity. It is a degraded form of genuine trial marriage.

"The world has tried out free love, plural marriage, the sexual companionate marriage, wife lending and easy divorce. Hence these big words relative to the new marriage that are flung at us so devastatingly are, after all, not the revolutionary experiment of daring futurists but are survival of retrogression or apologies for personal dereliction."

Details

of Interest to all Motordom

THE new Hudson and Essex Super-Sixes come to the Automobile Show in completely new and arresting design, strikingly in advance, and at once brilliantly original and authoritative.

The full unity of their beauty is a swift impression, impossible to dissect; and yet a detailed study of the advancements is of interest not only to Hudson-Essex owners, but to all motordom.

Newness begins at the very front, in higher radiators on both Hudson and Essex—an effect that is further heightened by vertical radiator shutters. The motometer has been removed from the front to the dash, and is now replaced by handsome radiator ornaments.

Lamps are of Colonial design, and are of the parabeam type controlled from the wheel. Saddle lamps of the same type are mounted on the cowl by means of a crossing nickeled band. Fenders are of new design, full-crowned and beaded along the edge. This handsome design is carried back to the side-splash guards, which are deeper, and to the wider running boards which are provided with rubber mats and bound with aluminum strips.

The total effect of many interior details is an air of richness and finish. For instance, the panel between the windshield and the dash is finished in a rich burl walnut design, while, just beneath, the instrument board itself is finished in a polished ebony. Set into this background is the grouping of instruments, including the ammeter, oil and gasoline gauges, speedometer, and motometer, all indirectly lighted.

A buying wave that sweeps away all records—a public ovation of greater success to the most successful "Sixes" in history. That is the reception to the New Hudson and Essex Super-Sixes.

Boston and territory with 800 sales in 10 days; and Detroit and Wayne County, with 659 Essex and 107 Hudson retail sales in 15 days—an unapproached record—merely reflect the countrywide triumph. Everywhere dealers are reporting more than 100% greater sales for the first 15 days of January than for the whole of last January, which was the previous record.

Coast to Coast and Lakes to Gulf, the story is the same—enthusiastic showing, impulsive applause, intense and unparalleled buying.

It is easily the greatest Essex Super-Six in history. It offers $200 to $300 more visible value than its great predecessor which outsold any other "Six" at or near the price by overwhelming margins.

Come with the crowds who acclaim them the "World's Greatest Values." You will say the same the moment you see them. And place your order now to insure early delivery.

Modest Dress League With 1,000 Members Launched In Dublin

(International News Service)

DUBLIN, March 20.—With the bringing back of Irish women to the decorum of former days as its objective and the blessing of the Irish bishops behind it, the Modest Dress and Deportment League has been launched here.

Already the League is reported to have gained a thousand members, and recruits are said to be steadily coming in.

The rules framed by the League are as stringent as any made in a monastery, and include the following:

No woman must wear a dress reaching less than four inches below the knee. Dresses must not be cut suggestively or so loosely or low as to offend modesty. Under no circumstances must dresses be lower than the collar-bone at the neck for church services, and one inch below the collar-bone for ordinary occasions.

Sleeves must be worn to the wrist in church and never lower than half way down the arm on ordinary occasions, while transparent dress material is forbidden unless worn over a thick petticoat.

Ladies who join the League must refrain from immodest postures, loud laughing and talking in public and coarse and irreverant exclamations in private. Smoking among women is forbidden as being opposed to "womanly delicacy."

All-night dancing must not be indulged in, while another rule lays it down that modest costumes must be worn when sea-bathing.

The organizers of the movement claim to have the special blessing of the Pope for their venture, and the promise of His Holiness to bless all women joining the crusade.

French President Sets New Record

(International News Service)

PARIS, March 20.—Gaston Doumergue, France's pink and white faced president, familiarly known as "Gastounet", is one of the most genial men and a most active one, by necessity. It falls to him, as head of the state, to attend a variety of functions, both grave and gay, and in respect to the latter he made a record the other night by attending no fewer than three dances.

He first went to the annual ball given by the students of the Ecole Normale and after doing the honors there went on to a dance given by the Naval school. Following this, came a ball at Ecole Centrale where some of the students tried their best to have him join in an old-fashioned French waltz.

Of course he didn't get home to the French White House until the Wee sma' hours of the morning, but inasmuch as the president is a bachelor, he does not have to answer to anyone.

Prohibition isn't a real issue. An issue is something that comes out, and this stays in despite all the boys can do.

The Poet Welcomes Spring

THE FIRST SWALLOW

The gorse is yellow on the heath,
The banks with speedwell flowers are gay,
The oaks are budding, and, beneath,
The hawthorn soon will bear the wreath,
The silver wreath, of May.

The welcome guest of settled Spring,
The swallow, too, has come at last;
Just at sunset, when thrushes sing,
I saw her dash with rapid wing,
And hailed her as she passed.

Come, summer visitant, attach
To my reed roof your nest of clay,
And let my ear your music catch,
Low twittering underneath the thatch
At the gray dawn of day.

Coast Convicts Ask For Reality Books

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., March 20.—Convicts here demand reality in the books they read. This was revealed turning the pages of volumes in the prison library used by the 4,000 men and women inmates and noting thereon unsolicited scrawled addenda.

Novels and romance in which the hero blasts the plots of a villain and saves the heroine are met with sneers of disbelief.

Comment on the contents of the book is usually emblazoned on the fly leaf, with other criticisms scattered through the chapters.

The general comment is either "good" or "rotten." There are few intermediate remarks.

Dramatic tales are popular with the convict readers provided the author keeps within the confines of reality. But let him stray into the realm of the impossible and his prison critics will score his efforts as "hokum."

IMMENSE PLANT BUILDS PONTIACS

The average individual is thrilled by the immensity of the Pontiac Division of the Oakland Motor Car campany with its 35 acres of floor space. It was a real achievement to design and build it complete in seven months' time. It was the largest single factory building awarded in 1926 and contains in its equipment and design the very latest and improved refinements of automobile manufacturing processes.

In its total area the Pontiac plant covers over 1,440,000 square feet and there are more than ten miles of railroad trackage within the grounds and buildings.

In it one will find an outstanding example of the highest type of modern industrial efficiency. Every feature of design and every piece of machinery and conveying equipment installed in the plant were carefully selected so as to allow a minimum wastage of man power and permit a maximum utilization precision engineering and manufacturing processes.

Every part used in the manufacture of the Pontiac Six from the smallest bolt to the largest piece of steel is minutely inspected at every operation and in passing through the various manufacturing processes is subjected to a series of tests and rigid precision limits unsurpased by any manufacturer in the Pontiac class—an outstanding example of precision engineering and manufacture on a volume basis.

GENERAL ELECTRIC Refrigerator

When you buy an electric refrigerator, do a bit of investigating on your own. Look under the cabinet, look carefully inside it, and, above all things, listen to it.

When you look under the cabinet do you find moving parts of machinery or no machinery at all? In the General Electric Refrigerator, you'll notice at once that all the models are up-on-legs. This means an easy job cleaning under them. And it also means that all the machinery is safely sealed away in the air-tight steel casing which you see on top of the cabinet.

Look inside. Is there really ample food space? You will find in the General Electric Refrigerator that the chilling chamber is amazingly compact. It actually takes little more space than the trays in which your ice is frozen.

Then listen. This you must do. We want you to judge for yourself the quietness with which the General Electric Refrigerator operates.

All these things are vitally important. But be sure to consider, too, the organization which makes it. The General Electric Refrigerator is the product of fifteen years of research in the laboratories of General Electric.

Come in and see the many models. Notice their absolute simplicity. Make comparisons with other refrigerators. If you write us, we will be glad to send you a booklet which gives complete descriptions of the various models.

Time payments can be arranged, if you prefer.

Will Present Play In Local Church

Play In Mahoning M. E. Church; Other News Notes Of Seventh Ward

A play will be presented in the Mahoning M. E. church under the auspices of the Women's Home and Women's Foreign Missionary societies of the church Thursday and Friday evenings of this week. The play to be presented is, entitled, "The Old School at Hick'ry Holler."

The play is a comedy in three acts. As the name suggests the play is an old time country school. With school teacher, seventeen pupils, and visitors. It is the last day of school with a special program.

The characters taking these parts will not be disclosed. Giving the audience a chance to guess who is who. Persons taking part in the performance are people of the church. The play is a comedy from beginning to end. You will get a laugh at their odd names, at the costumes worn by the persons taking the part of the school pupils and visitors and you will have fun guessing who is taking the parts.

A feature of the program will be a number of selections by a band under the direction of Loy Gwin. The band will be comprised of members of the Mahoning M. E. orchestra of which Mr. Gwin is leader and others. Practices have been held the past several weeks for this play and it is being directed by Mrs. M. C. Adams. The play promises to be good with lots of comedy.

The play given a short time ago by the men of the church proved so interesting by letting the audience guess the characters that it is being tried again this time. Persons taking the parts will be announced after the play has been presented.

"Acts Of God" Law To Be Given Test In Suit Over Flood

INDEPENDENCE, Kas., March 20.—The "acts of God" law is expected to receive an unique test in the Montgomery county district court here soon. The question in dispute is whether such a law covers floods of record breaking propensities.

H. E. Fifield president of Fifield Construction company of Waterloo, Iowa, lays claim to $4,556 which amount he alleges to be due him for the construction of a 220-foot 5 arch concrete bridge near here. The structure was washed away before completed by flood waters of last summer.

The contractor declares he took all usual precautions in building the bridge but that the waters rose to a height far beyond that which county officials had told him was the maximum rise.

The claim has been rejected by the county commissioners and it is expected that Fifield will seek compensation through the courts.

Offers "Poor Boxes" To Help Britain To Pay Off War Debt

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 20.—Following the recent mystery gift to the government of $2,500,000 towards the reduction of England's national debt of over $35,000,000,000, many schemes are being put forward by which it is urged the debt could further be reduced.

The latest of these emanates from Viscount Sandon, member of parliament for a Salop division of Shrewsbury, who is urging Chancellor of Exchequer Winston Churchill to place boxes in postoffices and other suitable places where odd change can be dropped in toward the reduction of the debt.

There is little possibility of the scheme being adopted.

Meanwhile the exchequer continues to receive gifts of $5 and upwards from anonymous English people with the request they be applied to debt reduction.

Connecticut To Build Highway

(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., March 20—The old Boston Post road from Hartford to New Haven, by way of Wethersfield, where the witches were smothered in Colonial days, and Middletown, where war vessels were built in the Revolution, is to have a rival in a road that the state highway department is planning to build between the first cities of Connecticut.

The new road is to avoid the large towns from Hartford south and keep away from the Connecticut river which has the habit of wiping out highways almost without notice. A fairly straight stretch of 90-foot highway is projected through the villages of Griswoldville and Westfield Station, places that still have an ancient air, directly south to a point west of Middletown to connect with highways to Meriden and Durham.

Rehearse Raising Of Sunken Submarine At San Diego Pier

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, March 20.—Battle practice at sea is a common spectacle to the people of California. But experimentatal salvaging of warships is something new.

A report has just been forwarded to Washington of the successful simulation of the saving of a sunken submarine in San Diego harbor, it was learned here today at naval district headquarters.

The submarine S-27 was "sunk" alongside a pier until it rested flat on the bottom of the bay, 40 feet down. A diver was sent down from the S-28 lying alongside, to attach a hose line to an outboard connection on the "wrecked" submarine's water ballast tanks. The ship on the surface then pumped air through the hose until all the water was forced from the tanks, and in 30 minutes the S-27 was floated.

The experiment was made by way of studying conditions faced when the S-4 was rammed and sunk with the loss of a dozen lives recently off the coast of New England. The connection of an air hose line to the S-4 would have been infinitely more difficult, because of the deep water and the rough sea, it was pointed out, even though the outboard connections on the ill-fated diving board had not been jammed by the collision.

DRILLERS MAKE TWO FEET DAILY

KANE, Pa., March 20.—The famous "deepest gas well" of the United Natural Gas Company at Lamont is down 7,095 feet, having reached the red nedina sand. Hard drilling has made it impossible to make more than two feet a day. At last reports the drill had gone 15 feet into the nedina which is estimated 100 feet thick. Shale 20 feet through is anticipated. Temperature at 7,000 feet was 143 Fahrenheit.

They call it the bloom of youth, but there isn't anything especially youthful about terra cotta.

New Record For Hudson Motor Co.

Hudson Motor Car Co. established a new record in February with the shipment of 30,300 Hudson and Essex cars.

This was the largest February in the company's history, exceeding February of a year ago by approximately 5,000 cars. It is likewise a step-up of about 5,000 cars from January of this year. The announcement is made that schedules for March will rise still further to meet expanding business of the spring months. The Hudson plant is operating two and three shifts and employment figures are at a high mark.

"The early season of 1928 has fulfilled its promise of active automobile business from the very start," said the local dealer today. "January was the best January we ever have known and February has continued with a rising tide of buying. The public began buying motor cars early and has maintained this healthy interest. The mild winter has been of much assistance in stimulating the buying urge.

"In all recent seasons, the public has awarded its patronage in very large numbers to certain lines of cars. All motor car buying is highly selective; the public either likes certain cars very strongly, or hardly at all; and thus the sales of the fortunate lines advance while the general sales level moves much less.

"The reception which Hudson-Essex cars have enjoyed so far this year indicates to us that such a wave of popularity has caught them up."

Festival Choral Society; Some Interesting Facts

To some people, the concert tonight at the Scottish Rite Cathedral is just another concert, but to those who know, it has a far deeper significance.

A great movement has been started throughout the land to make our country a singing nation, and the organization of the people into great choral groups is the first step in this direction.

History shows that good music is bringing together into spiritual unity, the many elements that go into the making of a great nation.

About one year ago, New Castle and nearby towns pooled their musical interests, and organized what is now known as The Festival Choral Society, with the purpose to do its share in making good music familiar and therefore popular, the society entered upon a systematic investigation as to how to go about it.

Some interesting facts were disclosed. About 97 per cent of the people want the music sung in their own language; they want variety, not caring for a whole program given by one person; they want a goodly share of the music familiar music, free from intricacies which require a conservatory course to understand and last but not least they want the cost of admission tickets to be about that of the average movie.

With these fundamental facts in mind Mr. Patterson set about building a program for the society's first public concert, and after consultation with several of America's greatest conductors of choral music and a careful checking of various communities as to their reaction to certain types of music, the program, as it will be given tonight was laid out and prepared. The program opens with a splendid specimen of choral music by one of the world's greatest composers, "Hail to Our Native Land" march and chorus from Tannhauser by Wagner.

This is followed by a novelty, "Celestial Voices," by Alcock. There are no words in this composition, the chorus, by means of both closed lips and vocalized sounds, give the impression that heavenly voices in the distance are being accompanied by a string orchestra. The last number of this first group, "Still as the Night" is the familiar old love song by Carl Bohm, in a most beautiful setting.

The second group of the program will be played by Miss Annie Louise David of New York City, the world's most renowned harpist. This group includes, "Marguerite at the Spinning Wheel," by Zabel-David "Bouree" by Back, "Waltz," by Brahms and Spanish Dance, "Sequidilla" by Albeniz-David. Miss David plays this group in Period costume.

The third group is by the chorus, singing two negro spirituals, "Swing Low Sweet Chariot," and "Listen to the Lambs;" "The Old Family Clock" by Shaffer, a humorous number in which a part of the chorus tells the story of what the old clock has seen in its life time, while another section of the chorus imitate the ticking of the clock; "Nymphs," a descriptive number of the midnight revels of the nymphs, an original composition written by Mr. Patterson for the chorus, with lighting effects showing the coming on of night, the dance, and finally the break of day. A harp group follows, played in Chinese costume of more than ordinary interest, in that it belonged to the favorite wife of the former Emperor of China. This group includes Po-Ling and Ming-Toy and a day in China played by Miss David. The last number is a Choral Fantasia from Wagner's Lohengrin, by the chorus and includes the beautiful wedding music and march which has accompanied so many into married blissfulness.

The faith of the community in the Festival Choral Society has been demonstrated in the remarkable sale of seats, and a sold out house is undoubtedly the record for tonight.

Prevent Flu— Check All Colds the Modern Way

Families in New Castle Urged to Be Careful

While grip and influenza are so prevalent local people are urged to use this modern way of checking little colds before they become big:

Have a jar of Vicks VapoRub on hand ready for instant use at the first sign of every cold. When rubbed on throat and chest, or snuffed up the nose Vicks releases its ingredients in the form of medicated vapors which are breathed in direct to the infected parts.

To prevent colds lowering the vitality and thus paving the way for flu and pneumonia, they should be treated direct and instantly—as you would an infected finger.

This brings the total cash to $2,600, but Borah announced he will no longer give out the names of contributors.

Laundry Hint

Many mothers with electric washers have found it necessary to rub children's white stockings and men's socks on the washboard one at a time, which is very tiresome. By placing a few soap chips in the knees and heels you will find they all wash perfectly clean in the washer.

Americanism: A suspicion that people who talk about tolerance are up to something.

'CHROM' PLATE ON STUDEBAKER

Chromium plating is used for all exterior "bright metal" parts on Studebaker cars. As a result of the use of this new metal Studebaker owners are assured of bumpers, headlights, radiator shields and other plated parts which are free from rust or tarnish and which in addition are virtually wearproof, say officials of the Studebaker Sales company.

Chromium is even brighter than nickel when polished and is harder than the hardest tool steel. It is rust proof, impervious to salt and all but two acids and resists heat up to 3,000 degrees. It is practically unscratchable and so hard that even a thin film of it on other metal will cut glass. Finally it can be plated on almost any other metal giving a coat of complete and lasting protection.

Stamp Collectors Have Auction Sale

Club Enjoys Meeting At Y. M. C. A. Building On Monday Night

An informal auction took place Monday evening when the members of the New Castle Stamp Club held their regular monthly meeting at the Y. M. C. A. The entire membership of the club was present.

Jack Dunfee, a member of the organization, wishes to state that from now on all meetings of the club will be held in the Y. M. C. A. The regular meetings of the club take place the third Monday of each month. The general public is invited.

To show that there still is interest being shown in such an ancient hobby as the collecting of stamps, Mr. Dunfee tells a story of two boys who last evening walked from Lee avenue on the West Side to Sumner avenue on the North Hill, hunting the meeting. And when they got to Sumner avenue they found that the meeting was at the Y., so they had to walk back down the hill.

WEAK WOMEN SHOULD READ THIS

Men do not understand why women are so subject to occasional weakness and often real illnesses. The housewife often forces herself to go through a day's work when if her husband felt as miserable he would be in bed with the doctor at his bedside.

Much of this suffering is entirely unnecessary. A great deal of it is due to catarrh in the system—quite often unknown. The same mucous membrane as exists in the nose and throat lines all other cavities of the body and is subject to the same catarrh, with all its weakening effect.

Women Have Approved

The manufacturers of World's Tonic have many grateful letters from women who through the use of this remarkable medicine have been relieved of this weakness, and have gained strength to attend to their duties cheerfully and well.

World's Tonic has done this because it conquers catarrh, strengthens all bodily functions and restores vigor and strength.

Women who suffer will find it a great friend. It can be obtained for $1.00 a bottle of Paisley's, McKee's Kut Rate Store, Smith's, Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., and other good druggists. (224)

It pays to sell rebushing service

AS a specialized activity, or as a definite part of complete motor and chassis reconditioning, rebushing service opens up new avenues for worthwhile profits.

Elimination of squeaks and rattles by means of worn bronze bushing replacement is being discovered by an increasingly large number of shops as a source of extra dollars.

Those with an eye to permanence also find that the first essential in a service of this nature is unquestioned quality in the bronze bushing used for the work.

As a natural consequence Johnson Quality Bronze Bushings are preferred. Each is made directly from virgin metal, machined to close tolerances, ready for use. Each is guaranteed to duplicate in every particular the car, truck or motor-coach maker's specifications.

Underwriters Are Making Fire Inspection Of City

Under the supervision of the National Board of Fire Underwriters, whose agents they are, George J. Lyons, Stanley Quay Stoneseifer and George J. Robinson have been in New Castle for several days conducting an inspection of the fire fighting and fire prevention facilities of the city.

The three men will survey the fire department, the water system, telephone system and volunteer agencies, the condition of buildings, the location of fire hazards and the general condition of the city with relation to fire hazards.

This is the first survey made since 1914 and at that time a detailed report of the city was made by the National Board. A similar report will be made at the close of the present survey and will be available in perhaps three months from the close of the survey.

GREAT INTEREST IN FLYING CLOUD

More proof of the intense interest created in 1851 by the record breaking trip of the clipper ship Flying Cloud from New York around the Horn to San Francisco, has been recently brought to light by the discovery of a musty old copy of a San Francisco newspaper published the day after the memorable arrival of the Flying Cloud in San Francisco harbor.

This newspaper, called the Daily Alta California,, devoted several columns to the epic voyage of the Flying Cloud, most famous of American clipper ships from which the Reo Flying Cloud takes its name.

"The Flying Cloud—skimmer of the seas" is what the paper called her.

"Her's was the shortest time ever made and surpassed the hitherto famed trip of the Surprise, another fast clipper, by seven days. The arrival of the Flying Cloud in port created great excitement and crowds rushed to the harbor to obtain a view of her.

"The pride with which Americans of the Fifties followed the celebrated Flying Cloud in its record-breaking voyages finds its counterpart in the pride which led the Reo Motor Car company to choose the name "Flying Cloud" for its pleasure car models."

Try This Simple Method For Blackheads

If you are troubled with these unsightly blemishes, get two ounces of Calonite powder from any drug store. Sprinkle a little on a hot, wet cloth and rub over the blackheads. In a few minutes every blackhead, big or little, will be dissolved away entirely.

C. W. MATHESON JOINS CHRYSLER

Named To Newly Created Executive Position In Chrysler Organization

J. E. Fields, vice president in charge of sales of the Chrysler Corporation, announces the appointment of Charles W. Matheson to a newly created executive position in the Chrysler organization.

Mr. Matheson, who is nationally known as a merchandiser of motor cars, has recently been vice president and director of sales of Kelvinator, Incorporated, from which position he resigned March 1st to return to the industry with which his name has long been associated.

Mr. Matheson began his automotive career as a manufacturer, later becoming Eastern Director of Sales for Dodge Brothers and moving ultimately to the factory where he became General Sales Manager for Dodge Brothers Motor Cars and later Vice President of Dodge Brothers in Charge of Sales.

This association was succeeded by the position of assistant to the president of General Motors Corporation, in which capacity Mr. Matheson did special merchandising, analytical and plan work. He later became Vice President and Director of Sales of the Oakland Motor Car Company and under his direction, the merchandising program of the Pontiac Six was launched.

His extraordinary success in merchandising was a large factor in Mr. Matheson's selection to reorganize the sales structure of the Kelvinator Company.

In this work he has enjoyed the greatest success, but his interests have remained so largely with the automobile industry that persistent rumors of his return to that field have been current.

The announcement of Mr. Matheson's association with the Chrysler Corporation will cause a profound stir in automobile dealer circles where he is both well known and highly esteemed.

Mr. Matheson goes to the Chrysler Corporation in a new capacity. The Chrysler sales policies and sales organization will continue to be headed by J. E. Fields, Vice President in Charge of Sales; Jos. W. Frazer, Sales Manager; S. W. Munroe and E. B. Wilson, Directors of Sales.

Mr. Matheson officially assumed his new duties with Chrysler Corporation March first.

N. Y. STOCKS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 20.—Efforts of the professional traders to force prices of the speculative leaders to lower levels were met by a strong buying demand in various sections of the list at the beginning of trading today. United States Steel dropped back 1½ points on the news that the DuPonts had disposed of their holdings of 114,000 shares purchased last June, but the ability of the market to absorb this large block of stock was accepted as a good evidence of its underlying strength.

The strong market for the public utility stocks continued, with Consolidated Gas, North American and Electric Power and Light making moderate advances in active trading. American Locomotive led a rally in the equipment stocks, in which American Car and Foundry and Baldwin participated. The motors were dull and slightly reactionary, about 2 points. Chrysler fractionally lower, and General Motors off about 2 points. Victor Talking machine jumped 4½ points to 75½.

Plan For Garfield Shrine In Ohio To Martyr President

(International News Service)

CLEVELAND, O., March 20. — A shrine is contemplated at the birthplace of United States president James Abram Garfield, located at Orange, O., near here which is now unmarked, save by a dingy sign on a tree planted by the martyred president.

Scores of interested persons have promised their support in the erection of a fitting memorial to the 20th president, (who was shot and killed in the first year of his term as chief executive of the United States), on the site of the cabin, in which he was born, surrounded by the trees planted by Garfield located near a spring from which "Jimmy 'toted' water for his mother." Rev. L. L. Wood, one of the persons interested in the Garfield Shrine project, owns the historical property which consists of our acres.

Garfield was pastor of the Franklin Circle Church of Christ here before the Civil War and was elected President of the United States while president of Hiram College.

Proceed With Plans For Executions Of Woman And Husband

(International News Service)

MONTREAL, Que., March 20. — Doris Palmer McDonald, trembling at the fate that awaits her, and George McDonald, grim and taciturn, are scheduled to be removed to within the bleak confines of Valleyfield prison tomorrow to await execution on the gallows at dawn Friday.

Despite unconfirmed rumors that Doris' sentence had been commuted, the authorities proceeded with their preparations for the double execution. The condemned couple were convicted of killing Adelard Bouchard, a taxicab driver. Doris, an American girl, will be the first woman hanged in Quebec in about twenty years.

Officials were specific in declaring that the Federal Government has not acted on Doris' appeal for clemency. Even so, Doris and her lawyers, clung to the hope that a decision that would save her from the gibbet would be announced. They professed faith that such action would be taken.

Taxicab Outfitted With Radio, Gives Business Increase

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 20.—An enterprising cab driver of Chicago, Edward H. Belding has rigged up the interior of his car with a three tube radio set. The aerial is on the roof. Hanging on the side of the car is a daily newspaper clipping—"the pick of the air."

Belding reports that almost all his passengers enjoy the radio except the occasional wife of a DX "nut" who fails to use the device.

Tin Mill Bowlers Banquet Thursday

New Castle Works League Also To Play Teams From General Offices

Bowling league members of the New Castle works of the American Sheet & Tin Plate company will meet the bowling league from the General Offices at Pittsburgh on Thursday afternoon and evening, March 22, the contest taking place here.

In the evening the two leagues will meet at The Castleton in a banquet which is a general get-together affair. After the banquet the teams will play off the final games.

Each league is represented by three picked teams and is said to be well matched. The league from Pittsburgh are the guests of the local league during the day. John N. Crombie is chairman of the committee of arrangements for the local league.

CHICAGO, March 20.—Society matrons of Chicago are taking their pets to the veterinarians to have their noses registered. Fido's nose is smeared with black ink shoved on the register and there appears nose-lines which when recorded act the same as the methods of recording the finger-prints of criminals.

A prominent dog expert in Chicago revealed that lines in a dog's nose never change from the time it is 48 hours old to death except for an enlargement. The whirls of the lines distinguish one dog from another.

The Chicago police department has now added to its arduous duties the task of recording Fido's prints along with those of safe-blowers. Anyone can have the nose of his pet registered free of charge.

Wall Street Shows Interest In Sales Of Steel Stock

E. I. DuPont DeNemours & Company Sell 114,000 Shares Of Steel Stock

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, March 20.—News that E. I. Dupont De Nemours & company has disposed of the 114,000 shares of United States Steel Corporation common stock at approximately $14,000,000 at a profit estimated at about $2,600,000 was variously interpreted in Wall street today.

The stock was sold in the past week in the open market. It had been bought last June at $122 a share.

One reason among Wall Street financiers was that the Du Pont management had concluded that it was not wise for the company to extend its ownership in American industries. Whether this decision was voluntary or the result of official intimation from Washington and a matter of conjecture.

New Post Office Building Asked In Ellwood City

Congressman Swick Introduces Bill To Provide For New Building

SEEKS BUILDING TO COST $100,000

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 20.—A bill authorizing the purchase of a site and construction of a new post office building at Ellwood City at a cost of $100,000 was introduced in the House of Representatives by Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls.

The bill has been referred to the House Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds of which Congressman Swick is a member.

Ellwood City does not have a federal building and the Government is required to rent post office quarters at an annual rental of $3,800. Postal receipts have increased 100 per cent during the past decade, growing from $21,056 in 1917 to $40,376 in 1927. Aside from this the city is growing rapidly and in the last 10 years the population has doubled.

Congressman Swick also intends to introduce a bill for the erection of a new post office building at Beaver Falls, his home town. The Treasury Department has agreed to enlarge the present antiquated building which it believes will temporarily relieve the congestion at the office. It is estimated that the work will cost around $15,000 and will get under way shortly after July 1, next.

The congressman is now working on a draft of the bill he will introduce for the Beaver Falls project and is awaiting information concerning certain details before completing it. He does not know whether the bill should provide for the erection of a new building on a new site or whether it should provide for razing the present building, acquisition of additional land, and erection thereon of a new building. The land on which the building is now located has a valuation in the neighborhood of $100,000, it is estimated. The Post Office Department is of the opinion that the old building and site should be sold and a new building erected on a new site.

Every effort will be made by Congressman Swick to have both the Ellwood City and Beaver Falls projects included in the building program which is now being worked out by the joint committee of the Post Office and Treasury Departments. Passage by Congress of the Reed amendment to the Elliott bill which brings the total authorization for public buildings throughout the United States up to $200,000,000, has bolstered hopes for both building projects.

Roaming Round With Richards

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

These sloppy days are responsible for some inconveniences to pedestrians, especially when cars are passing by in the streets. But it isn't necessary to look for opportunities to swish up the dirty water onto folks.

The meanest driver in the world drove up Highland avenue Monday afternoon. Or perhaps not the meanest, say the second meanest. He was driving close enough to the curb to pick up the mush ice and water, and travelling as he was at 35 or 40, his wheels were spraying everybody he passed and women were jumping back frightened.

At one point a group of high school girls got sprayed, and they yelled to some friends who were following them. One of the girls attempted to jump to safety and slipped. Instead of steering out to the middle of the street or slowing down to avoid splashing, the idiot at the wheel apparently put on more speed and the girl was drenched from head to feet.

Several attempts were made to get the number of the car and if it was taken it is to be sincerely hoped that the number will be turned in to the police. Revocation of license would be about right for this chap, after he had done 30 days.

The very foundations of justice and safety in Lawrence county are imperiled. Some bandit entered the law library and removed part of the conservatory exhibit of potted plants which Mrs. James has cared for so tenderly in the past two years.

Sheriff Reynolds has gone into conference with his deputies and County Detective Fleming is lending every assistance to the case. Somebody must have stolen the plants. They were there, they are gone, ergo they must be stolen. Comes now the sleuthing.

New Castle's entrant in Cross Country Pyle's bunion derby, Lin Dilks, is surprising the country with his endurance in the coast to coast race. Dilks is now in 14th place and the country in which they are running now is duck soup for Dilks for it's hilly, and he trained on Pennsylvania hills for 18 years.

One of his fellow railroaders tells this story on him. He had made a trip to Painesville, firing an engine, and the trip used up about 16 hours.

After firing a freight engine for 16 hours the average man wants nothing more than a bed. Dilks was to deadhead back home but after waiting around a while for a train decided to run back to New Castle and did so.

Always loyal to a brother of the craft, the railroaders here are rooting for Dilks to finish first and in this wish they are joined by the entire county.

You will enjoy the festival chorus tonight in the cathedral. For several months now the chorus has been rehearsing under the direction of Paul Browne Patterson and the least we can do is to go up and hear the concert. You'll be surprised at the volume and quality of the work.

Twenty-five Years Ago Today.

J. M. Helman of Youngstown, O., was appointed agent for the Erie railroad vice A. M. North, who was promoted to the Newburg office in Cleveland, O.

The new roundhouses of the Pennsylvania and B. & O. were about ready for occupancy.

The school report of Superintendent J. M. Canon showed an enrollment in the city schools of 4869.

Small Town Gives Leap Year Dance Prove Popular

LOUGHBOROUGH, Eng., March 20—For perhaps the first time in English history, "municipalised romance" was organized here recently when, at the invitation of the mayor, 360 pretty Loughborough spinsters attended a leap year dance, each bringing a partner.

It was the mayor's view that many marriages would result from the dance, which was staged in an atmosphere redolent Cupid.

Special sitting-out places were arranged by the mayor so that no shy young man could plead there was too much publicity. Alcoves embowered in red and white roses were dotted about the room. Each had a capacious armchair suitable for two.

Praises Feat Of Marathon Runner

Meermans Urges Citizens To Send Encouragement To Lin Dilks

Advertising, though exclamatory, worth many thousands of dollars to the city, is being given to New Castle through the feat of Earle Lin Dilks, member of C. C. Pyle's "bunion brigade," and himself a local man, is the opinion of Robert L. Meermans, general secretary of the New Castle Y. M. C. A. as told to an interviewer this morning.

"As long as Dilks stays with the leaders in the cross country Marathon race," declares Mr. Meermans, "New Castle will be on page one of almost every newspaper in the country. It will make the name New Castle familiar to thousands throughout the country who perhaps have not even heard of our city.

"The advertising which Dilks is giving the city is perhaps better than magazine advertising, because it will be seen by many more persons than any magazine could hope to reach.

"For this reason," states Mr. Meermans, "I believe that it is necessary for every member of the community to take an active interest in Dilks and his feat. Now his chances for finishing in the money look even better than ever, with the dropping out of the South Africa runner. Why should not the chamber of commerce, the mayor, and many of the officials of the city send telegrams of encouragement to the man as he plods his way across the country, to bring fame to his city. I believe that it is a worthy idea, and should be taken up by the whole of the city."
